JURY HEARS LINDBERGH STORY

GREAT INDUSTRY TO REVIVE WITH TRAIN BUILDING

Promises Jobs for Many Shopmen.

This is the fourth of a series of stories concerned with the interests of this city. Its text is "Make Chicago the First City in the World."

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Streamlined high speed trains, opening a new era in passenger railroading, also open, in the opinion of business, opportunities for substantial employment in one of Chicago's great industries, car building.

Pioneering on the new type trains was led by the Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company, and once modernization of America's railroads hits a stride it is expected to make work for many idle car shop men. In the Chicago district lies the world's greatest railroad car building pool. Here more cars, both passenger and freight, are turned out than in any like area.

Provide Jobs for 35,000.

In normal times when business is brisk 35,000 to 40,000 workers, mostly skilled artisans, find employment in the car shops at Michigan City and Hammond, Ind., Pullman and other Chicago district car plants, and in equipment, supply and allied industries. So they are as interested as the railroaders themselves in the urge to bring rolling stock up to date and recapture freight and passenger trafic.

Out of the Pullman shops in October rolled the first lightweight, streamlined train with sleepers for transcontinental service. It was of aluminum alloy, had six cars, a Diesel engine, and its weight was only a third that of an equivalent old type train. It was delivered to the Union Pacific and it made a record breaking coast to coast run, Los Angeles to New York, 3,258 miles, in a shade under 57 hours. The new streamliner knocked 14½ hours off an old record that had stood for 28 years and wrote another chapter of railroad history.

Three Trains Being Built.

Months before this the Pullman shops had delivered the first Union Pacific streamlined train of three cars, motor driven. Now the shops are at work on two more streamline trains ordered by the Union Pacific, these being nine car aluminum alloy trains.

Orders have been placed by the Illinois Central with the Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company for a five car high speed train. It is now being engineered in the shops and it is to be built of steel alloy, of great tensile strength, which will be painted like a regular train. It is to run as a mile a minute train between Chicago and St. Louis, planned to make the 294 miles in less than five hours.

New Designs, New Materials.

The story of Pullman pioneering in the "silver bullet" trains is typical of many great industries which during the depression have kept scientists, designers, and alloy makers busy improving their products. The new trains are regarded as "recovery babies," the children of research work in the laboratories. At the Pullman plant they are now working with new designs, new materials, and new standards. The workers are used to that. After the first all-steel sleeper was produced in 1907 the Pullman works had to be transformed from a wood to a steel construction concern.

First came the two aluminum cars exhibited at A Century of Progress in 1933. Meanwhile air conditioning of passenger trains to insure ease, quiet, and comfortable temperatures for travelers became a growing urge. The Pullman organization designed its own system, now in use on more cars than any other system in which refrigeration is produced on the car.

Take Ideas from Airplanes.

Designs of new high speed, lightweight trains were asked by the railroads. The Pullman designers took a leaf from airplane building, streamlining to decrease air pressures. Aluminum alloy for the Union Pacific, steel alloy for the Illinois Central, the shopmen work with either of the alloys.

Meanwhile the Pullman organization also directed its attention to transforming street car travel through the designing and building of cars and elevated trains, lighter, faster than the present ones and more comfortable. Specimen cars are being tried out in Chicago with improvement of street car service in view, but that is another story in itself.

Charges U. S. Cutter Fired on British Ship

ST. GEORGE, Bermuda, Jan. 3.—(AP)—A United States coast guard cutter fired seven times at the British motor vessel Casanova outside territorial waters, the Casanova's master charged today at the end of a chase down the Atlantic from the Rhode Island coast.

Her supplies running low, the Casanova, registered at St. John's, Newfoundland, was here for fuel oil. The cutter Thetis had trailed her into port after seizing her off Rhode Island and then releasing her on orders from Washington, D. C.

Ship Was Drifting.

Capt. L. Bennett of St. John's, master of the Casanova, said his liquor laden craft was lying at anchor twenty miles off Block Island last Friday when the cutter came upon her. His craft had set out for the Bahamas from St. Pierre and Miquelon, he said.

"The Casanova was drifting, as her pumps were out of action, and we came to anchor twenty miles off Block Island to fix our exact position," the captain continued. "Seven shots were fired. The first two were blanks, but the others meant business. The last one dropped just ten feet off our stern. They seized us at 4:30 p. m. and released us at 10 o'clock. They must have had orders from higher up.

"They said we were in United States territorial waters, but I knew where I was, and I knew I wasn't. If any shots had registered it would have been another I'm Alone case."

Cutter's Master Mum.

Lieutenant Commander E. Zoole, master of the cutter, had nothing to say before his ship sailed this afternoon for Boston. Another officer of the Thetis, however, said the Casanova was within territorial waters about seventeen miles off Block Island at the time of the firing.

He was asked if she was drifting.

"She was drifting," he answered, "drifting just about as fast as she could go."

The Coast Guard Explanation.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—Commander S. V. Parker, head of the coast guard communication department, explained tonight that the coast guard patrol boat which discovered the Casanova believed the Casanova was drifting in American waters and suspected her of being a smuggler. Investigation showed, however, he said, that the Casanova had been just outside the treaty limit. For this reason, he added, the coast guard boat released her, but trailed her into Bermuda to prevent completion of any smuggling operation.

LAST TESTAMENT IN VERSE LEAVES HUSBAND $10,000

In meter and rime Mrs. Edna Holman Lozier, 61 years old, bequeathed her $10,000 estate to her husband, Lewis H. Lozier, it was revealed yesterday when the will was filed in Probate court.

Lozier, a commercial artist, lives at 7218 Quick avenue, River Forest. His wife, socially active in Oak Park and River Forest, died last June 13. This is her will:

I'm not getting old—at least so I'm told—
But I have thought oft, and do still,
That while in my prime I should take the time
To form and make out my last will.
So, therefore, here goes, for nobody knows
Just how or when one may go
From life's brilliant light to death's somber night.
I want to be ready, and so
Let this make it clear that Lewis Lozier,
My husband, shall come by all things
That I may possess, be it more, be it less,
When life's time for me folds its wings.
Sole executor he, without bond, without fee;
I wish to make that very clear.
He'll do what is best; then my soul shall rest
In peace.

J. Walter Nielsen, assistant to the probate judge, who admitted the will to probate, said it had been duly witnessed and was, therefore, legal.

Forty Striking Miners Stay in Pit on 8th Day

KATOWICE, Poland, Jan. 3.—(AP)—About 40 miners remained underground at the Baska mine near here today as their strike for continued employment entered its eighth day.

Approximately half of the total of 80 who started the "suicide strike" last week had given up the fight, and those who carried on were plentifully supplied with food and water. They were not believed to be in any immediate danger.

Wives Ask Intervention.

Wives of the miners yesterday petitioned the government to intervene, saying "our husbands are so stubborn they will die underground if they do not receive work."

The striking miners, who received their inspiration for the strange method of protest from a similar strike of 1,200 men at Pecs, Hungary, last October, are in an illy ventilated gallery 250 feet below the surface.

A few of the men are ill. Two days ago four of them came to the surface for a physician. The four were forcibly prevented from returning, but the doctor was sent down.

Mine Ordered Abandoned.

The mine was ordered abandoned by the owners because of the poor quality of its coal. The workmen requested permission to operate the shaft themselves as a coöperative enterprise, but the owners refused and went ahead with plans to flood the pit.

SOUTHERN WINDS EXPECTED TO END COLD BY TONIGHT

The cold wave which swept down on Chicago last night from the Mackenzie river basin in northwestern Canada, bringing near-zero temperature to the city, will be of brief duration, and will abate before tonight, Weather Forecaster W. P. Day has promised.

Mr. Day predicted that, under the influence of the sun and the shifting of the winds to the south, the mercury would climb steadily this morning and afternoon.

This will reverse the thermometer's movements yesterday, when it started at 37 above at 5 a. m. and dropped steadily 1 to 2 degrees each hour. By 9 p. m. it had reached 13 above. At midnight the unofficial reading was 11 above zero and at 2 a. m. today it was 9 above. The prediction was for zero to 5 above by 6 or 7 o'clock this morning.

Tomorrow, according to Mr. Day, will be cloudy and warmer, with some possibility of snow.

MOTHER PICKS OUT GARMENTS OF SLAIN BABY

Father Identifies 2 Ransom Notes.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Pictures on Back Page.)

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—In a quietly dramatic courtroom scene this afternoon the parents of the murdered Lindbergh baby told their stories.

Mrs. Anne Morrow Lindbergh, biting her lips, blinking to keep back the tears, touched with hesitating fingers the tattered undershirt which draped the tiny corpse found in a shallow woodland grave one May day in 1932.

"These are the garments worn by my son when I put him to bed the night of March 1," she said as she identified other pieces of apparel. She spoke in a low voice which did not tremble.

Lindbergh Follows Wife.

Mrs. Lindbergh was followed on the stand by her husband, the famous hero of the first New York-Paris solo flight. Col. Lindbergh, in short, jerky sentences, described the events preceding and following the kidnaping and murder. He was still on the witness stand when court adjourned until tomorrow morning.

Bruno Richard Hauptmann, charged with the murder and on trial for his life before the jury in Judge Thomas W. Trenchard's courtroom, listened intently to the testimony of Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh. He maintained his attitude of unconcern. He strode out of the courtroom at the end of the day seemingly unaffected by a story which had reduced a hitherto noisy courtroom crowd to a breathless stillness.

Mrs. Lindbergh Is Heroine.

The pathos of the day was furnished by Mrs. Lindbergh. She impressed the spectators more by her restraint and obvious struggle to control her emotions than by any open display of grief. Not once did she falter nor could it be said that at any time she wept.

Only by little signs, the trembling of her hands, the nervous twisting of her wedding ring, the rapid flicker of her eyelids, the compression of her lips, did she betray her tremendous strain.

Many a woman in the courtroom gasped in horror as Attorney General David T. Wilentz suddenly held up a ragged little garment, a dirty gray in color, and asked Mrs. Lindbergh to identify it. She touched it with the tips of her fingers and said quietly:

"Yes, that is the undershirt worn by my son. It was cut out from a flannel petticoat of mine by Betty Gow [the child's nursemaid]. He had a cold and needed such a garment."

Identifies Other Garments.

In turn she identified a sleeveless little shirt, also weathered by age to a dingy hue.

When the child's sleeping garment, turned over by the kidnaper to Col. Lindbergh as a token that he actually had possession of the baby, was given to her she took it and one hand caressed it. She had put it upon the baby herself the last time she saw him, she said. She was a witness for about 40 minutes and was not cross-examined.

Col. Lindbergh testified for little more than half an hour before the judge ordered an adjournment. Clearly, succinctly, he told of the discovery of the baby's absence from its crib, the night of hysterical search which followed, the wild scenes about the Lindbergh home in Hopewell as police, reporters, and the curious to the number of several hundred gathered on the grounds.

Finds First Ransom Note.

The famous flyer told of finding the first ransom note on a window sill in the nursery. This was the note, couched in crude phrases, with much misspelling, which demanded $50,000 ransom. Lindbergh told the note said the baby would be in "gut care"; he also identified the second note sent to him that raised the ransom demand to $70,000, reproaching him for making the news of the kidnaping public.

The state had opened its case in the morning with a statement to the jury by Attorney General Wilentz. That prosecutor asserted Hauptmann would be proved, beyond a reasonable doubt, to have been the kidnaper and murderer. Wilentz demanded the death penalty.

BABY'S MOTHER'S STORY

Mrs. Lindbergh took the witness stand at 2:47 p. m.

DEFENSE CHIEF CALLS KIDNAPING AN "INSIDE JOB"

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Edward J. Reilly, chief counsel for Bruno Richard Hauptmann, divulged tonight the defense would seek to show that the Lindbergh kidnaping was planned in the flyer's home, but that no members of the family were implicated.

Reilly made the announcement in a radio broadcast shortly after the court adjourned late this afternoon. He declared that apparently five persons were involved in the crime. He said the infant was not carried down a ladder from the nursery, as contended by the state, but taken downstairs and out of the house.

Called Inside Job.

"The defense," he said, "will establish that Hauptmann had nothing to do with the crime and that it was conceived in the Lindbergh home itself, but not by any member of the family.

"We will show that the kidnaping was planned and executed by a gang of five persons, whose names, naturally, we can not disclose at this time. Furthermore, the defense will prove that the child was carried from its nursery down the stairs of the house and out of a door of the house, rather than down the ladder which the state contends was used in the perpetration of the crime.

"Our attack on this prosecution testimony probably will begin tomorrow when opportunity to cross-examine witnesses will be afforded. We will show that this ladder never was used in the kidnaping and will attack the authenticity of photographs allegedly depicting the marks it made in the soft earth beneath the nursery window."

Plans Ordeal for Lindy.

Previous to his broadcast Reilly had announced that he expected to cross-examine Col. Lindbergh throughout the entire day tomorrow.

"Col. Lindbergh is one of the most important witnesses, if not the most important, in this trial," Reilly said. "I have an awful lot of questions to ask Col. Lindbergh, an awful lot of things I want answers to." The attorney repeated a phrase for emphasis, "an awful lot of questions."

The nature of those questions, he declined to tell, but one indication of what some of them might be was contained in the fact that other members of the defense spent a part of the day in the courtroom studying a transcript of the testimony of the trial of John Hughes Curtis, two years ago.

Curtis was tried here for obstructing the search for the kidnapers by hoaxing Col. Lindbergh.

CHAMPION HARD LUCK PERSON OF WORLD KILLED

Chattanooga, Tenn., Jan. 3.—(AP)—James Beasom, 56 year old colored man of Summit, Tenn., is dead, but in dying he won the distinction of being one of the "hard luck" champions of the world.

Stabbed by a Negro woman early tonight, Beasom was reported bleeding to death when an ambulance started for a Chattanooga hospital with him. The ambulance crashed into another car a few miles from Summit. Another undertaker sent his ambulance to the rescue, but it caught fire just out of Chattanooga, and it took still another ambulance to get Beasom to the hospital.

At the hospital the flow of blood was stopped, and after a stimulant Beasom set out to walk the six miles to his home in Summit. On the highway he was struck by an automobile and killed.

NEW CONGRESS AWAITS ORDERS OF WHITE HOUSE

Challenge Issued to Majority Party.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—With the Republican minority of the house challenging the administration to present a speedy recovery program and with the overwhelming Democratic majority in both houses awaiting instructions from the White House the Seventy-Fourth congress met and organized today.

After completing organization and formally notifying the President that the new congress is in session and awaiting his pleasure the two houses adjourned to meet tomorrow in joint session, when Mr. Roosevelt will appear and read his annual message on the state of the Union. Not until the President presents his program and his budget will the Democratic majority have a program.

"South in the Saddle."

The Democratic steam roller went into action at once, with "the south in the saddle." While the senate was resuming operations under the guidance of the Vice President, Mr. Garner of Texas, and the Democratic leader, Mr. Robinson of Arkansas, the house Democrats elected Joseph W. Byrns of Tennessee to the speakership and William B. Bankhead of Alabama to the majority leadership.

Although only 24 of the 69 Democratic senators and about 100 of the 317 Democratic representatives hail from below Mason and Dixon's line, all the important committees in both houses will be headed by southern Democrats by virtue of the seniority rule and the uninterrupted long service of southern members.

The first exhibition of the Democratic steam roller was afforded by the adoption of the rules in the house. Over the protests of the Republicans the Democrats forced through a provision requiring 218 signatures to a petition to discharge a committee from consideration of a bottled up bill instead of the 145 required by the rules in the last congress.

70 Democrats in Revolt.

There was an eruption of Democratic disaffection, a suggestion of the sort of insurgency which a quarter of a century ago proved the undoing of the Republicans when their domination of the house equaled that of the Democrats now. Nearly 70 Democrats, largely backers of bonus and other bills not favored by the administration, voted against the more stringent discharge rule. But with the Republicans they were flattened out by the steam roller operated by the administration leaders, who were taking precautions to assure the passage of such legislation and only such legislation as Mr. Roosevelt desires.

With the President's recovery efforts at a critical juncture which has impelled Mr. Roosevelt to undertake a radical revamping of his program, there is unprecedented interest in the message he will deliver tomorrow. The house chamber, in which the joint session will be held, will be packed to the doors by those who have been lucky enough to get tickets.

The President had virtually completed his message tonight. He found, however, he could not keep within the 2,500 words he originally contemplated. According to the White House, it is nearer 4,000 words.

Many Reports Afloat.

All kinds of reports are afloat concerning the content of the message which will outline the legislation the President and his party possess the power to enact. One rumor has it that Mr. Roosevelt will propose a central bank to handle the vast bond issues that will be required to finance his recovery program in the future. Another is that big business will get another jolt in legislation to put a crimp in holding companies and in privately owned public utilities.

The fact is, however, that few, if any, outside of Mr. Roosevelt and his secretaries know what is in the message. It is the most closely guarded secret in years. About all that has leaked out is that the President will present a gigantic public works program to make jobs for the unemployed which will cost between four and five billion dollars, and that either in this or a subsequent special message he will propose a revamping of the NRA, which is now in a chaotic state and is recognized even by many New Dealers as an obstacle to recovery.

One of the outstanding developments of the day was the proclamation of the program of the Republican minority in the house, which was made by Representative B. H. Snell, the Republican leader. Here it is:

"1. We favor the restoration of three coördinate and separate branches of the federal government—the legislative, the executive and the judicial.

"2. We stand for government by laws passed by the regularly constituted body for that purpose, and oppose this extravagant, burocratic government of the present administration, which has already issued 10,000 executive orders that have the force of laws.

"3. We favor the immediate return of all the legitimate powers of the states to the states and the subdivisions thereof.

"4. We advocate an honest and speedy balancing of the federal budget.

For Sound Money.

"5. We favor a sound and stable money policy, both at home and abroad.

"6. We favor permanent insurance of bank deposits.

"7. We stand for restoration of the merit system in government employment.

"8. We believe a protective tarif on all competitive products and strict enforcement of restricted immigration is essential to American labor.

"9. We are for abolishing all child labor and the sweat shop system of contract labor.

"10. We favor strengthening, not weakening, the anti-trust laws.

"11. We stand for honestly conducted private business and oppose the government entering the competitive field of private enterprise.

"12. We favor, as an emergency measure for the relief of the unemployed, liberal loans to private business at a low rate of interest as opposed to the many wasteful and extravagant expenditures now being made and without the restrictive features now imposed by the Reconstruction Finance corporation in making these loans.

"13. We favor a liberal legislative policy toward veterans of all wars.

"14. We favor every effort to take profits out of war and to promote continued world peace.

"15. In time of war we favor the principle of the universal draft.

"16. We favor ample care of the needy, aged, and unemployed, but maintain that the responsibility of administering this relief should be left with local communities.

"17. We favor the principle of job insurance to be paid for by the employé, the employer, and the state.

"18. We favor the principle of old age pensions and assert that both of these subjects are primarily state functions and obligations.

For Sound Legislation.

"19. We favor and will support all sound legislation to restore agricultural buying power and to enable the farmer to refinance himself in this period of depression, and further believe that the administration of agricultural legislation should be placed, as far as possible, in th hands of the farmers themselves rather than under a burocracy in Washington.

"20. We believe in freedom of speech and in the freedom of the press and in the freedom of the radio for the discussion of national questions."

Tacitly adverting to the demands for liberalization of the Republican party Mr. Snell said that the house Republicans "are fully awake to changing thought and changing conditions and propose to keep in step with the onward march of progress, and we also believe we can do all this and still adhere to those sound economic principles that have made America what it is today."

"No Mean Minority."

He pointed out that the 46 per cent of the vote polled by Republicans in November constitutes "no mean minority," and added:

"We are just as loyal Americans as the majority. The people we represent are suffering just as much in this depression, paying just as many burdensome taxes and are just as anxious for the return of normal and prosperous conditions as those represented by the majority.

"To aid in bringing prosperity to all our people is the honest desire of the Republican minority.

"The responsibility of presenting the legislative programs has always and rightfully rested on the majority.

"We do not propose in advance to condemn every proposal of the majority or to accept them in toto, but as far as I am able to speak for the minority we will meet each legislative proposal with open mind; judge each recommendation on its merits, regardless of its political effect.

"While we shall continue to support the appropriations necessary to meet the present emergencies, we believe the time has now come for the administration to present a definite and complete legislative program for speedy and permanent recovery."

When Democratic Leader Robinson of the senate read the Republican pronouncement he said:

"The whole thing is childish. Snell is attempting to take credit for policies already in force."

Apartment of Red Cross Officer Looted of $1,580

Burglars broke into the apartment of Mrs. Grace Pettengill, 501 Surf street, director of volunteer service in Chicago for the Red Cross, and took $1,580 in jewelry, perfumes and clothing, she reported to Sheffield avenue police yesterday. She told Sergt. E. F. Johnson that the thieves had apparently made their entrance during her absence Wednesday night, although there were no signs of windows broken or doors jimmied.

BILL FOR BONUS IS FIRST OF 2,800 GIVEN CONGRESS

Opening Day Yields Variety of Cure-Alls.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—The hopper of the 74th congress was filled to the brim today with 2,800 bills on a multitude of subjects at the close of the first day's business. The measures, providing a variety of cure-alls, were referred to committees for later consideration.

The major proposals started through the legislative mill were: Payment of the veterans' bonus immediately and in full, costing two billion, 200 million dollars; refinancing of all agricultural indebtedness, with loans amounting to 3 billion dollars by various federal agencies, and continuance of the Home Owners' Loan corporation.

Bonus Bill Is First.

The bonus bill, introduced by Wright Patman [Dem., Tex.], was number one on the list. The adjusted service certificates of the veterans would be paid in full through an issuance of greenbacks, according to the measure.

Patman's bill directed the secretary of the treasury to issue "such notes in such amount as may be required," the notes to be lawful money of the United States. Sponsors of the plan call it "controled inflation."

Although the first big fight of the session probably will be staged on the bonus question, another burning issue arose with introduction of a bill for the liquidation and refinancing of agricultural indebtedness. The author of the plan is Representative William Lemke [Rep., N. D.]

Calls for Reduced Interest.

The liquidation would be carried out at a reduced rate of interest, according to the bill, by establishing an efficient credit system, through the use of the federal farm loan and federal reserve banking systems. Lemke also provided for the creation of a board of agriculture to supervise the program.

Continuance of the HOLC was proposed by several congressmen. The bond issue of this agency would be increased anywhere from one billion to four and a half billion dollars in the various bills introduced on the subject.

A bill put in by Representative John J. Cochran [Dem., Mo.] proposed that an additional three billion dollars' worth of bonds be issued for the HOLC operations. Cochran stated that the HOLC has on hand applications for 1 billion 800 million dollars and only 800 million dollars is available from the original bond authorization.

A 100 per cent payoff for depositors whose funds are tied up in trust companies was sought in two bills written by Representative Clarence J. McLeod [Rep., Mich.].

RFC Would Buy Assets.

One of the McLeod bills provided for immediate payoff to the depositors by directing the Reconstruction Finance corporation to purchase all remaining assets of banks, saving institutions, and trust companies that closed prior to Jan. 1, 1934. The assets would be paid for at a sum equal to their value in normal times and the liquidation would be completed in two years.

A second bill provided for the appointment of the RFC as liquidating agent for the closed banks "to eliminate the receivership racket," according to its sponsor.

"The government is nibbling at a cherry," read a statement issued by McLeod. "It would be better for all concerned if it were taken in one bite. Why not buy these assets now and let the poor depositors get out from under this unfair load?"

Representative A. J. Sabath [Dem., Ill.] introduced a bill authorizing the acquisition of land for a mail service airport in Chicago. The measure was referred to the committee on public buildings and grounds.

Many Job Insurance Bills.

There were many bills providing unemployment and old age insurance, but sentiment has not yet crystalized around any one plan.

Among the welter of legislation proposed on the first day were bills as follows:

Creation of a federal industrial commission to aid in the stabilization of employment in industry, agriculture, and commerce.

Prevention of profiteering in time of war.

New punishments for lynching.

Emergency funds for business property mortgages through RFC financing.

Prohibition of the exportation of arms and munitions in war and financial aid denied to any foreign countr ynot adhering to a code of warfare agreed upon by the United States.

Postal Savings Bill.

Increasing balance of credit to any one person in postal savings depositories from $2,500 to $5,000.

Extension of RFC loans to provide corporations for marketing, storing, warehousing, and processing of forest products.

Establishment of a bimetallic system of currency, employing gold and silver, to fix the relative value of the metals and free coinage of silver as well as of gold.

Reduction in the compensation of senators, representatives, delegates, and resident commissioners to $7,500 a year and reducing the mileage allowed them to 10 cents a mile.

Provision that all currencies of the United States be redeemable in the standard silver dollar.

Would Bar Alien Reds.

Exclusion and expulsion of alien communists.

Legislation "to guard and protect" the people against famine and shortage of food; to provide for the purchase and safe keeping by the government of stocks of wheat, rye, corn, oats, and barley for use and consumption in times of economic distress.

A measure to enable the people of Puerto Rico to form a constitution and state government, then to be admitted into the Union on an equal footing with the states.

Use of net weights in interstate and foreign commerce transactions in cotton.

Extension of federal funds in highway construction for rural free delivery routes and star mail routes which are not a part of federal state highway systems.

Seeks Homes for Idle.

RFC loans for the operation and maintenance of institutions for religious instruction and worship.

Authorization for the government to buy suitable idle productive lands, divide them into small tracts, and establish homes thereon for those without living income.

Acquisition by United States of the estate of Patrick Henry.

Loans and advances from the RFC to farm mortgagors to enable them to lower the rate of interest on their farm mortgage loans and to secure the postponement of the foreclosure of farm mortgages for a period of two years.

Others in Hopper.

Also in the hopper were bills providing lands for Indian tribes, the purchase of natural wonders for parks, entry of fur farming homesteads in public lands of Alaska, construction of numerous postoffices and bridges, appointment of more federal judges, use of condemned government vessels for breakwaters, and creation of Jefferson's birthday as a holiday.

'SMOKE' STILL SHROUDS QUESTION OF QUARREL OVER TWO ICKES AIDS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—(AP)—Smoke today continued to surround the question of friendly relations between Secretary Ickes and others high in the administration, but efforts to find the fire were circumvented by fresh denials.

At the White House it was reiterated that the President had not asked for the resignation of two of Ickes' aids—Ebert K. Burlew and Louis R. Glavis—but no attempt was made to deny that some hint it might help matters if the pair left may have come from "the White House."

At a press conference Ickes asserted "no one at the White House or outside" had even hinted at the resignation of Glavis and Burlew. Furthermore, he said, no report was being prepared on them.

The smoke persisted, however, and the conviction remained that some one close to the President is inquiring into activities by Burlew and Glavis as a result of dissatisfaction over their attitudes.

HOUSE HILARIOUS ON OPENING DAY; BYRNS SPEAKER

Democratic Ranks' Split Apparent Early.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Loaded with wild men and lopsided with a Democratic majority which sprawled way over in a "Cherokee strip" on the Republican side, the house of representatives of the 74th congress met at noon today under invocations of divine providence for the sake of the republic.

The Democratic majority of 322 to 113 of all other labels made itself felt at once by the swagger with which members entered, the lusty yells that greeted a party triumph and the patronizing cheers accorded the helpless minority when Bertrand H. Snell of New York was nominated for speaker. Officially it made itself felt by electing Joseph W. Byrns of Tennessee speaker by a vote of 316 to 95.

Revolt on Rules Measure.

Later on the topheavy majority gave promise of trouble to come, for the party itself and the administration, when the wild men revolted against an amendment to the rules designed to forestall Townsendism, Frazier-Lempkeism, greenbackism, and other weird schemes of passing the wealth around. After an hour's debate the amendment carried, but some 70 Democrats voted against it and openly accused the administration leaders of trying to hamstring the "liberals." Thus, under the rules as adopted, 218 members, instead of the old 145, must sign a petition before a committee can be discharged and unscheduled legislation be brought out for a vote.

As the new speaker, a tall, distinguished looking, but seemingly mild mannered man for this job, was escorted down the aile by a special committee, the galleries were jammed and glaring floodlights played on the scene so moving picture cameras could record it for posterity.

Cheer New Speaker.

They rose to their feet, first on the Democratic side and then throughout the house, and the cheering was tumultuous. Cries of "Clear the well! Clear the well," came from the floor as members milled before the rostrum and threatened to block the way.

Representative Snell, a member of the honorary committee, mounted the platform with the speaker and declared that for the third successive time it was his privilege "to present to the members my successful rival for the office of speaker." The white haired, pink faced New Yorker, immaculate in a cutaway adorned with a gardenia, praised Mr. Byrns and assured the house that he would perform his duties with honor to himself and his party. Snell also recalled that not long ago the Republicans had a big majority and brought forth a roar of laughter when he added that "every cloud has a silver lining."

Mr. Byrns, wearing a frock, a white carnation and a purple tie that gleamed in the kleig lights, thanked his defeated rival and said he had always been willing to coöperate "so long as it didn't interfere with allegiance to his party."

Mrs. Roosevelt in Gallery.

Mrs. Roosevelt, wife of the President, and a party of her friends looked down from the executive gallery as this ceremony took place, and across the chamber from the speaker's dais sat many diplomats and their ladies, with orchids and gardenias much in evidence. Mrs. Roosevelt had come to see her long time friend, Mrs. Caroline O'Day of New York, sworn in as representative at large, but she had to leave before the program reached the oath taking stage.

Mrs. O'Day was not the only one of the lady statesmen who came with flowers. A corsage of orchids adorned the gown of Mrs. Rogers of Massachusetts. Mrs. Kahn of California wore gardenias, and Virginia E. Jencks of Indiana wore red roses. Mrs. Isabella Greenway of Arizona, another great friend of Mrs. Roosevelt, was not present.

The male members of the house, not so particular as the proud senators in the other end of the capitol, wore everything from the cowboy boots of P. L. Gassoway of Oklahoma to the cutaway of Mr. Snell and a few of the Tammany Democrats. Many of the new members had wives, children, and other relatives in the galleries, but one of them, William H. [Horses] Ashbrook of Ohio, brought his five children onto the floor.

Two conspicuous ex-congressmen on the floor, shaking hands all around and smiling as if they belonged there, were Fred Britten and Frank R. Reid of Illinois. Another was Fiorella H. La Guardia, an ex-congressman but doing very well politically as mayor of New York City. Arthur W. Mitchell of the First Illinois district, the only Negro which the Democratic party ever sent to congress, sat next to Adolph J. Sabath, head of the Illinois delegation and dean of the house. Mr. Sabath administered the oath of office to the new speaker.

Byrns Defines Duties.

Speaker Byrns defined his duties as parliamentarian and political. He said common sense and fairness would take care of the former and that the latter should be governed by the principles of his party, but always with respect for "the rights of the minority."

The speaker also declared that the session would be "historically important," and added:

"The house is closer to the people and more responsive to their will than any other branch of the government. Because it is so representative of the wishes of the people, we should see that it becomes a dominant factor in legislation. I shall, as your speaker, devote my earnest efforts to that end."

The new speaker had difficulty from the outset in preserving order and at times there was no order at all. The pounding of his gavel had little effect on the whisperings and milling around and members on the floor called upon the speaker many times to restore order.

The chaplain of the house, the Rev. James F. Montgomery, implored the Almighty to "lay your hand upon us so the welfare of our country may be first before us" in pronouncing his invocation. The temper of this group, once seriously and still ironically termed "the greatest legislative body in the world," indicated that divine guidance, as well as the restraining hand of the senate, might be helpful from the standpoint of the country's welfare when legislation gets under way.

In the discussion on the 145 or "discharge" rule, raised by a resolution of Representative John J. O'Connor of New York, chairman of the rules committee, the bonuseers of the house objected vehemently. They recalled that it took five months to get the bonus bill out of the ways and means committee last year, when only 145 signatures were necessary. They said congress had already surrendered too much power to the executive, that the administration was trying to "hamstring the liberals," and that the amendment required as many votes to bring out a measure as it did to pass one.

O'Connor said the 145 rule was adopted at the instance of outside interests, particularly the wet press, to make it possible to bring a beer bill to a vote, and that the new amendment would never keep 145 Democrats "whose motives are sincere and not political" from getting a vote on the floor of the house.

A rollcall on shutting off debate carried the proposal, 244 to 170.

A second rollcall, by which the old rules and the amendment were adopted, showed 242 voting for the measure and 167 voting against it. Since there are only 102 Republicans and some of them were absent, some 70 or more Democrats must have voted against the curb on radicalism.

Besides Byrns and Snell there were two other nominees for speaker. George J. Schneider of Wisconsin for the Progressive party and W. P. Lambertson, Republican, of Kansas. Schneider received nine votes and Lambertson two.

The house reëlected its officers, including Clerk South Trimble, who presided pending the election of the speaker and observed that for the first time in 146 years an old congress died and a new one was born on Jan. 3. This was due to the Norris lame duck amendment.

A resolution was adopted calling for a joint meeting with the senate tomorrow at noon, when the President will personally deliver his annual message, and the house adjourned after two or three hundred members had received unanimous consent to extend their remarks in the record.

NEW SENATOR'S TERM ENDED AS CONGRESS OPENS NEW SESSION

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—(AP)—The last of the "lame ducks" vanished today at the first senate gavel bang, but among those present at the new congress' opening round was a new senator who never sat, and never will, in the 74th session.

He was Richard C. Hunter, Nebraska Democrat, elected last fall to fill an unexpired term. He filled it up to today, when the post was taken by the man elected to the new term, Edward R. Burke, also a Democrat.

"I was a senator, though, even if I wasn't sworn in," Hunter mused, as he set about clearing out his office for his successor.

He came here in November and set up an office with four members on his staf. He drew pay of about $1,600 for his service.

SENATE BEGINS NEW SESSION IN SOLEMN MOOD

Packed Galleries Hushed as Gavel Falls.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Hard upon the first stroke of 12 o'clock this noon Vice President Garner with smart raps of an ivory gavel head opened the door of history to the senate of the 74th congress.

The teeming galleries were hushed as though the curtain were being raised on a great drama. The expectant hush was deeper than that of many preceding opening sessions, because those in the gallery knew the course of the union is to be determined in no small measure in the arena upon which every eye was fixed.

The senators—the actors in the epic to be unfolded in weary months to come—scurried to their seats at the first tap of the gavel head. The Democrats filing into four and a half curving rows of seats at the right of the rostrum and the Republicans into three short arcs to the left.

Democratic Margin Large.

The arrangement of seats on the floor of the senate brought sharply home to spectators the enormous strength of the administration in the new congress. From the meager rows on the left Republican senators gazed thoughtfully across at their massed Democratic colleagues in full realization of the struggle before them to hold the ship of state from a wide course to the left.

Senate Chaplain Zebarney T. Phillips mounted to the rostrum to open the session with a prayer. He asked a blessing upon the President with "Refresh him with thy spirit day by day, body and soul, and give him wisdom and strength to know and do thy will."

There was a snicker from some cynic in the gallery as the chaplain concluded by asking that "every member of the senate be found too strong for fear, too noble for anger, too great for worry." Vice President Garner silenced the snicker by bringing his handle-less gavel into play.

Credentials Are Received.

The Vice President then took the rostrum to take up the first business of the gathering, the receiving of credentials from the newly-elected senators and those reëlected. Senate pages darted in and out the ailes gathering the documents.

When the last name was read the time honored custom of leading new and reëlected senators down the central aile of the senate floor to take the oath of office was observed. Those taking the oath came in groups of four on the arms of colleagues to the left of the rostrum where they raised their right hands as the oath was administered.

In the van of the new senators was Theodore G. Bilbo of Missisippi, who had promised in his campaign to outhooey Senator Huey [Call me Kingfish] Long of Louisiana. Wearing a gardenia in the buttonhole of his morning coat he came up on the arm of the senior and conservative senator of his state, Pat Harrison.

Huey Long Is Absent.

The Kingfish was not present, being concerned with spreading his dictatorship at home in New Orleans. But he attempted to steal the show by a telegram sent to Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana for reading on the floor. It stated Long will shortly reply to the letter in which President Roosevelt served notice PWA loans will be withheld from Louisiana until some of the Kingfish's legislation is repealed or clarified.

"Please announce or have announced that on Monday or as soon thereafter as I can gain the floor, I shall speak on the propositions with which I have been identified in the press," Wheeler read from the Long telegram.

The galleries rocked with laughter. His famous eyebrows twitching for anger, Vice President Garner pounded for order, reminding the galleries they were not to make any demonstrations.

Other new senators, all Democrats, taking the oath, were Edward R. Burke of Nebraska, Vic Donahey of Ohio, Francis T. Maloney of Connecticut, Sherman Minton of Indiana, A. Harry Moore of New Jersey, George L. Radcliffe of Maryland, Peter G. Gerry of Rhode Island, Joseph T. Guffey of Pennsylvania, Lewis B. Schwellenbach of Washington, Harry S. Truman of Missouri, and James E. Murray from Montana.

From the relatives' gallery—"ten reasons why Donahey should be elected"—his children watched the father who had used them as a campaign argument, take the oath. Schwellenbach, who has declared Upton Sinclair stole his EPIC program from the Schwellenbach program, held his hand high. Guffey, the first Democratic senator from Pennsylvania since 1875, beamed.

Alone, like Cataline in the Roman senate, sat Rush D. Holt, youthful senator elect from West Virginia. On advice of colleagues he did not march up to take the oath and will not present himself until next June 19, when he will be qualified as to age.

In the meantime he will be at liberty to take a six months' vacation with full pay as he saw to it several days ago his name was put on the senate roll. He announced that he will be in his office daily and will assume the rôle of lobbyist for his constituents with the privilege of sitting on the floor. His seat adjoins that of Bilbo with whom he appeared to have struck up a friendship.

The senate recessed until 2 o'clock, 32 minutes after the opening gavel. The only other business was the adoption of routine resolutions to name a committee to notify the President formally of the opening and another to arrange with the house for the joint session tomorrow. At 2 o'clock the committees reported and the senate then recessed again until noon tomorrow.

Before the opening the senators greeted one another with dignity becoming their station. There was none of the back slapping practiced in the house, which was as disorganized as Grant park on a July afternoon.

Farley Greets New Members.

Smiling Postmaster General Farley came in early to shake hands with the new men he had put into office as chairman of the Democratic national committee. Marvin H. McIntyre, assistant secretary to the President, was also on the floor, presumably to give his chief an eyewitness account of the event.

Another visitor was Smith W. [Wild Man] Brookhart, former senator from Iowa, who enjoys haunting the scenes he formerly trod. Brookhart is more than a lame duck, having been defeated several years ago.

Prominent among the handshakers was Senator James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois, sartorially resplendent as usual in a brown suit, spats, and a double breasted light brown vest. His colleague, Senator William H. Dieterich, was also active with his right hand.

Actress Wins Custody of Daughter

FEDERAL JUDGE DROPS OUT OF CONTEST FOR COURT OF APPEALS

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 3.—(AP)—District Judge Frank H. Norcross of Reno, Nev., center of a controversy when President Roosevelt proposed him for promotion to the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals, today withdrew his name from further consideration for the post.

"The present exigency of the court [two vacancies] is a matter of too great public importance to be delayed," he said, "no matter how deeply my personal feeling is respecting the outcome of the appointment."

Mr. Roosevelt proposed Norcross' name to the senate, which failed to take any action in the last session and instead appointed a committee to investigate his handling of bankruptcy cases, particularly that of the Owl Drug company.

ANN HARDING OF FILMS GRANTED CUSTODY OF GIRL

Divorce Decree of 1932 Is Modified at Reno.

Reno, Nev., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Ann Harding, blonde movie star, today won the exclusive care, custody, and control of her 6 year old daughter, Jane, at a private hearing held here before District Judge Thomas F. Moran.

The judge modified Miss Harding's 1932 divorce decree which gave custody of the child to her father, Harry Bannister, an actor, for two months out of each year. The actress asked for exclusive custody on the ground that it would be for Jane's "best interests" to spend all her time with her mother.

Bannister Not Present.

Bannister made no effort to resist the action and was not present or represented by counsel.

The only witnesses were Miss Harding and one of the child's governesses, though a second governess and little Jane herself had accompanied the actress to court. A khaki uniformed bodyguard was at the child's side when she entered the courthouse.

Private Hearing Brief.

The hearing lasted less than an hour and a half. It was held in Judge Moran's private chambers and details of the testimony were not made public.

Shortly before their divorce both Miss Harding and her husband issued statements that their "position had become untenable" because Bannister was becoming known merely as "Ann Harding's husband."

Bannister Plans Fight.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 3.—(AP)—Harry Bannister "at the proper time" will begin his fight in California courts to offset a Nevada court's action in giving blonde Ann Harding of the screen exclusive custody of their 6 year old daughter, Jane, Bannister's attorney said tonight.

7 MEN ADRIFT ON ICE CAKES IN CANADIAN LAKE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 3.—Seven fishermen in two groups of three and four each are adrift tonight on ice cakes in Lake Simcoe. Because of high winds, it is feared the ice floes will break up.

Provincial police officers have organized shore patrols into rescue parties. One group of fishermen is drifting a mile off shore ten miles east of Marrie. The other group is adrift two miles off Hawkestone and eight miles south of Orillia. The men were fishing from shanties through the ice when the wind broke up the sheet of ice.

A plane will fly from the Camp Borden air force station to the scene at daybreak. It will try to land on the ice and take them off.

BALLET DANCER STABBED AT NEW YEAR EVE PARTY

Paul Petroff, 29 years old, a member of the Monte Carlo Ballet Russe company which recently completed a Chicago engagement, is in the Presbyterian hospital recovering from a stab wound suffered after a New Year's eve party.

At the Central police station is a report stating that the dancer was stabbed by an unidentified man in the Auditorium hotel. From other sources it was learned that the ballet company held its own New Year's celebration in the hotel and that after this was over Petroff went to a cloakroom on the second floor. Two of his friends found him a little later in a hallway, with a wound on the left side midway between the shoulder and the hip.

He was taken to the hospital, where he has been under treatment of Dr. Harry A. Oberhelman. The doctor said the injury was not serious and that Petroff could leave the hospital in a few days.

According to the police, the dancer was unable to tell anything about his assailant. The company has gone to St. Louis to fill an engagement.

Canada's Cold Zone Beats Own Record with 76 Below

EDMONTON, Alta., Jan. 3.—(AP)—A new low for cold weather in the coldest region in Canada was established at Great Bear lake New Year's day when the temperature dropped to 76 degrees below zero, the official weather bureau announced today. The previous record was held by Mayo, Yukon Territory, when on Dec. 20, 1933, the mercury dropped to 68 below.

BOLIVIAN DRAFT SNARES OLD AND YOUNG FOR WAR

Capital Cheers Parade Led by Notables.

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Jan. 3.—(AP)—A galaxy of Bolivian notables marched through La Paz streets to the cheers of the populace today as the general army mobilization reached out to snare young and old alike.

Newspapers and government officials were agreed that efforts to end the long Chaco war by peaceful means had been proved futile, and the newspaper La Razon termed the sweeping draft of all reservists "the last effort," asserting the only solution for the conflict was through the force of arms.

Leaders March Behind Bands.

Swinging along to the martial music of bands today were such leaders in Bolivian life as Senator Bernardo Navajas Trigo, former candidate for the vice presidency; Manuel Carrasco, coproprietor of the newspaper El Diario and chief of the military propaganda office, and German Chavez, former charge d'affaires in Rio de Janeiro.

The mobilization also brought into service President José Luis Tejada Sorzano's eldest son, Hernan Tejada y Flores, and Javier and Carlos Calvo, sons of Carlos Calvo, former foreign minister and now minister to Brazil.

The Bolivian high command today accused Paraguayan troops of butchering Bolivian wounded in the Chaco Boreal.

Claims Ambulance Was Seized.

A Red Cross ambulance in the Ibibobo sector was captured by the enemy, the high command reported to the war ministry, and its driver and his assistant apparently taken prisoners.

"Four wounded and five sick were savagely killed, their throats cut," the message said. "Their bodies, cut to pieces with machete blows, have been found."

DAUGHTER OF RICH TEXAS OIL MAN IN CAR VANISHES

Tyler, Tex., Jan. 4 (Friday).—(AP)—Mrs. Johnnie Fay Oxford, 19 year old daughter of a wealthy oil man, was reported missing early today. Officers said she was last seen after driving a Negro maid to her home. Mrs. Oxford is the wife of O. O. Oxford, operator of a hotel.

Deputy Sherif Ross Parker said police radio broadcasts had been sent out over the state and that officers were searching Tyler for the woman. Sherif Tom Fikes directed the search for the missing woman.

J. W. Wheelis, Mrs. Oxford's father, said he had no reason to believe his daughter had been kidnaped for ransom, but advanced the theory that possibly a motor car thief had abducted her while attempting to flee with a new car she was driving.

CUBA SEIZES FOUR "JUDGES" OF FOE'S COURT OF DEATH

HAVANA, Cuba, Jan. 3.—(AP)—An asserted powerful radical "court" which sentenced to death those out of sympathy with its objectives was disclosed by the army secret service tonight as President Carlos Mendieta's government struck out at its left wing opposition.

Four men high in the councils of former President Ramon Grau San Martin's revolutionary "autentico" party were arrested and turned over to the second section of the Criminal court, which will hear the army's grave accusations against them.

They were Jose Irizarri, a member of the leftist junta of five that ruled Cuba briefly after the overthrow of President Carlos Manuel de Cespedes in September, 1933; Rafael Giraud, named administrator of the Cuban Electric company when the Grau government took over that American owned utility; Oscar Denis, and Policeman Juan Romney. Dr. Antonio Guiteras, former cabinet minister, was also accused.

Boy, 10, Fatally Injured When Auto Strikes Sled

Paul Edward Jasper, 10 years old, of Winthrop Harbor, was fatally injured last night when the sled on which he was coasting across Sheriran road was hit by an automobile driven by Frank Brock Jr., of Winthrop Harbor. The accident occurred in the business district of Winthrop Harbor, which is just south of the Wisconsin line in Lake county.

BLAME SIGNALS FOR EAST RIVER SHIP DISASTER

Master of Sunken Boat Before Quiz Board.

New York, Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Testimony this afternoon at a federal investigation of the collision last night of the Colonial liner Lexington and the freighter Jane Christenson indicated the cause of the disaster in the East river near the Brooklyn bridge was a misunderstanding of signals from ship to ship and the proximity of a tug with a string of barges.

Capt. William O. Pendleton, master of the Lexington, testified before the board of inquiry that after he saw the Christenson he blew two whistle blasts but got no reply.

Fear Four of Crew Dead.

Twenty-three passengers of the Lexington, which was sunk on its way to Providence, R. I., were injured and four of the crew are believed to have perished. Tugs saved the 120 passengers and 51 of the crew.

As the Lexington headed up the East river, the captain testified, a tug with a string of barges appeared on the Brooklyn side.

"That is what made me stay in the center of the river," he said, and the implication was that otherwise he would have taken a different course.

"I first saw the Christenson on the other side of the Brooklyn bridge.

Changes His Course.

"I signaled. I heard no signal from the Christenson, only the alarm signals when I was 100 feet away. I ordered the wheel over to port just before the collision. At the same time the Christenson changed her course and the bow shot over toward Manhattan."

"Do you think there was any doubt or misunderstanding on the part of the captain of the Christenson about your whistles?" he was asked.

"I don't think he could misunderstand our signals."

Later he said: "I thought we were going to clear the Christenson and gave full speed ahead."

"Don't you think it would have been better to go full speed astern?" he was asked.

"Why, no, because the Christenson shot over out of her course across the river and I thought by going ahead I would clear her."

Drives Ship Astern.

Capt. John E. Wikman of the Jane Christenson said that when it appeared to him the accident was likely he did go into reverse.

Conducting the inquiry were Capt. Fried, hero of many sea rescues and now supervising inspector of the New York district of the federal steamboat inspection service; Capt. James Smith, local inspector of boilers, and Capt. Carl Nielson, local inspector of hulls.

The Lexington sank before even one lifeboat could be launched, and the survivors can thank the crews of half a dozen plodding tugs which ran alongside the doomed liner as she broke in two off Market street, risking an explosion of her boilers to save those aboard.

But even the tugs could have saved only a handful if there had been a panis, for there was such a little time to save any one—seven minute, some say, ten at most.

Orchestra Soothes Fear.

There was no panic, though. For in those last, swift moments the orchestra soothed fear with music as the ship sank, gayly playing "My Gal Sal" as black water rose around the musicians.

Colored stewards, officers, seamen, and even a colored bus boy shepherded the passengers from the ship, guiding them aboard the tugs.

The tugs barely had drawn away and deck hands still were fishing people out of the icy water when the 246 foot Lexington broke abaft the funnel. The stern segment rolled over in the water and part of the superstructure was torn away.

Chase Wreckage Down River.

When morning came the forepart of the wreck lay under water off Market street in the shadow of Manhattan bridge. The stern segment was fast to a pier, though sunk, at Grand street, a half mile or more upstream. Most of the superstructure had been tied to a pier at East 22d street after police launches and a tugboat chased the wreckage a mile before they could make a line fast.

The Jane Christenson dropped anchor off Bedloe Island, where today she was reported apparently only slightly damaged.

The masters of both ships were questioned several hours by Assistant District Attorney Sylvester Cosentino at Pier A, headquarters of the marine police. Later Cosentino said:

"I am still investigating and nobody is being held."

FOUND WITH THROAT SLASHED.

A man believed to be Clotin Long, 35 years old, of Terre Haute, was found dead yesterday in his room at 171 North Carpenter street. His throat had been cut and a razor was found near the body. Police said they believed the man a suicide.

Rare Bats May Be Doomed to Die

Four pteropi policocephalia, or fruit eating bats, at the Chicago Zoological park in Brookfield yesterday as officials argued over their fate. According to the law, they are doomed to die. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

U. S. PASSED A LAW ONCE TO END THIS KIND OF PROBLEM

But Pteropi Bob Up Again in Brookfield.

Scanning records in his office at the federal courthouse yesterday, Frank M. Smolek Jr., deputy collector of customs, discovered something that made him give a shrill yelp.

He galloped in to his chief, Anthony Czarnecki.

"My word!" he exclaimed. "Through error we have allowed four pteropi poliocephali to enter the country, and they are out at the Brookfield zoo—pardon me, the Chicago Zoological park in Brookfield—right now!"

"What," inquired Mr. Czarnecki, "are pteropi poliocephali?"

It's an Unpronounceable.

"Any of several species of large, fruit eating bats," explained Mr. Smolek. "Research has revealed to me, chief, that they cause much destruction among fruit crops of warmer countries. They are about the size of a half grown cat, and have a face like a fox. Sometimes the commoners call them flying foxes."

It seems that on May 25, 1900, congress passed a law forbidding the importation of pteropi poliocephali, presumably because few congressmen could pronounce them. The congressmen, however, said that they did it because the pteropi poliocephali might eat the pears and peaches and things, and maybe cause a fruit famine.

"Now the Law Says—"

Anyway, nobody wanted to say "pteropi poliocephali" very much, so the law was passed with little or no debate.

Mr. Czarnecki was agast when he discovered that the zoo had the pteropi poliocephali when it was so very much against the law.

"They must die, according to the statute," he said.

So. Mr. Smolek, armed with an order of execution, went to the Brookfield zoo on his tragic errand and explained things to Director Edward Bean.

"Why, this is very wrong," said Mr. Bean. "We imported these creatures from South America with the understanding that they were for scientific exhibition, and exempt from the ban."

It's Up to Washington.

Well, there was talk back and forth. "We shall write to Washington and secure executive clemency," said Mr. Bean. "It is shameful that these bats should die."

Mr. Smolek, who wasn't quite sure about executing bats—whether you stood them against a wall and shot them, or what—let it go at that. He agreed to a stay of execution until word is received from the capital.

CHILD DIES AFTER SCALDING.

Albert Vaudrin, 1 year old, who was scalded Tuesday when a cup of coffee was spilled on him at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Vaudrin, 5504 Kenwood avenue, died yesterday. Death was supposedly due to complications that followed the scalding.

VILLIERS' SAILING SHIP TUGGED FROM ROCKS, TOWED FOR REPAIRS

New York, Jan. 3.—[Special.]—A floating derrick tonight pulled the square-rigged Joseph Conrad off the rocks at the foot of 66th street, Brooklyn, and a tug towed the sailing vessel two miles to the Tobo yacht basin for repairs.

"The colossal irony of it," remarked Alan Villiers, author-owner and captain of the ship, as he read messages from abroad congratulating him on a difficult westward voyage across the Atlantic in a sailing vessel. After completing the voyage from Harwich, England, in 70 days, the ship was blown aground from its anchorage off Brooklyn two days ago by a strong wind.

Frank Villiers, brother of the owner and a member of the crew, revealed that a 15 foot motor launch, tied to the ship, had been missing since the ship was aground. The crew started a search for it along the Brooklyn water front.

Union Requests Janitors to Put Ashes on Icy Walks

Each member of the Chicago Flat Janitors' union, local No. 1, yesterday received a card from the union president, Jerry J. "We want to show that we are with Mayor Kelly in his keep Chicago safe campaign," Mr. Horan said.

CITY GETS 4 HOUR NONSTOP FLYING SERVICE INTO N. Y.

Supplements 3 Regular Trips on Schedule.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

A regular schedule which calls for a daily nonstop flight between Chicago and New York City in the astonishing time of four hours and five minutes will be inaugurated on Jan. 28, it was announced here yesterday by officials of Transcontinental Western Air, Inc. This special nonstop trip, the fastest ever included in a regular schedule, will be flown only from west to east over the 726 mile airway.

TWA officials say that the number of passengers carried between Chicago and New York recently justifies the addition of this special trip to the three regular flights made daily over the route. The special plane will leave Chicago at 5:30 p. m. and arrive in New York at 10:35 p. m. [eastern standard time]. On the regular flights stops are made at Pittsburgh or Philadelphia, and the trip is made in four and a half hours.

Southern Line Changes Name.

Pacific Seaboard Air Lines, which carries passengers and air mail between Chicago and New Orleans, has changed its name to Chicago and Southern Air Lines, Inc., it was announced from Memphis, Tenn., operations headquarters, yesterday. The company has been flying Bellanca cabin planes powered with Wasp motors during the last six months. This equipment is soon to be replaced with multimotored planes, officials said.

In six months operations over the route the line, which formerly carried the mail between Los Angeles and San Francisco, has flown 16,830,466 pound miles of mail, 3,299,280 pound miles of express, and 220,984 passenger miles without accident, it was stated.

Plans Speed Record Hop.

Maxine Howard, wife of Benny O. Howard, United Air Lines pilot and designer of small racing airplanes, announced in Cleveland yesterday that she is planning an attempt to set a new land plane speed record. She will fly Mister Mulligan, a four passenger cabin high wing monoplane powered with a Wasp motor. It is the latest creation of her husband and, according to him, the world's fastest land plane, capable of speeds approaching 330 miles an hour near sea level.

The present record is 312 miles an hour set two weeks ago by the veteran French pilot Delmotte, who broke the 305 mile an hour record set by the late Jimmie Wedell in 1932.

Miss Katherine Maye of Virden, Ill., claims the world's air mileage record for her sex, having flown 600,000 miles since she became an employé of United Air Lines in 1930. She is a stewardess on the Omaha-Chicago division of the "midcontinent" route flown by the company.

The association is composed of the officers and directors of twenty-one standard labor unions in the railway industry and about 1,500 will attend, it was said. It is expected that Mr. Eastman will discuss proposed amendments to the railroad transportation act.

LEGION CAMPAIGN OF AMERICANISM OPENS TONIGHT

Loyola Massmeeting Is First of Series.

The Americanism commission of the Illinois department of the American Legion will launch its state-wide drive for Americanism and against radicalism and other subversive activities tonight with a massmeeting in the Loyola university gymnasium at Loyola avenue and Sheridan road. The meeting, to start at 8 p. m., is the first of a series to be held over the state.

A delegation of leading Legionnaires, including two former national commanders, Milton J. Foreman and Howard P. Savage, and Francis E. Phelan, commander of the Seventh Illinois district of the Legion, called on Mayor Kelly yesterday and invited him to speak at the meeting. The mayor accepted.

Homer Chaillaux to Speak.

Homer L. Chaillaux of Indianapolis, national director of the Legion's Americanism commission, will be the chief speaker at the ceremonies tonight. Other speakers will include the Rt. Rev. D. F. Burns, regent of Loyola university law school; Matt Murphy, commander of the Cook county council of the American Legion, and Rear Admiral Wat T. Cluverius, commandant of the Ninth naval district.

Mr. Phelan, Hayes Kennedy, state Americanism chairman, and George Hime, Cook county chairman, will be in charge of the meeting.

Parade Will Be Held.

A parade, headed by the band of the 202d regiment, Illinois National Guard, and including the Board of Trade band and drum corps, will be held immediately preceding the meeting.

The parade will start at 7:30 p. m. from the Broadway armory at Thorndale avenue and Broadway, continuing north on Broadway to the Loyola gymnasium. In the line of march will be the Mel Tierney post drum and bugle corps, Boy Scout and R. O. T. C. units, and representatives of north side Legion posts and auxiliaries.

$100,000 STAMPS TO BE DISPLAYED AT ANNUAL SHOW

A total of about $100,000 in postage stamps will be on exhibition at the La Salle hotel Jan. 18, 19, and 20, for the annual meeting and banquet of the Chicago Philatelic society, according to plans completed last night.

Elmert Stuart, president of the society, said that stamp collectors from all over the United States would exhibit their prizes, but the majority of collections will be from the middle west. About 8,000 collectors are expected to be present.

Among the features will be a public auction of stamps, and the presentation at the banquet of special reprints of the old Chicago penny post stamp, printed locally in 1845, two years before the government began printing postage stamps.

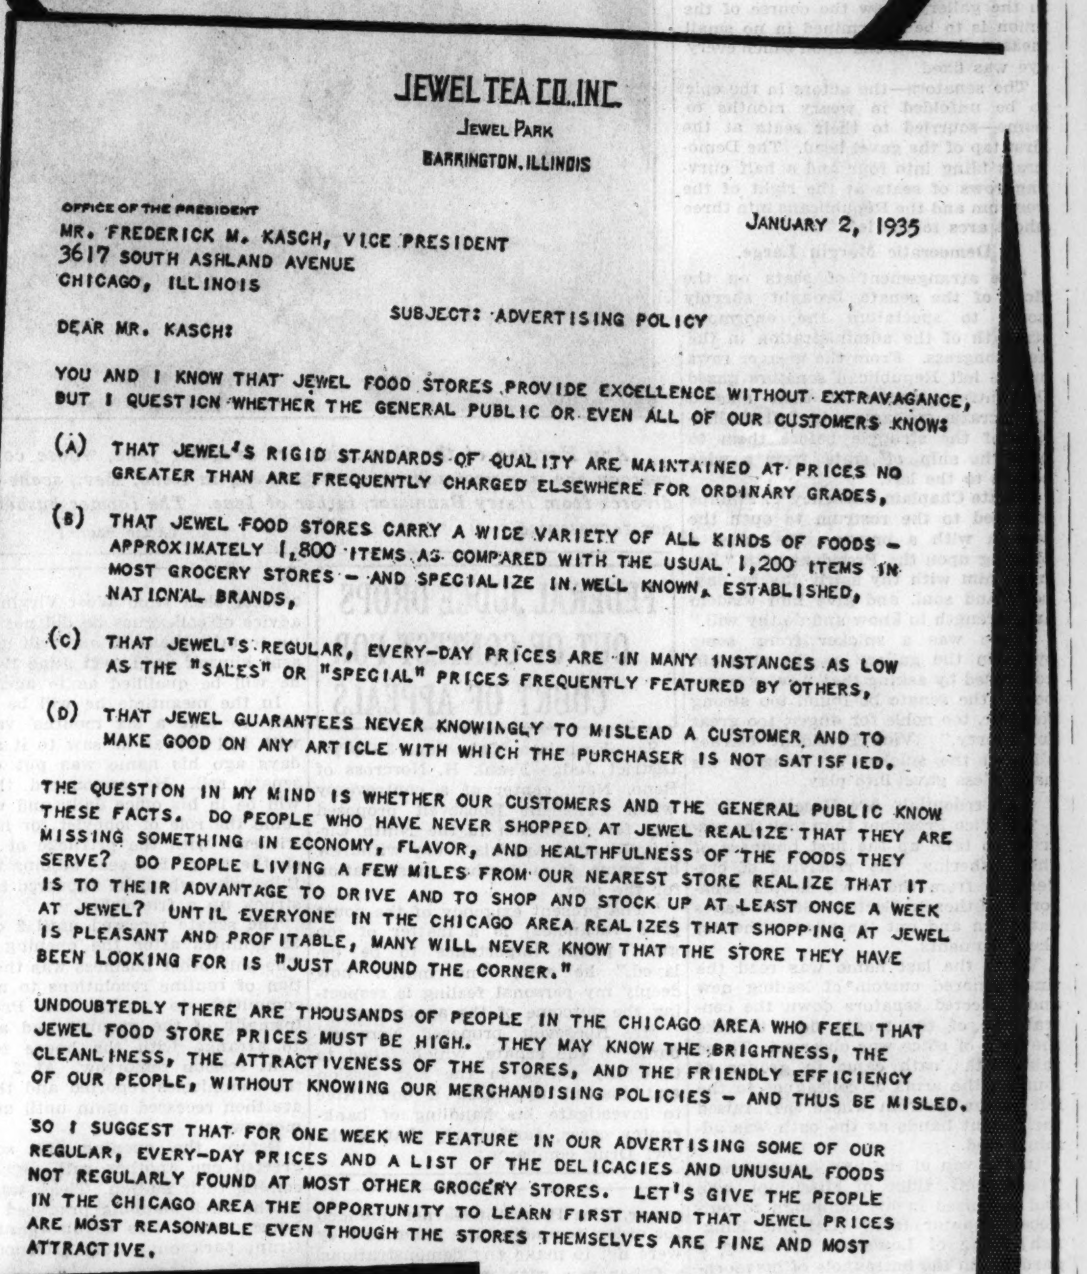
THIS LETTER TELLS THE INSIDE STORY



JEWEL TEA CO., INC.
JEWEL PARK
BARRINGTON, ILLINOIS

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

JANUARY 2, 1935

MR. FREDERICK M. KASCH, VICE PRESIDENT
3617 SOUTH ASHLAND AVENUE
CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

SUBJECT: ADVERTISING POLICY

DEAR MR. KASCH:

YOU AND I KNOW THAT JEWEL FOOD STORES PROVIDE EXCELLENCE WITHOUT EXTRAVAGANCE, BUT I QUESTION WHETHER THE GENERAL PUBLIC OR EVEN ALL OF OUR CUSTOMERS KNOW:

(A) THAT JEWEL'S RIGID STANDARDS OF QUALITY ARE MAINTAINED AT PRICES NO GREATER THAN ARE FREQUENTLY CHARGED ELSEWHERE FOR ORDINARY GRADES,

(B) THAT JEWEL FOOD STORES CARRY A WIDE VARIETY OF ALL KINDS OF FOODS — APPROXIMATELY 1,800 ITEMS AS COMPARED WITH THE USUAL 1,200 ITEMS IN MOST GROCERY STORES — AND SPECIALIZE IN WELL KNOWN, ESTABLISHED, NATIONAL BRANDS,

(C) THAT JEWEL'S REGULAR, EVERY-DAY PRICES ARE IN MANY INSTANCES AS LOW AS THE "SALES" OR "SPECIAL" PRICES FREQUENTLY FEATURED BY OTHERS,

(D) THAT JEWEL GUARANTEES NEVER KNOWINGLY TO MISLEAD A CUSTOMER AND TO MAKE GOOD ON ANY ARTICLE WITH WHICH THE PURCHASER IS NOT SATISFIED.

THE QUESTION IN MY MIND IS WHETHER OUR CUSTOMERS AND THE GENERAL PUBLIC KNOW THESE FACTS. DO PEOPLE WHO HAVE NEVER SHOPPED AT JEWEL REALIZE THAT THEY ARE MISSING SOMETHING IN ECONOMY, FLAVOR, AND HEALTHFULNESS OF THE FOODS THEY SERVE? DO PEOPLE LIVING A FEW MILES FROM OUR NEAREST STORE REALIZE THAT IT IS TO THEIR ADVANTAGE TO DRIVE AND TO SHOP AND STOCK UP AT LEAST ONCE A WEEK AT JEWEL? UNTIL EVERYONE IN THE CHICAGO AREA REALIZES THAT SHOPPING AT JEWEL IS PLEASANT AND PROFITABLE, MANY WILL NEVER KNOW THAT THE STORE THEY HAVE BEEN LOOKING FOR IS "JUST AROUND THE CORNER."

UNDOUBTEDLY THERE ARE THOUSANDS OF PEOPLE IN THE CHICAGO AREA WHO FEEL THAT JEWEL FOOD STORE PRICES MUST BE HIGH. THEY MAY KNOW THE BRIGHTNESS, THE CLEANLINESS, THE ATTRACTIVENESS OF THE STORES, AND THE FRIENDLY EFFICIENCY OF OUR PEOPLE, WITHOUT KNOWING OUR MERCHANDISING POLICIES — AND THUS BE MISLED.

SO I SUGGEST THAT FOR ONE WEEK WE FEATURE IN OUR ADVERTISING SOME OF OUR REGULAR, EVERY-DAY PRICES AND A LIST OF THE DELICACIES AND UNUSUAL FOODS NOT REGULARLY FOUND AT MOST OTHER GROCERY STORES. LET'S GIVE THE PEOPLE IN THE CHICAGO AREA THE OPPORTUNITY TO LEARN FIRST HAND THAT JEWEL PRICES ARE MOST REASONABLE EVEN THOUGH THE STORES THEMSELVES ARE FINE AND MOST ATTRACTIVE.

SINCERELY,

PRESIDENT

DON'T BE ALARMED

You will find on sale this week and every week in Jewel Food Stores an attractive group of items at prices even lower than our low everyday prices.

Be sure to join the thousands of our customers who look for our "yellow tickets" — they identify extraordinary bargains and mean extra savings.

MRS. VANDERBILT TELLS HOW CHILD WAS TAKEN AWAY

She Makes Statement in Court Affidavit.

New York, Jan. 3.—[Special.]—In an affidavit submitted in the Surrogate's court today Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt disclosed certain alleged facts concerning the manner in which her child, Gloria, came into the custody of her aunt, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney. She charges that two servants, recommended for her employ by Thomas B. Gilchrist, one of Mrs. Whitney's lawyers, learned of her intention to rent a house in Roslyn, N. Y., where she meant to live with her child, and that the servants revealed this fact to Mr. Gilchrist.

It was then, the affidavit says, that Mrs. Whitney took possession of the child. In the affidavit Mrs. Vanderbilt says she understands that Mrs. Whitney is worth more than 150 million dollars, and adds that she cannot make the same proposal for maintaining the child "because I am not one of the richest women in the world, as Mrs. Whitney is."

Refers to July Settlement.

In telling for the first time how her child was taken from her, Mrs. Vanderbilt went back to the settlement last July after she made application to be appointed co-guardian of the property of the child along with Mr. Gilchrist and George W. Wickersham, and to be appointed sole guardian of the person of the child.

The affidavit, after describing her trip to Europe and her arrangement by cable to rent the home of the widow of Bishop Shipman at Roslyn, continued: "I stated to one Charles Zaug, my then butler, who had been recommended to me by Mr. Gilchrist, that I had practically consummated arrangements for the renting of the house at Roslyn and that my child, the nurse, and the household would all go down there to spend that month and for him to make preparations accordingly. Zaug immediately communicated this information to Theodore Beasley, who was my chauffeur and who had also been recommended by Mr. Gilchrist.

Attorney Is Notified.

"Mr. Beasley without my knowledge immediately notified Mr. Gilchrist what I contemplated doing. The result of this was that without any warning the nurse took the child to Mrs. Whitney's studio in New York City, where a conference was held at which were present Mrs. Whitney, Mr. Gilchrist, and Mr. Dunnington [another of Mrs. Whitney's lawyers], and at 6 o'clock that evening I telephoned to Mrs. Whitney and she stated that the child became hysterical and she took her to her Fifth avenue home. Upon my arrival at the Fifth avenue home my child shrank away from me.

"She shrieked, 'Take her away from me!' and showed evidence of fear of me. She did not act as a normal, natural child towards its mother. She had never heretofore acted, demanded, or behaved herself towards me in such manner. At the moment it was obvious to me that fear and hatred were being instilled in the mind of my child against her own mother."

The affidavit then states that Mrs. Whitney refused to return the child to the mother.

Application Withdrawn.

Earlier in the day Mrs. Vanderbilt withdrew her application for appointment as co-guardian before James A. Foley, surrogate.

The withdrawal of the application was made through her attorney, Nathan Burkan, who has represented her throughout in her efforts to obtain full custody of her daughter. This custody was denied by Supreme Court Justice John F. Carew and an appeal from his decision is pending before the Appellate division.

Objection was voiced to the withdrawal of the application by Mr. Gilchrist and by Henry W. Taft of the firm of Cadwalader, Wickersham & Taft, which represents the present co-guardians. The implication behind their objection was that Mr. Burkan was possibly seeking another tribunal before which to place his application.

Mr. Burkan denied this, however, and said that the only reason for withdrawing the application was to await the outcome of the appeal—which, if favorable to Mrs. Vanderbilt, might make another type of application—that of full and sole guardianship—applicable. In the event of the appeal being still pending, Mr. Burkan stated, he did not wish to be bound by whatever decision the surrogate might issue at the present time.

Withdrawal Motion Granted.

He indicated that, no matter what the outcome of the appeal would be, he was perfectly willing to stipulate that, in the event of submitting another application, he would do so before the same tribunal and the same surrogate. Surrogate Foley thereupon granted the motion for withdrawal.

The second major issue which arose was the argument for the continuance of the $48,000 allowance awarded to Mrs. Vanderbilt for the maintenance of the child during the coming year. Mr. Gilchrist in his argument characterized Mr. Burkan's affidavit relative to the requirements of Mrs. Vanderbilt to maintain the child as not being informative.

He described the history of this maintenance whereby from 1926 to 1933 Mrs. Vanderbilt received $48,000 a year for all expenses entailed in maintaining the house at 49 East 72d street and her own needs. In 1934, however, it was found that Mrs. Vanderbilt did not require the full amount and the expenditure totaled only $40,286.81. In view of the discrepancy of some $7,000, Mr. Gilchrist questioned whether the full maintenance of $48,000 should be continued.

Urges Full Allowance.

Mr. Burkan argued that it should be continued especially in view of the fact that under Justice Carew's decision Mrs. Vanderbilt will have fuller custody of her child than ever before and that her requirements will be greater. She is now permitted to have her child on week-ends, Christmas, and during the month of July.

"The situation hasn't changed," said Mr. Burkan. "Mrs. Vanderbilt never had any funds and still hasn't. The $10,000 legacy which she inherited has been largely pledged to carry on this litigation, and I wish to state on the second that I'm not getting any part of it. I'm going to carry this case through to the finish. I have a sentimental interest in it.

"But now that Mrs. Vanderbilt is to have her daughter for the short time that has been allowed, she must keep up her house and appearances more than ever. She must maintain the tradition, prestige, and name of the Vanderbilts. Your honor, I hope the status quo ante will be continued and the full maintenance be allowed."

Mr. Gilchrist again pressed his objection that Mrs. Vanderbilt had failed to submit an affidavit detailing her financial requirements. Surrogate Foley then asked Mr. Burkan if such an affidavit could be provided and urged that it should contain some explanation for the difference in expenditure in 1934 and the previous years. Mr. Burkan declared that such an affidavit would be submitted and the hearing was postponed until next Wednesday.

The hearing disclosed, in arguments and affidavits, that Mrs. Vanderbilt intended to continue paying $3,000 a year to the support of her mother, Mrs. Laura Kilpatrick Morgan, although Mrs. Morgan testified against her in the supreme court action which gave the child chiefly into the custody of Mrs. Whitney.

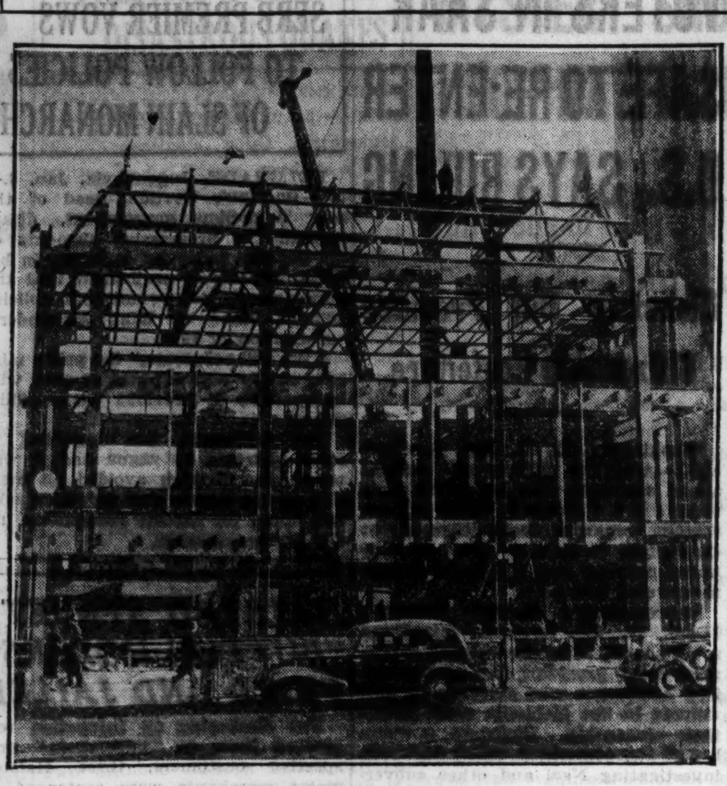
Framework for W-G-N Studio Finished



Steel framework for the new W-G-N studios as it neared completion yesterday. An American flag was unfurled when the highest point on the steel construction was reached. The building is located just north of the Tribune Tower. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Flag Hoisted

Structural steel workers on the new W-G-N studio building just north of Tribune Tower riveted their highest girder in place yesterday and in accordance with the tradition of their craft, hoisted flags at the Michigan avenue corners of the new building. Only a few more girders in the interior of the building remain to be placed before its skeleton is finished.

The character of the new building, a broadcasting theater being built on top of THE TRIBUNE's pressrooms below the Michigan avenue level, involved several special structural problems which were solved in the process of steel erection. Since location of the presses would not permit erection of columns to support the central part of the studio building, it was necessary to use special A-shaped girders which have their bases on existing columns in the pressroom. Each of the "A" girders can support a load of 1,500,000 pounds at its peak.

To carry a setback in the south wall of the building for which the plans called, another special structural member, a gooseneck joint, was devised. The special members used required rivets double the usual size and having approximately four times the holding strength of ordinary ones.

JUVENILE COURT ATTACK BRINGS COUNTER CHARGE

Bicek Says Criminal Bench Fails to Co-operate.

Answering protests that juvenile offenders appearing before him escape with minor punishments, Judge Frank Bicek, who presides in the Juvenile court, yesterday directed a counter attack on at what he cited as similar practices in the Criminal court. He said that in many cases judges of the Criminal court, by dealing lightly with adults who have contributed to juvenile delinquency, have failed to cooperate with the Juvenile court.

Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan of the Criminal court at the judges' meeting on Monday announced the start of a campaign to curb the procedure of sending juvenile criminals to Judge Bicek's court where, under existing statutes they can receive only a maximum sentence of 18 months in the correctional institution for boys at St. Charles.

Sullivan Urges Legal Reform.

Judge Sullivan pointed out that he was not criticizing Judge Bicek, who attended the conference, but was in favor of reform of the antiquated laws which in these times fail to differentiate between a delinquent boy and a boy criminal.

"We have just as much complaint with the Criminal court as it has with us," Judge Bicek declared yesterday. "I recall one recent case where an 18 year old boy had contributed to the delinquency of two other boys, 14 and 15 years old. The 18 year old was tried in the Criminal court and given probation. We had to free the other boys.

"If the Criminal court would attend to its own affairs and let us manage ours, everything would be all right.

Girl Gets Prison Sentence.

An instance of the different workings of the two courts occurred yesterday when Judge Sullivan sentenced Helen Bakutis, 18 years old, 1406 South 50th avenue, Cicero, to one to 20 years in the women's reformatory at Dwight. The girl confessed that she incited Stanley Kortas, 23 years old; his brother, Stephen, 15, and Frank Hynous, 29, to rob her own father, Stanley Bakutis, in return for a beating he gave her when he learned she was keeping company with a married man.

Despite the girl's tears Judge Sullivan overruled a motion for probation, telling her that she had betrayed her father, "who had whipped her for her own good." Stanley Kortas and Hynous already have been given two concurrent one to 20 year sentences. Stephen Kortas, however, received only an 18 months sentence at St. Charles as he was tried in the Juvenile court. Testimony was given that he had urged his brother to shoot Bakutis during the holdup.

Seek Girl Who Escaped.

The Fillmore street police yesterday were searching for Julia [illegible], 17 years old, 3145 Augusta boulevard, who it was learned escaped from the custody of a probation officer by jumping from a street car on Dec. 31, while being taken to the Juvenile court.

The girl had been found in a flat at 1745 Maypole avenue with John Malesti, 29 years old, 5436 Addison street, and Jane Bochewicz, 18, 1623 North Wood street, who are charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor and will be arraigned today.

CALL DILLINGER ESCAPE FIGURES IN PIQUETT CASE

Subpenas for several witnesses to testify at the trial of Attorney Louis Piquett, to be started Jan. 8 in the federal court, were issued yesterday. Piquett is charged with harboring the notorious John Dillinger and making arrangements for a face litfing operation for the desperado.

Among those summoned to testify are former Sherif Lillian Holley and the administrators of the Lake county, Indiana, jail at Crown Point. Government prosecutors denied that they intended to use Mrs. Helen Gillis, widow of the slain George [Baby Face] Nelson, whose real name was Gillis, as a witness. Mrs. Gillis was taken from the United States detention farm at Milan, Mich., on Dec. 28 by federal agents and her whereabouts have since been kept a secret.

Meanwhile John Paul Chase, Nelson's alleged companion at the time Inspector Samuel P. Cowley and Special Agent Herman E. Hollis of the department of justice, were killed in Barrington, is being held in solitary confinement in the county jail. Sherif Toman has ordered that Chase be kept in leg irons to insure there will be no attempt on his part to escape. An indictment charging Chase with the Hollis murder has been voted in the federal court and another charging the slaying of Inspector Cowley is under consideration.

Weitzman Is Freed on Bond of $60,000 in Daiches Case

Irving Weitzman, baking company official charged with the murder of Eli Daiches, executive of the Thomas W. Bowers Advertising agency, who was slain March 3 by hired killers, was released on bonds of $60,000 yesterday. The bonds were set by Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan of the Criminal court, $50,000 on the murder charge and $10,000 under a second indictment charging conspiracy to murder.

LAVAL LEAVES TO CEMENT PACT WITH MUSSOLINI

Hitch Seen Over Italian Colonial Demands.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Jan. 3.—A heavy smoke screen of obscurity, either intended or else unavoidable, surrounded the exact nature and extent of the incipient agreement between France and Italy tonight as Foreign Minister Pierre Laval of France left Paris for his conference with Premier Mussolini.

The press in Rome reprinted only the congratulatory comments from the Paris press and official circles here, under orders, are reticent.

[Foreign Minister Laval, in leaving for Rome last night, issued the following statement: "Realizing the grave difficulties of the present, we will defend together the interests of peace." He took with him a draft of the proposed Franco-Italian pact.]

An understanding between the two Latin nations to guarantee peace in the Balkans may still be far from complete, it appeared tonight from an article in the newspaper Il Lavoro Fascista. The fact that this paper is allowed to comment is regarded as giving its words certain authenticity.

"Much Still Undone."

Lavoro Fascista says that Laval is "not coming to Rome to sign any protocols which have been drafted in their final texts."

"Much has been done," it continues, "but much remains to be put into concrete form."

The article then suggested that the hitch between the two countries is likely to arise not over coördination of their central European policies about the revision of treaties and guaranteeing of Austrian independence but over Italy's colonial demands in Africa.

Lavoro Fascista points out that the fact that Foreign Minister Laval is being accompanied by Comte de Saint-Quentin, director of political and commercial affairs for Africa and the east in the French foreign office, indicates where the chief obstacle now lies.

Plan Big Celebration.

Whatever is the outcome of Laval's visit and its bearing on a rapprochement between the Latin countries, Fascist Italy is leaving nothing undone to make a big celebration out of the event. The French minister will be taken to see all the prize exhibition spots of Mussoliniland.

Laval, according to today's program, will arrive tomorrow night at 8 o'clock and will probably be met at the station by Mussolini himself. He will have his first conference with Mussolini Saturday morning in Mussolini's office at the Palazzo Venezia. In the afternoon he will place a wreath on the tomb of the unknown soldier and visit the tombs of the kings in the Pantheon. Saturday night Mussolini will give a dinner in Palazzo Venezia for Laval and the French mission, followed by a great reception to all the diplomatic corps.

The two statesmen will resume their talks Sunday and there will be more receptions and banqueting by the municipality of Rome and the French embassy. On Monday Laval will call on Pope Pius. It will be the first time a French minister has officially called on a pope in 70 years. Laval is expected to leave for home Tuesday.

PANAMA CANAL AUTHORITIES LIFT BAN ON VISITORS

COLON, Panama, Jan. 3.—(AP)—The recent stringent regulations virtually barring the public from the Gatun locks of the Panama canal were lifted today and visitors and cars are now permitted to enter the gates on the upper level on the east side of the locks. The carrying of packages, however, is still forbidden.

Regarding rumors of anonymous threats against the canal, a military intelligence officer said:

"We always have received such threats ever since 1917, but nothing ever comes of them. The restrictions were taken solely because of the approaching overhaul of the locks."

Simon Stays in Monte Carlo to Eye Parley in Rome

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

MONTE CARLO, Jan. 3.—Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, who has been vacationing here, unexpectedly decided today to spend another week on the Riviera instead of returning to London tomorrow as he had planned. His decision is connected here with the Laval-Mussolini talks in Rome and Sir John's desire to be available if necessary.

PODERJAY SAILS FOR U. S. TO FACE TRIAL NEXT WEEK

American Envoy in Vienna Gets Extradition Notice.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Austria, Jan. 3.—United States Minister George S. Messersmith was formally notified today that the Austrian government has decided to permit the extradition of Capt. Ivan Poderjay, former Jugo-Slav officer, to the United States.

The decision ends the battle begun last June to take Poderjay to New York to face a charge of bigamy. It was announced last Dec. 6 that Austria had decided to permit Poderjay's extradition, but formal notification was deferred until today.

Disappearance of Wife.

Poderjay is also wanted in connection with the disappearance of Agnes C. Tufverson, 35 year old attorney of Detroit and New York, who vanished some two weeks after her marriage to the captain Dec. 4, 1933, in New York.

Plans had previously been made for Poderjay to embark from Trieste or Genoa, and he is expected to be on his way to America by next week.

The attention of authorities was drawn to Capt. Poderjay last June when sisters of Miss Tufverson in Detroit gave notice of her disappearance. The dashing adventurer and Miss Tufverson had planned a honeymoon trip from New York aboard the liner Hamburg, sailing Dec. 20, 1933, but for some reason the couple did not sail. Two days later Poderjay embarked alone on the Olympic.

Cablegram Received.

A London cablegram bearing Miss Tufverson's name was received by her relatives in Detroit Jan. 2, 1934. It said: "Bad crossing. Cannot stand fog. Sailing India across France from Marseilles. Eyes better. Happiness to you all through the year."

Otherwise the woman attorney had vanished completely.

Poderjay was arrested in Vienna last June 13, along with Suzanne Ferrand who also is alleged to be his wife. She was later freed and deported to France, but the captain has been held in prison pending the outcome of extradition proceedings.

After failing to obtain the extradition on a charge of perjury in connection with Poderjay's application for license to be married to Miss Tufverson, the United States on Nov. 28 demanded the former Jugo-Slav officer on the bigamy charge.

St. Rita High School Shrine Damaged by $5,000 Blaze

Damage estimated at $5,000 was caused by a fire yesterday in the shrine of the St. Rita High school at 63d street and Oakley avenue. At the time the flames broke out the Rev. Wilbert Kirk was conducting devotions attended by 50 persons. The worshipers fled. Firemen who extinguished the blaze said it was caused by a Christmas tree coming in contact with altar candles. The altar was destroyed.

SPAIN ARRESTS MAN WHO CLAIMS HE WAS PARTNER OF CAPONE

SEVILLE, Spain, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Police today arrested a man who identified himself as Albert Sycowsky, a Russian who lived in the United States since his boyhood and who said he was a member of Al Capone's gang in Chicago. He was arrested here for lack of identity documents.

The man declared he used the alias Alexander Romanoff and was known among gangsters as "Baby Tiger." Sycowsky, who speaks five languages including Spanish and English, said he first headed a rival gang to Capone, then became his partner, with headquarters at 569 River Saldreve street.

Sycowsky said he was compelled to leave the United States when an employé out of revenge revealed his operations to the police. He was allowed to go to the Anglo-South American bank to draw on a commercial bank in Mexico for 25,000 pesos and police were awaiting the draft to verify the truth of his assertions.

[Chicago police last night said they never had heard of Albert Sycowsky. There is no such address as 569 River Saldreve street.]

TABER AND KEHOE FACE TRIAL JAN. 8 FOR BUS SLAYING

William Taber, secretary, and Joseph J. Kehoe, recording secretary, of the street car men's union, will go to trial Tuesday, Jan. 8, for the murder of James Kelly, bus dispatcher, who was slain last September in the bus strike.

Judge William V. Brothers, who will conduct the trial, set the date yesterday after overruling defense motions to quash the indictment and for a bill of particulars. A special venire of 100 men has been ordered to report for jury duty.

Mr. Nau began his career as an office boy for the railroad when he was 16 years old.

VOTERS IN SAAR SAFE TO RE-ENTER U.S., SAYS RULING

Dickstein Bill Provides Citizenship Forfeiture.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—American citizens and resident aliens who have returned to the Saar to vote in the plebiscite there will not thereby jeopardize their citizenship or their right to reënter this country under existing law, the labor department ruled today.

Representative Samuel Dickstein [Dem., N. Y.], however, introduced a bill shortly after the opening of congress today providing that all naturalized Americans who returned to participate in the plebiscite shall forfeit their citizenship. Dickstein, a member of the committee which has been investigating Nazi and other subversive propaganda, estimated 5,000 naturalized Americans would be affected by his bill.

No Act of Expatriation.

Under existing law, nothing in the Saar voting can be construed as an act of expatriation by a naturalized American citizen, and, therefore, his citizenship in this country will not be endangered, the bureau of immigration and naturalization ruled.

Similarly, Saar aliens who have been admitted to this country and have gone back to vote will be allowed to reënter the United States, free from immigration quota restrictions, on the basis that they are returning to a nonrelinquished domicile in this country.

Between 1,000 and 5,000 persons from the United States are reported to have returned to the Saar for the plebiscite. Officials here said they had no way of knowing the exact number.

Hold Parleys on Status.

Conferences between the labor and state departments have been held on the status of these people, some of whom are naturalized American citizens and some of whom are aliens.

There is nothing in the articles governing the Saar plebiscite which requires a voter to take an oath of allegience or to perform any act which might be construed as expatriating him, if he has been naturalized here, officials held after conferences. They also held as to aliens that their return to the Saar for the voting would not constitute giving up their homes in this country.

SERB PREMIER VOWS TO FOLLOW POLICIES OF SLAIN MONARCH

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Bogolyub Yevtich, head of the new Jugo-Slav government, disappointed the progressive elements of the country today by declaring in his initial address in parliament that the government's future internal policies will be based on King Alexander's constitution of 1931.

"We will coöperate," the prime minister said, "with all men of good will, irrespective of previous party affiliations."

The statement was regarded in some quarters as vague and it was noted that Yevtich avoided all mention of the Croats and Slovenes, who had hoped for further recognition under his premiership.

HALSTED STREET "BUTTON HOLERS" FINED AND JAILED

For disobeying an injunction forbidding them to "buttonhole" prospective customers, three Halsted street merchants were sentenced to jail and 15 others were fined by Circuit Judge Benjamin P. Epstein yesterday.

Charles Baikoff and his brother Paul, who operate a store at 1218 South Halsted street, were given 60 day sentences and fined $250 each. Harry Guberman, clerk in a store at 1228 South Halsted street, was given 60 days and fined $100. Harry Lieberman, 1225 South Halsted street, was fined $250, and Frank Segal, 1351 South Halsted street, was fined $200. Thirteen others pleaded guilty to contempt and were fined $1 each.

Other merchants in the vicinity obtained the injunction several months ago, and yesterday asked that the 18 be held in contempt. It was charged those sentenced in some instances literally dragged prospective buyers into their stores.

Ex-Waukegan Rotary Club Head Sued for a Divorce

Marion Roy Beeman, who resigned Wednesday as president of the Waukegan Rotary club, was sued for divorce in the Lake county Circuit court yesterday by his wife, Nellie, 1126 Poplar street, Waukegan. She charged cruelty, alleging her husband struck her twice. Until recently Beeman was a partner in the P. W. Pettengill accounting firm in Waukegan, but resigned to accept a position in Milwaukee. Mrs. Beeman asks custody of their three children, the eldest 14 years old, and support money. She also seeks an injunction to restrain her husband from disposing of his assets.

During recent weeks we have advertised auto batteries at $1.95 and described them as "Super-Power".

These batteries were not "Super-Power" batteries and should not have been so described.

It should also have been made clear that these batteries were only satisfactory for use in some cars, — namely those which can successfully use 13 plate batteries.

Police Chief Ousted After New Year's Clashes.

SAARBRUECKEN, Saar Basin Territory, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Col. Geoffrey G. Knox, head of the league of nations' governing commission, tonight threatened to muzzle the Saar's press for what he termed "exaggerated accounts" of the New Year's political strife, in which two were killed and at least one hundred persons were injured.

The warning was issued as doubts were expressed even in official quarters whether the anti-Nazi rallies scheduled for Saarbruecken Sunday can be held without incident. Fifteen trains were bringing anti-Hitlerites from all parts of the territory for the last massmeeting before the plebiscite Jan. 13.

Flays Political Agitation.

Knox declared the New Year's incidents "did not disturb public order or security."

"The government cannot permit events to be used for political ends," he added, saying newspapers which hereafter "publish stories in exaggerated form" will be suspended.

A police shakeup today following upon the New Year's strife resulted in the suspension of Commissioner Machts. A. Lei, Czechoslovak, replaced him.

Machts once was a staunch republican in Germany, but fled when the Nazis came into power. After he was made police commissioner of the Saar, he was continuously opposed by the citizens. Once he was shot at in the streets.

Ballots Kept Secret.

Ten days before the plebiscite in which the Saarlanders will vote to return to Germany, go to France, or remain under the control of the league, preparations for the voting are being made in the greatest secrecy.

The ballots are being printed outside the Saar and only the plebiscite commissioners and the printers themselves know where. The 556,200 ballots will be brought in the day before the vote in heavily guarded army trucks. A sketch of the ballots will be released to papers to instruct voters, but no photographs of the sheets will be printed.

One American is among the 900 foreigners who will be brought in to preside over the 860 polling places to assure honest voting. He is James K. Pollock, assistant professor of political science of the University of Michigan. The other poll workers are 365 Dutch, 300 Swiss, 220 Luxembourgers, 5 Danes, 4 English, 3 Italians, 1 Swede, and 1 Portuguese. Each worker will receive 1,000 francs [$66] plus traveling expenses and keep.

Nazis Add Argument.

The German front today added another argument to their inducements to vote a return to Germany. The Nazi partisans cited that Germany has greatly increased its gunpowder purchases from the Saar industry at Singhert. It was also pointed out that payment for this is blocked by exchange restrictions which would be wiped out by the Saar's return to Germany.

The Nazi Protestant bishop of western Germany in a pastoral letter set aside the next two Sundays to pray for the return of the Saar to Germany. Two Catholic bishops issued letters merely asking for a result "which is for the best interests of Germany."

NOTED ASTRONOMER PREDICTS A YEAR OF DISASTROUS QUAKES

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 3.—Martin Gil, Argentina's noted astronomer, writing in La Nacion, predicts a year of unusually frequent and disastrous earthquakes throughout the world.

He says they will be confined to regions already known as earthquake areas. He specifically forecasts earthquakes and violent storms in various parts of the world next Saturday and Sunday, when he also expects one of the highest tides of the year. He bases his predictions on electromagnetic disturbances set up by sun spots.

A strong earthquake was felt over a large area embracing parts of the provinces of Santiago Del Estero, Cordoba and Santa Fe Tuesday night, but no damage was reported.

PROPHET VOLIVA SEES ONLY WOE FOR THE FUTURE

Wilbur Glenn Voliva, overseer of the Christian Catholic church of Zion, yesterday took a prophetic look into the future and saw nothing but ruin and destruction for the human race.

A new battle of Armageddon, he said, will take place some time in 1942 or 1943. As for 1935, that's going to be hard going also, what with earthquakes, drouths, floods, tidal waves, and volcanic eruptions, all due to "mother earth groaning with her children."

Before Armageddon, according to the overseer, the United States, Italy, France, and Great Britain will be banded together in a Fascist revival and will send armies to the Holy Land to fight with a communist federation of nations.

Last summer Voliva prophesied that the drouth would last for seven years and that wheat would sell before the end of that period at $48 a bushel. He also predicted that the world would come to an end last Sept. 10.

HITLER STAGES MYSTERY SHOW FOR NAZI UNITY

Hundreds of Chiefs Meet; Foreign Lies 'Attacked'

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 3.—Berlin was sent into a frenzy of excitement this morning when 5,000 black uniformed Schutz Staffel men [picked Hitler guards] lined up on the Wilhelmstrasse and Unter den Linden from Brandenburg gate to the former imperial castle. Trafic on these thoroughfares was stopped while the police threw a heavy cordon around the government district.

Hundreds of automobiles and trains brought Nazi dignitaries, ranging from cabinet members, governors of states, and Storm Troop chiefs to police chiefs of almost every German city and leaders of Nazi organizations of all descriptions, into the city. Their occupants immediately disappeared into the state opera house.

Official quarters declared hazily that the activities were part of a New Year's meeting to demonstrate German unity, but they refused to explain the reason for all the secrecy. Not a word had appeared in the newspapers about the intended gathering.

Called to Show Unity?

"The leaders of the party, of the state, and of the army gathered in Berlin," said the official release, "to show their fidelity to the fuehrer, and to demonstrate to the whole world the unshakable unity of those called as leaders of the German nation, and to destroy the web of lies and calumnies spread about Germany in foreign countries."

It was recalled that recent reports in the Saar told of another "blood purge" similar to that of last June which had resulted in the execution of at least 100 persons and imprisonment of several thousand. The reports have been vigorously denied by Nazi authorities.

Officials denied assertions that a new military program was discussed at the meeting, including plans for air protection and the use of fog and gas in air warfare. Another report declared that the conference was designed to spike a rumor that Paul Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda, has split with Hermann Wilhelm Goering, minister of aviation and premier of Prussia, endangering the life of the Nazi party.

Mystery Thickened.

The mystery was thickened by an order forbidding airplanes to fly over Berlin, allowing them to enter the German capital only by a narrow two mile zone along the railroad reaching the capital from the south.

Police airplanes, though, were seen flying low over the city, with pilots peering at the streets below.

Deputy Leader Rudolf Hess of the Nazi party opened the meeting, the official communique said, addressing Chancellor Hitler.

"The chiefs of the party and the state here assembled express publicly our devotion to you, my fuehrer, to counteract the lies and rumors spread in foreign countries presumably to influence the Saar plebiscite," he is reported to have said.

Goering Is Host.

Gen. Goering was host of the day and presented New Year's wishes of the government, the state, the governors, the national police, the labor service and the field police to Hitler. Hitler replied with what was described by the Nazi report as a flaming speech attacking enemies abroad.

"They must know that the days of German internal dissensions are over," he was quoted as saying. "They must know that they will find the whole German nation and the whole German state united in defense of German honor and peace."

Goering Gives Talk.

The session ended, according to the communique, with Gen. Goering expressing Germany's "horror and indignation at the false rumors spread about Germany and meant to create unrest at home and to undermine the fidelity of the Saarlanders."

"In blind obedience we follow you and our fuehrer this year as we did before," Goering pledged.

The Nazi leaders finished off the day by attending a special performance of Wagner's "Tannhäuser" at the opera house.

GERMANY FREES U. S. GIRL; HELD IN JAIL 11 DAYS

Seized for Alleged Insult to Adolf Hitler.

WALDMOHR, Germany, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Elsa Sittell, New York girl, was free tonight after eleven days in jail for "insulting" Reichsfuehrer Adolph Hitler—free, that is, to do anything but talk.

Nazis in letting her out of the prison cell here, in which they put her the day before Christmas because she allegedly said Hitler had Jewish blood, clamped on the condition that she keep her story to herself and let the whole thing blow over. She carefully complied.

Waiting until after dusk to escape the handful of photographers keeping vigil before the red stone building, Miss Sittell rushed out of the prison, her face hidden in her black seal coat, jumped into a waiting taxi and hurried away to get the 14 pieces of luggage that started her troubles. The baggage is held at Schoenberg by customs officials.

Can Visit Parents.

She told officials she might continue the journey she started before Christmas to see her aged parents in Germany. Since she promised not to talk, she was informed she could remain in Germany.

Three lawyers from Paris and the consular authorities of her adopted United States obtained her release. Miss Sittell had gone to Europe intending to vote in the Saar plebiscite.

Going to Germany to visit her parents, she ran into difficulties with customs officials. While she was waiting for matters to be straightened out, she conversed with Storm Troopers and, it was charged, made derogatory remarks concerning the Storm Troops and Hitler. She was arrested and jailed.

Long Distance Calls.

Today was a busy day for the American girl. She spent 300 marks [approximately $120], it was understood, in long distance calls and telegrams, which brought results when the Paris attorneys and the American vice consul at Frankfort arrived to iron out the final details of her release.

It was understood she owed her freedom and permission to remain in Germany to the efforts of American consular authorities who were reported to have guaranteed the ministry of justice in Berlin that neither they nor Miss Sittell would make much ado about the case. Ordinarily foreigners are deported and forbidden to reënter the country on such charges as were filed against her.

ABYSSINIA INVOKES LEAGUE COVENANT IN ROW WITH ITALY

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

GENEVA, Jan. 3.—Abyssinia telegraphed to the league of nations today asking it to take effectual measures under article XI. of the covenant to safeguard peace between Abyssinia and Italy. The text of article XI. of the league covenant reads in part:

"Any war or threat of war, whether immediately affecting any of the members of the league or not, is hereby declared a matter of concern to the whole league and the league shall take any action that may be deemed wise and effectual to safeguard the peace of nations."

The Abyssinian message charged troops of Italian Somaliland committed aggression against an Abyssinian garrison at Gerlogubi Dec. 29. The message said two Abyssinians were killed and two wounded.

Joseph A. Avenol, secretary general of the league, in reply said Abyssinia's communication is being sent to members of the league council, which meets Jan. 11.

TWO BROTHERS SEIZED DIVIDING LOOT IN HOLDUP

Two young men entered the Blumenfeld dry goods store at 1528 Fullerton avenue yesterday and compelled Jerome Blumenfeld, clerk, to hand over 20 pairs of silk stockings.

When the robbers were described to Capt. Thomas Duffy he announced a belief that they were George Kleba, 20 years old, and his brother, Felix Kleba, 26 years old, both of 2260 Lewis street, who had previously been arrested as robber suspects.

So the captain sent four policemen to the Klebas' home and they found the Kleba brothers dividing 20 pairs of silk stockings. After a struggle the youths were arrested.

After they had been taken to the station their mother, Mrs. Mary Kleba, arrived and protested that their seizure was illegal.

"The new law just passed," she asserted, "says that it is all right to rob if you can't find work."

This argument was not recognized and the brothers, after being identified by Blumenfeld, were taken to the detective bureau showup last night.

MOTHER TELLS OF BABY AT PLAY AND SHOCK OF FINDING CHILD KIDNAPED

LINDBERGH SAYS HE HEARD NOISE AGAINST HOUSE

State Asks Death for Hauptmann.

neck. She laid her right hand firmly on the Bible and took the court oath.

She seated herself in the chair and clasped her hands in her lap. Her ankles were crossed. She looked bravely at the prosecutor from under a small black hat whch tilted slightly over her left eye.

"You are the wife of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh?" Prosecutor Wilentz began.

"I am," she answered in tones little louder than a whisper. The jurors leaned forward to listen. The crowd in the courtroom became silent.

"On March 1, 1932, you occupied a home near Hopewell, in Hunterdon county, N. J.?" Wilentz asked.

"I did," Mrs. Lindbergh replied.

Names Those in House.

With affirmative answers, Mrs. Lindbergh gave a little nod of her head. With negative replies, she shook her head from side to side slightly.

She enumerated the members of the household at that time, herself and her husband, Betty Gow, Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Wheatly, the butler, and his wife, and the 20 month old child.

She had come to stay in the home on Feb. 27, a Friday. The kidnaping occurred the following Tuesday night.

Wilentz questioned. Mrs. Lindbergh answered.

Q.—You were there all day on March 1? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Your son was there all day? A.—He was.

Q.—Did you leave the premises that day? A.—I took a short walk in the afternoon.

Q.—Were you alone? A.—Yes, I went for the walk about 1:30, when Miss Gow arrived. I was not gone for more than perhaps half an hour.

Plays with Her Baby.

Mrs. Lindbergh had played with her baby in the morning, she said, and put him to sleep for his afternoon nap about 1 o'clock; after he awoke she played with him again.

The attorney general asked her to narrate an incident when she had been outside the house.

"O, yes," she said, with a slight smile, "I was walking around under his window outside. I threw up a pebble to attract Miss Gow's attention. I called to her to bring him to the window and hold him up. He was asleep."

Mrs. Lindbergh paused and moistened her lips. She seemed to be recalling that trivial incident. She twisted the ring on the fourth finger of her left hand. Prosecutor Wilentz said hastily:

"Will you point out the nursery and the windows on the map, Mrs. Lindbergh?"

Shows Window on Map.

Mrs. Lindbergh turned to the big map showing a floor plan of the Lindbergh home and pointed her finger. Then, seeing that the jurors were puzzled, she descended from the chair, took a pointer and indicated the nursery at the southeast corner of the second floor of the home.

Mrs. Lindbergh was asked if the ground about the house was muddy. She said it was. She remembered leaving footprints about. The kidnaper's footprints in the mud are expected to figure later in the case.

"What did you do the rest of the afternoon?" she was asked.

"I was in the sitting room. About 5 p. m. Miss Gow brought the baby down and we played with him some more. He ran into the kitchen with her. I next saw him about 6:15 p. m. when he was just finishing his supper in the nursery."

Get Baby Ready for Bed.

Mrs. Lindbergh helped the nursemaid prepare the child for bed, she said.

"Was he a normal boy?" asked Wilentz.

"Perfectly normal," the mother replied with an emphatic nod.

"He was playful?" Wilentz asked.

"Very," she replied, with a little smile.

"He had a slight cold," Mrs. Lindbergh continued, "but it was much better."

The child was able to talk fairly well, she said. He called all members of the household by their names and understood what was said to him.

"Describe him, please," said Wilentz, softly.

Mrs. Lindbergh sat back in her chair, her head held high. She hesitated.

"What was the color of his hair?" suggested the lawyer.

"Light. Gold," she said.

"Curly?" he asked.

"Yes," she said.

"And his eyes?" he queried. "They were blue," she said.

Mrs. Lindbergh was shown a large photograph of the child and asked if it was a portrait of Charles A. Lindbergh Jr.

Identifies Baby's Picture.

"That is he," she said in a whisper.

The picture was introduced into evidence. The judge, who had been listening closely, produced a large handkerchief and blew his nose vigorously.

Urged to do so by Attorney General Wilentz, Mrs. Lindbergh described the nursery. She told of the location of the windows, through one of which the kidnaper carried the child and down a ladder. She detailed the furniture, a table, a chiffonier. She told of the baby's crib with a large painted screen before it to ward off drafts. The crib faced an open fireplace, she said.

Photographs showing various views of the nursery were shown her and she identified them. She herself, she said, slept in a bedroom connected with the nursery through a short passageway.

What Her Baby Wore.

Mrs. Lindbergh was asked to go into detail concerning the clothing the baby wore when he was put to bed the night of the kidnaping.

"First," she said, "I rubbed some ointment on his chest for his cold. Then he had next to his skin a homemade flannel shirt which Miss Gow cut out and sewed from a flannel petticoat."

It was at this point that the lawyer produced the weather beaten flannel shirt which Mrs. Lindbergh identified as that homemade shirt.

"On top of the shirt," she continued, "he had a small sleeveless wool shirt cut very low in front and back."

Again, she identified the second garment which was also found when the body was discovered.

"The wool sleeping suit was on top of the others," she continued at the behest of the prosecutor. "I bought it myself."

It also was shown her and identified. It was the wool sleeping suit that was stolen and returned later to prove the baby alive. The three garments made a little bundle on the stenographer's table below her and her glances strayed frequently to the heap of small garments, as if fascinated by them.

Identifies Thumb Guard.

She was shown the wire thumb protector which was used to break the baby of a habit of sucking his thumb. It had been found some distance from the house. Succeeding questions indicated that the thumb protector, tied around the wrist of the child outside the sleeping garment, could have dropped off only if the sleeping garment itself had been ripped from the body. This point is to be made much of by the state as indicating that the child was dead when the sleeping garment was taken off. The state says the child was killed within a few minutes after being taken from the crib.

Mrs. Lindbergh was asked to continue her story.

"After I saw the child dressed for sleeping," she said, "I went down to the living room about 7:30 p. m."

Lindbergh Returns Later.

Mrs. Lindbergh was questioned by Wilentz.

Q.—Was Col. Lindbergh home at that time. A.—No, sir. I had heard he was coming home.

Q.—What did you do? A.—I sat at the desk in the living room until about 8:25 p. m., when I heard the horn of my husband's car outside. He drove into the rear court and into the garage. He came in through the back hall. We went upstairs for about five minutes and then came down again to the dining room where we had supper.

They finished eating about 9 p. m., Mrs. Lindbergh said, and went into the living room. They sat there talking for about five minutes and then went up to Mrs. Lindbergh's bedroom.

"We sat there talking about 20 minutes," Mrs. Lindbergh continued. "Then my husband drew water for a bath and took a bath. He went down to the library afterwards. I got ready to go to bed."

Wilentz asked her:

Q.—Had you a cold, also? A.—I had caught a cold from the baby. I rang the bell for Mrs. Wheatly and asked her to prepare a hot lemonade for me. Then I took a bath.

First Sign of Alarm.

Mrs. Lindbergh had barely completed her bathing, she said, when Betty Gow came to her and asked her if she had the baby. She said she had not.

"She called to my husband downstairs to ask if he had the child," Mrs. Lindbergh continued, her eyes widening at the recollection of that moment, "I went into the baby's room through the connecting passage. I found the crib empty."

Mrs. Lindbergh did not attempt to describe the fearful excitement of herself, Col. Lindbergh, and the nursemaid.

"My husband went to a closet and got his rifle," she said simply. "All three of us went to the bedroom and searched it. I was still in the bedroom when Mrs. Wheatly came upstairs. I got dressed."

Wilentz questioned, Mrs. Lindbergh replied.

Q.—Were all the windows closed when you left the nursery at 7:30 p. m.? A.—Miss Gow and I closed them all and closed the shutters, also. We tried to close the shutter on the east window, but we couldn't lock it although we both pulled on it.

"You've never seen the child since that night when you left it going to bed?" asked the prosecutor."

"No," Mrs. Lindbergh said.

Tells of Public Appeals.

Wilentz asked about later action by Mrs. Lindbergh.

Q.—You joined in an appeal for its return? A.—My husband did.

Q.—On one occasion, did you make an appeal over the radio and broadcast the diet which should be given the child? A.—I gave out the diet list, but didn't speak over the radio.

In answer to succeeding questions, Mrs. Lindbergh said the bed clothing in the crib had been practically untouched. The coverlet was still fastened with pins to the mattress, she remembered.

Q.—Do you remember if the windows were open or closed? A.—I didn't notice.

Q.—Did you see a note, A.—No, I did not.

Q.—Did any one precede you into that bedroom? A.—Only Miss Gow, so far as I know.

Defense Asks Nothing.

"I think that's all, Mrs. Lindbergh," concluded Wilentz. She turned to the defense lawyers, bracing herself for continued questioning.

Defense Attorney Reilly, with one eye on the jurors who were leaning forward, the four women jurors particularly, as if wishful to console the disconsolate mother, arose and said:

"No cross-examination, your honor."

Mrs. Lindbergh stepped down and took a seat not far from her husband, who gave her a brief glance which seemed to indicate approval.

"Betty Gow!" called Prosecutor Wilentz, and the nursemaid jumped up and started to thread her way through the crowd. But Betty was to be denied her moment for the present. The state reconsidered.

Defense's Attack Is Indicated.

Before Mrs. Lindbergh took the stand the defense, in cross-examination of an engineer who drew the charts showing the floor plan of the Lindbergh home, indicated one line of its attack upon the state's case.

In a series of questions proposed by Frederick Pope, one of the defense lawyers, an effort was made to show how easy it would have been for any one to enter the Lindbergh home from the kitchen, ascend to the second floor by a rear stairway, go to the nursery, take the child from his bed, removing him from the house by the same rear passageway. The defense asked that such a course be traced with pencil on the chart, but Judge Trenchard overruled this request, temporarily at least, on motion of the state.

"It's incompetent and immaterial," Wilentz had objected.

"It may be incompetent and immaterial to you," Pope retorted, "but it is not from our view of this case."

"Well, it doesn't appear to the court to be relevant at this moment," Judge Trenchard said. "It may be later."

Pope asked Roberts the distance from the sill of the library window to that of the nursery. Roberts replied, "Nine feet five inches." The library window was opened in the ordinary way, sliding up and down, Roberts said, while the nursery window was of the convenient type; it swung.

COL. LINDBERGH'S STORY

"Col. Lindbergh!" Attorney General Wilentz announced, and there ensued the usual hubbub by the racing of messenger boys with bulletins to the waiting telegraph wires.

The famous aviator eased his long frame into the witness chair. His big hands were clasped firmly on his crossed knees. A determined expression which approached grimness was on his youthful countenance. His clothing was a gray ensemble, gray suit, gray shirt, gray tie.

The preliminary questioning was brief and speedy. He told who he was, mentioned his residence in the Hopewell home in March, 1932, and also gave the names of those in the household. The day of March 1, 1932, he said, he spent in New York.

"What time did you arrive home that evening?" he was asked.

"About 8:25 p. m.," was the answer. He shifted his position, leaning an elbow on the right arm of the chair, resting his chin in his right hand. He thrust his left hand into a side coat pocket.

Col. Lindbergh's testimony closely followed that of his wife.

"I put the car in the garage," he said, "and entered the house through the kitchen. I joined my wife and we had supper in the dining room. After supper, at approximately 9 o'clock, we went into the living room, sat on the sofa for about 5 or 10 minutes and talked.

Says He Heard Noise.

Col. Lindbergh was questioned by Wilentz.

Q.—Now, while you were sitting there, did you hear some sort of noise. A.—Yes, I did.

Q.—What was it? A.—While sitting on the sofa I heard a sound which seemed to me to sound like the top slats of a crate such as an orange box being dropped on the floor. I thought some one had dropped some boards in the kitchen. It was noticeable enough so that I said to my wife: "What is that?"

Q.—That would be about 9:10 p. m. A.—About 9:10 or 9:15.

Q.—Was it the sort of a noise that could be caused by the falling of a ladder? A.—Yes. It was the same noise that would be made by a ladder falling against the side of the house outside.

Col. Lindbergh then told of going upstairs, taking a bath, and descending to the library. The library is directly beneath the nursery, the testimony brought out, and the window of the library was directly beneath the nursery window, out of which the child is supposed to have been taken.

Q.—Were there curtains over the library window. A.—No, sir.

Q.—You could see out of it? A.—As far as the darkness would allow.

Q.—Did you see anything go up or down past that window? A.—No, sir.

Hears Voice of Excited Nurse.

Col. Lindbergh proceeded to tell of hearing the nursemaid's excited voice calling from upstairs asking if he had the child. He raced upstairs, he said, and went into the nursery.

"From the appearance of the bed clothing I realized that something was wrong at once," he told the jury. "The bed clothing was so arranged that it was obvious that the child could not have got out by himself. He would have to have been pulled out."

The questioning was done by Wilentz.

Q.—Did you see a note in the room. A.—I am not certain if I saw it that first time or when I came back the second time, about five minutes later.

Tells of Finding Note.

Q.—Where did you find the note? A.—It was on the window sill of the east window.

Q.—Was the window closed? A.—It was.

Col. Lindbergh did not touch the envelope containing the note, he said, and ordered the others not to touch it. He was asked to describe from a photograph of the nursery just where he found the note. He took the photograph and walked along the jury box, pointing out the place where the note was found to each juror.

The note was then offered in evidence, no objection being made by the defense. Prosecutor Wilentz read it aloud to the jury. This was the famous note, bearing two interlocking circles, a red blotch, and three small holes, which has provoked so much discussion.

Calls Police, Takes Rifle.

Col. Lindbergh said he asked the butler to call the police and obtained his rifle from a closet.

"I heard the butler put the call through and knew the wires had not been cut," he continued. "I went outside of the house. It was extremely dark. I went down the road about 100 yards."

Shortly thereafter, he said, the first squads of police arrived. He and Police Chief Wolf of Hopewell went over the grounds with a flashlight, he told the jury, and found the ladder southeast of the house.

"We also found footprints of a man and the imprints where the ladder had been set in the mud at the side of the house, under the window," Col. Lindbergh said. He identified a photograph of the muddy prints. The picture, however, showed many footprints and Col. Lindbergh remarked, somewhat bitterly:

Footprints Are Messed.

"There were several hundred persons gathered around the house. The press especially got out of control, and tramped around."

"Did you receive another note?" Prosecutor Wilentz continued. "Yes," Lindbergh said. The lawyer produced the second ransom note, protected in an envelope of cellophane. This was the note addressed to "Mr. Col. Lindbergh" which raised the ransom demands to $70,000. It also was read to the jury.

Court adjourned at that point. Col. Lindbergh will continue tomorrow morning under direct examination to narrate the story of the ransom negotiations. Some time tomorrow he is expected to identify Hauptmann as the man whose voice called Dr. J. F. (Jafsie) Condon, intermediary, on the night the $50,000 ransom was handed over.

Defense Attorney Reilly announced tonight that he intended to cross-examine Col. Lindbergh at length.

"I will probably take an entire day in questioning him," he said.

FIRST HOUR FILLS JURY

Scenes of the opening day were repeated as court opened with the immediate business of the attorneys' selection of the eleventh and twelfth jurors. That was done in the first hour of the morning session.

There were the same crowds outside the courthouse, the same confusion within. But soon there became evident an added tension among some of the principals and that tension spread to the crowd.

The judge was just as bored when he was not scolding the lawyers for what he deemed unnecessary delay. The lawyers displayed the same brand of forced cheerfulness in their relations toward each other. The same sharp activity prevailed along the press benches.

Hauptmann, for one, was obviously laboring under considerable excitement. As soon as he took his seat near the defense table he leaned forward and whispered rapidly to Defense Attorney Loyd C. Fisher. Hauptmann used short, jerky gestures to emphasize his statements.

Chief Defense Attorney Edward Reilly looked hurt at the lack of attention being accorded him and he came over to listen to what Hauptmann was saying. The reporters fairly ached with curiosity, but the conversation remained a mystery.

When Col. Lindbergh appeared he also displayed more animation than on the preceding day. He immediately produced a large pad of paper which he placed upon his knee. He began making notes. He sat in the same seat as previously, about six feet from Hauptmann.

One of the runners for the defense lawyers came in with a paper-wrapped bundle. Court attachés watched him suspiciously. Five hundred pairs of eyes were focused upon Attorney Reilly as he solemnly unwrapped the bundle. He disclosed a water pitcher and three glasses. The defense would not be unequipped for the verbal barrage to come.

Hauptmann Gets Letter.

The ten jurors filed in and seated themselves. A few smiled at neighbors in the courtroom. Others looked ahead self-consciously.

A letter bearing airmail stamps was handed to Hauptmann. He opened it and read it without a change in expression. A bulletin later disclosed that it contained an offer to sell the defendant a work on "Sales Psychology" by a Cleveland writer.

Exactly one hour was consumed in obtaining the two remaining jurors. The defense used a peremptory challenge on Mrs. Helen Young, who confessed to an opinion derogatory to Hauptmann. The state exercised the same privilege with Archie Diehl, unemployed.

Mrs. Daisy Emmons, housewife, was being questioned when there was a ripple of excitement.

Mrs. Lindbergh Enters.

Mrs. Anne Morrow Lindbergh had appeared in the doorway at the front of the courtroom and slipped quietly to a seat.

She sat in the second row of the chairs reserved for witnesses and privileged guests, presenting a clear profile to the gazing hundreds in the courtroom. Her blue eyes looked straight ahead. Not once during the morning session, which was to prove such an ordeal to her as she heard repeated the story of her firstborn's kidnaping and brutal slaying, did she turn her head. Her only sign of emotion was a rapid blinking of her eyelids.

Mrs. Lindbergh was dressed simply in a black hat, black silk dress with some pink material at the throat. Betty Gow, the Scotch nursemaid, who sat near her, was garbed much more strikingly in brown velvet toque with a gay feather, a velvet dress, and furs that looked expensive. Miss Gow was obviously in a state of gay excitement.

Mrs. Lindbergh was far removed from her husband where she sat. But she was only three seats away from the wife of the defendant, the bewildered Mrs. Hauptmann. Mrs. Hauptmann gazed curiously at Mrs. Lindbergh, who did not look at her.

Lindberghs Don't Speak.

Both Col. Lindbergh and his wife seemed unaware of each other's presence. This was carried to such an extreme that when, at a recess, the aviator walked across the courtroom and into the judge's chambers, he passed within two feet of his wife without looking at her. She did not look at him.

While the crowd was watching the principals, the eleventh juror, Liscon C. Case, a carpenter, had announced his impartiality and a belief that he could try the case fairly. He was accepted by both sides.

Only one seat in the jury box remained vacant. There was a perceptible increase in the courtroom tension. Mrs. Emeline M. Chamberlin, a stenographer, was waved aside. Both prosecution and defense apparently had decided that four women on the jury would be sufficient.

Charles Quick, a farmer, frowned at Hauptmann, said he had a "very strong opinion."

"And I'd hold it forever," he declared, "regardless of the evidence I heard. I would never change my opinion."

The judge looked at him with curiosity, but made no comment. Excused, the strong minded Mr. Quick stepped down.

Get Twelfth Juror.

Howard V. Biggs, an unemployed bookkeeper, proved to be the answer to the prayers of both sides. The state looked him over, asked him two questions, and nodded its satisfaction. Slightly longer examination by the defense and there were nods of approval.

"Content!" chorused the lawyers.

The jury to try Hauptmann was completed. That was exactly 11 a. m., one hour after court had opened. The jury has 4 women and 8 men.

Col. Lindbergh leaned forward and whispered to the state's attorneys. He nodded his head as if in approval of the jury.

Hauptmann set his thin lips more firmly but otherwise displayed no emotion. Mrs. Lindbergh did not look up. The lawyers smiled happily as if both sides had won a great victory.

The courtroom pulsed with noise. Messengers dashed forth with bulletins. The crowd muttered and grew noisy. Judge Trenchard glared.

"Let's have some silence!" he growled.

Obtains Guards for Jurors.

"Mr. Clerk, swear in three women and three men officers to guard the jury." This was done and the court addressed the twelve in the box. He warned them that they were to read no newspapers, nor listen to the radio, nor engage in any discussion of the case.

"This will be something of a hardship," he said, "but it will be necessary."

For amusement, he assured them, they could have all the nice long walks in the brisk January air [under guard, of course] that they desired. They would be cared for as well as the Union hotel could do it. The jurors failed to show extravagant pleasure at these promises.

STATE OUTLINES CASE

Then Attorney General Wilentz arose to make the opening statement, what the prosecution intends to prove, and for the first time since the beginning of the trial the courtroom was quiet.

Wilentz, clever Jewish lawyer from Perth Amboy, has a good court room presence. He was low voiced, composed, as he began. He showed a knowledge of oratory in sudden outbursts of speech, returning immediately to the quiet manner which characterized most of his statements.

"The grand jury has returned an indictment here," he began, "charging that one Charles A. Lindbergh Jr., was murdered."

Wilentz explained New Jersey law concerning a death by violence. A blow causing death during the commission of another crime was murder, he declared.

Baby Quickly Murdered.

"And we are going to prove that the blow which caused death in this case was almost instantaneously fatal," he asserted. "The evidence will prove that the baby was dead before it had been taken half a mile from the Lindbergh home."

"A very distinguished citizen was a resident of Hunterdon county on March 1, 1932," Wilentz continued. "He and his wife, Mrs. Lindbergh, Betty Gow, a nursemaid, Wheatly, a butler, and his infant son, some 20 months old, lived together in their home at Hopewell.

"The child was a healthy, happy, normal little tot. His eyes were blue and his hair blond. He was playing around the house that very day."

Mrs. Lindbergh Calm.

Those in the vicinity of Mrs. Lindbergh craned their necks to see how she was receiving this reminder of what probably was the unhappiest night of her life. There was no emotion in her pale face. Only the flickering eyelids betrayed her inner thoughts.

Prosecutor Wilentz became dramatic.

"The man who went into that room and who murdered that child sits in this very courtroom," he shouted. "There he is over there among the distinguished members of the bar who make up his counsel.

"That man plotted this crime. He came there with a ladder and with the intent to steal and commit a battery upon the child and steal its clothing.

"The ladder broke while he was coming down it with the child in his arms. The weight was heavier coming down than going up. The state will prove that in the commission of that burglary, the child was instantly killed.

"He tried to take the ladder with him. But the double burden was too much. He dropped the ladder about seventy feet from the house. He carried the dead baby about half a mile, knowing that it was dead.

"The dead boby was no good to him. He yanked and ripped its sleeping garment off. He needed a token in his later negotiations for ransom.

"Then, in the first convenient spot he could find, he scooped up a hastily improvised and shallow grave and left the body there."

Lindberghs Find Baby Gone.

About 10 o'clock the Lindberghs found the child gone, the prosecutor told the jury.

"You can imagine the excitement, the hysteria in that home at this discovery," Wilentz said. "Lindbergh grabbed his rifle and went out up and down the roads and in the woods while Mrs. Lindbergh and Miss Gow looked into every closet and every corner in a desperate effort to find the baby.

"Soon the world knew of the crime."

Hauptmann watched every move, every gesture of the prosecutor, his pale eyes steady. Lindbergh also listened with rapt attention.

Wilentz narrated the manner in which Dr. Condon, whom he referred to as a "distinguished educator," entered the ransom negotiations.

"Dr. Condon inserted an ad in the Bronx Home News," Wilentz said, "and Hauptmann answered it, saying that he would deal with the doctor. The next day, the state will prove, Hauptmann delivered a note to a cab driver to be taken to Condon making an appointment with him.

"Condon went to the Woodlawn cemetery as directed. At first Hauptmann was scared and scaled a nine foot wall in fear of police pursuit. But when he realized that only Condon was there he came back. They talked for an hour and twenty minutes."

During the course of the conversation, Wilentz said, Hauptmann asked the educator, "Will I burn if the child dies?"

Says Hauptmann Invented Pal.

"Hauptmann tried to sell Condon on the idea that he needn't produce the Lindbergh child before the ransom money was paid," the prosecutor declared. He invented a fictitious character, saying "No. 1 would smack me out if I promised that."

Finally the agreement was made to produce the child's sleeping garment as a proof that Condon was dealing with the actual kidnapers, Wilentz informed the jury.

"There'll be no more proof, Hauptmann told Condon," Wilentz continued, "until the $70,000 is produced. And if there is a delay after April 8 the price goes up to $100,000."

Near Hauptmann's Home.

Wilentz pointed out that all these negotiations took place near Hauptmann's home in the Bronx in territory with which he was familiar.

On the second of April $50,000 was packed into a box and Col. Lindbergh drove Condon to the appointed place in the cemetery, Wilentz told the jury. Condon stood waiting for some one to appear. Both he and Lindbergh heard the voice calling, "Hey, doctor!" That voice would be identified as Hauptmann's, the prosecutor promised.

Hauptmann proved he was the only man involved in the kidnaping during the subsequent negotiations with Condon, Wilentz declared. Condon, Wilentz said, at the second conference with the kidnaper pointed out that times were hard and that Col. Lindbergh could pay only $50,000, instead of $70,000.

"It was the boss who agreed to this cut, and the boss was Hauptmann," Wilentz asserted. "The $50,000 was handed over the hedge and this defendant calmly said: 'Wait till I see if it's all right.' He examined the contents of the box and then remarked: 'The work is perfect.'"

Tells of Boat Hoax.

In return, the prosecutor resumed, Hauptmann gave Condon a note containing directions for finding the child on a boat off the coast of Massachusetts.

"Lindy took a plane and he, who could find a speck at the end of the earth, couldn't find his child," Wilentz declared. "Condon tried to get more instructions, but Hauptmann was no longer interested in Condon. The coast guard also tried to find the alleged boat, but of course was unsuccessful."

The prosecutor's voice rose.

"Hauptmann took that money," Wilentz said, "knowing that that baby was lying face down in that lonely grave in New Jersey. We'll prove that."

Tells of Finding Body.

Wilentz described the finding of a child's body on May 12, 1932, by a colored man named Allen. Wilentz gave a minute description of the decayed condition of the tiny corpse. Mrs. Lindbergh shuddered and she bit her lips.

Wilentz continued as to that body:

"From that wisp of the curly blond hair, from the overlapping toes, from the remnants of the little nightshirt made by Betty Gow, we will prove that it was the Lindbergh child beyond a doubt."

Wilentz then launched into a description of the oft repeated story of how Hauptmann was captured. Evidence would be presented to show that Hauptmann handed a $10 gold certificate to a gasoline station attendant last fall. That currency was identified as one of the ransom bills. The attendant had noted the number of Hauptmann's automobile and he thus was traced to his home.

Tells Variety of Stories.

"When arrested Hauptmann told various stories," the jury was told by Wilentz. "They were not the stories of an honest man. First he said the $10 bill and another found in his pockets were part of $300 he had saved in the belief that gold certificates would be worth more money than ordinary money.

"Then workers dug up $13,900 of Lindbergh ransom money in his garage. He admitted having buried it and then told a story that it had been given him by a friend, a partner, now dead, mind you. And even while he was insisting that there was no more money another $800 was being found hidden."

Prosecutor Wilentz mentioned the finding of the panel in a closet in the Hauptmann home which bore the printed address and telephone number of Dr. Condon.

"What was his silly excuse for that?" Wilentz inquired of the courtroom, turning around and glaring at Hauptmann, who repaid the stare with composure. "He said he liked to write telephone numbers. But not a single other number was found in that home."

Likens Ladder to Noose.

The ladder found on the Lindbergh estate is "hung around Hauptmann's neck," Wilentz asserted.

"One year before Hauptmann's arrest the wood in that ladder was traced to a Bronx lumber yard," Wilentz asserted. "When Hauptmann was captured we learned that he worked there, got lumber from there. What's more, we will prove that one rung of that ladder came from lumber in his own attic. No matter how difficult that may seem, we will prove it to you."

"Hauptmann can hardly claim that he killed this child in self-defense," Wilentz said. "There was no provocation from Col. Lindbergh to cause it to be done for revenge. His was a purely mercenary motive. He wanted money. He didn't like work. He quit his job the very day he got the ransom money.

Wanted to Buy Luxuries.

"Hauptmann wanted a boat on Long Island sound. He wanted to speculate in the market. He had $4,500 in a brokerage account and $2,000 in a savings account. All this, of course, was in addition to the money found in the garage.

"Now, men and women of the jury," Welentz said, "if we don't prove these facts, you acquit him. But if we do prove them, and we confidently expect to do so, we want you to show that he will not have anything to do with murder or murders in New Jersey. We demand the penalty of death for murder in the first degree."

As Wilentz sat down, Defense Attorney Reilly was immediately on his feet with a motion to withdraw a juror and thus declare a mistrial.

"That statement was inflammatory and made to prejudice the minds of the jurors," Reilly declared. "It was not a proper opening statement. The jury should be instructed to disregard it and to keep an open mind."

Judge Denies Defense Motion.

"The motion is denied," said the judge. "The jurors, of course, already understand they must keep their minds open until all the evidence is in."

Walter Roberts, former Hunterdon county engineer, was the first witness placed on the stand for the state. A large map showing the vicinity of the Lindbergh home in Hopewell was pinned on the back wall where the jury could see it. Roberts explained how the map was drawn and it was introduced as the state's exhibit No. 1.

Just before a noon recess was declared, Hauptmann turned to a reporter sitting behind him and asked: "Which is Walter Winchell?"

Objects to Writer's Presence.

The Broadway columnist was pointed out to him and the defendant, in his guttural German accent, said:

"He shouldn't be allowed in here."

The columnist has ridiculed Hauptmann in his column and over the radio and has been the subject of considerable discussion in the questioning of prospective jurors.

At the recess between sessions, Col. Lindbergh, after some discussion with attorneys for the state, joined his wife in an anteroom. They greeted each other quietly. As they stood there Hauptmann was led past them, his arm almost brushing that of the woman whose child he is charged with slaying.

Airplanes, Special Wires Link Public to the Court

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—To make room for a large rack on which maps and charts were displayed during today's session of the Hauptman trial, a picture of former Vice Chancellor Van Fleet of New Jersey, who practiced law in Hunterdon county more than 50 years ago, has been removed until the end of the trial.

A beet of a dozen airplanes is utilizing an emergency landing field on the Lambertville road about two miles out of town. Pilots were complaining today that the owner was profiteering. Rates of $20 have been raised to $25 for duration of the trial as landing charges for each plane. A 20 minute air schedule has been established between Flemington and New York; to Boston, two hours; Philadelphia, 20 to 30 minutes. A Philadelphia newspaper is using a large plane equipped with a dark room and its pictures are being developed as they are flown from Flemington to Philadelphia.

The witness chair in the 106 year old Hunterdon county house is older than the building. It was salvaged when the courthouse burned in 1828. It was made by some colonial carpenter and modelled after the arrowback Hitchcock type.

The jurors went out tonight for their first bit of exercise. Guarded by Odin Baggstrom, who, when he is not busy on such important matters is the police chief of the village of Frenchtown, and Mrs. Dothard Dilts of Three Bridges, they walked down main street to the end and back. That was about a mile and a half. The jurors live in eight rooms on the third floor of the Union hotel. A partition across the corridor divides the rooms from the rest of the hotel, and all night two deputies, a man and woman, sit inside the partition on guard.

The attorney general declared he changed his mind after calling Betty Gow to testify, because she was "so affected by Mrs. Lindbergh's testimony that we thought it advisable to call Col. Lindbergh to break the emotional tension."

Justice Trenchard frequently left the bench today to study charts and maps of the Lindbergh estate and the plans of the Lindberghs' home.

It is expected that Col. Lindbergh's direct testimony will take about half an hour tomorrow. Wilentz said the state would recall him from time to time. Mrs. Lindbergh probably will not be recalled.

To Attorney General David T. Wilentz Mrs. Lindbergh's testimony was the most dramatic event he had ever witnessed in a court.

"So fine, so exact!" he exclaimed after the adjournment. "It was one of the most dramatic things I have ever seen in a courtroom."

Both Prosecutor Anthony M. Hauck Jr. and former Judge George K. Large, who as attorney, prosecutor, and trial judge has been in the court here for thirty years, agreed with Mr. Wilentz.

SUMMARY OF STATE'S CASE SEEKING THE LIFE OF BRUNO HAUPTMANN

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—In his address to the jury today, Attorney General David T. Wilentz said the state will prove:

That Bruno Richard Hauptmann is guilty of the kidnaping and murder of Charles A. Lindbergh Jr. on the night of March 1, 1932.

That Hauptmann received the $50,000 ransom money from Dr. John F. Condon, knowing "the baby was lying face down in that grave in New Jersey."

That the Lindbergh baby was killed when Hauptmann, with the baby in his arms, fell down the handmade ladder by means of which he broke into the Lindbergh mansion on Sourland mountain.

That Hauptmann, after finding that the child died in the fall down the ladder, took off its sleeping suit and buried the body in a shallow grave in the woods a few miles away from the home, where it was discovered on May 12, 1932.

That Hauptmann used some wood from the attic of his home in the Bronx and made one rung and one side of the ladder with it.

That Hauptmann planned the kidnaping "and we will show you that by the fact that he was in and about the vicinity of the Lindbergh home on many occasions before as well as at the time of the crime."

CROWDS LARGER ON SECOND DAY OF KIDNAP TRIAL

Many Stand, Others Sit on Sills in Court.

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Again an early crowd and, today, a larger one, gathered for the second session of the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann for the murder of the Lindbergh baby. With moderating of the weather, Flemington was thronged by sightseeing motorists.

Inside the courtroom the press was even greater than it was yesterday. With the dismissal of the jury panel after the jury box had been filled this morning and the arrival of Mrs. Lindbergh, the constables on duty at the door admitted 273 spectators without passes, to an already overflowing courtroom.

Jammed Into Court.

Although Sherif John H. Curtiss had ruled that there would be no standees in the trial room, before noon the side ailes were filled. Men and women sat on the window sills and jammed the small space between the bench and the walls.

Outside a special detail of state police was called upon to assist the local constabulary and they finally roped off the courthouse portica and drove the crowd down the steps. It had become so dense around the doors that it was wellnight impossible to go out or in.

Student Sets Up All Night.

The first arrival was a young law student from Atlantic City, Clayton Burdick, 21 years old, who came to Flemington last night and failing to find a room sat up through the night in the lobby of the Union hotel. He went across Main stret to the courthouse door at 6 o'clock and as he stood there shivering nearly three hours later, a kindly contable slipped him quickly through the forbidden door and found him a seat within the rail.

DENIES 'JAFSIE' CONDON IS CALLED TO TALK AT HAUPTMANN TRIAL

New York, Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Dr. John F. Condon, retired Bronx educator who was "Jafsie" of the Lindbergh ransom negotiations, has not been subpenaed to the trial of Hauptmann at Flemington, N. J., his daughter stated today. The daughter, Mrs. Myra Hacker, said that Dr. Condon would "be available at all times if the authorities desire him." Mrs. Hacker said he was studying the daily developments in the trial.

WAVES SNATCH COOK OFF BOAT, BUT RETURN HIM

Boston, Mass., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Storm tossed New England seas provided a new wrinkle in the old story of a man being washed overboard from a vessel and then washed back again, it was revealed by James Costa, 35, cook of the steam trawler Curlew, which docked at the fish pier today.

Backed by Capt. Raymond Collins, who saw the incident, Costa told how on the morning of Dec. 28, he was swept from the deck of the Curlew in a storm off the Georges. He came right back on the next wave, unhurt, but so badly shaken that not until he tasted his doughnuts an hour later did he realize his false teeth were gone.

Then, when he reached for his big gold watch to time the skipper's three-minute egg, he found the watch was missing too.

Teacher Sued for $20,000 After Chemistry Explosion

Mrs. Annie S. Keating, 5012 Berteau avenue, night class teacher in the Carl Schurz High school, was sued for $20,000 damages in the Superior court yesterday by a pupil, Walter L. Howard, 28 years old, 2216 Ballou street. Howard charges that his eyesight was permanently impaired in the explosion of chemicals with which Mrs. Keating was experimenting a year ago. He accuses the teacher of carelessness and negligence.

CLIPPER NO. 7, FLYING BOAT, TO GET NEW WINGS

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Clipper ship No. 7, America's largest flying boat, is getting a new pair of sea wings.

The great craft, given its trial fights over the Chesapeake bay, is back in the hangar, shorn now of the small lower wings that made for lateral stability and balance on the water. Aerial engineers are working out new designs for the sea wings after the original ones developed "permanent deflections" under severe water tests.

Officials at the Glen Martin plant explained today that the deflections developed during the test operations when the test pilots deliberately put the ship through very sharp turns at high speed.

"We regard this sort of thing as a part of the development of the boat," they said. "First we work out a design that seems most practical. Then we put the finished product under greater strain than might be expected in the natural course of flying. If any weakness is indicated in any part we use the knowledge the demonstration has given us to improve on the original."

HUSBAND KILLS SELF AFTER ROW OVER OTHER GIRL

As the climax of a quarrel with his wife over another woman, Kenneth Knilans, 26 years old, of Madison, Wis., shot and killed himself last night in the hallway of an apartment at 2520 Albion avenue, where he and his wife, Alma, 23 years old, had been visiting.

Mrs. Knilans told Rogers Park police that she and her husband drove to Chicago yesterday to visit her friend, Evelyn Bunch, at the Albion street address.

In the evening Knilans said he was going to Niles to collect a bill. Believing he had a date with a Madison girl whom he knew to be in Chicago, Mrs. Knilans and Miss Bunch said they would go along. They went outside and got in the car. Suddenly Knilans ran inside the apartment building. The two girls heard a shot. Rushing in, they found him dead.

EXTRA PRESS DEVICE SPEEDS TRIAL NEWS TO LONDON'S READERS

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—So great is the foreign demand for news of the Hauptmann trial that in spite of the preparations made before the trial special equipment was installed here today.

The Western Union completed tonight the installation of a special teletype printer machine, connected direct with London, to expedite the moving of the story. Officials of that telegraph company said it was the first time that has been done.

By this method no time will be lost between the Hunterdon county courthouse, where the machine has been set up, and London.

MA FERGUSON FREES WIFE WHO SLEW HER RIVAL

Austin, Tex., Jan. 3.—(AP)—Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson granted a full pardon today to Mrs. Mary Boone, given a 5 year sentence last October for killing Mrs. Pearl Hall.

Mrs. Boone fatally shot Mrs. Hall after she and a woman friend had brought Mrs. Hall to the Boone residence to confront Boone with accusations that he had been having improper relations with Mrs. Hall.

Gov. Ferguson said:

"Let me say that if women will let other women's husbands alone crimes like this will never occur, but just so long as bad women do not behave themselves we can expect to read of cases just like this."

HAUPTMANN HAS RESTLESS NIGHT, SHERIF REPORTS

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—For the second time since he was brought here last October Bruno Richard Hauptmann passed a restless night last night. The first one was the night he arrived. At that time Sherif John H. Curtiss ascribed it to the new and strange surroundings.

Taken back to his cell at the end of the day in court yesterday, when jurors had been selected, he had supper at 6 o'clock and ate fried potatoes and onions, a cup of pea soup, rye bread and butter, and an apple. He prepared for bed early, but it was after midnight before he dropped into a light and fretful doze.

All through the night, according to his guards, he awoke frequently, tossed and tumbled, and was often up. Earlier in the evening, before preparing for bed, he had walked back and forth in his bullpen, making no effort to talk to his guards and smoking cigarets. He was, they said, obviously nervous.

He awoke early and was dressed an hour before he was taken into the courtroom. He had a breakfast of corn flakes, bread, butter, and coffee.

Defense counsel arranged to have Mrs. Hauptmann sit at the counsel table in court so that she might be near her husband. The sherif said that, since Mrs. Hauptmann had been talking to her husband in the courtroom during the day, he did not think she would ask a chance to see her husband in the jail on days when the court was in session.

Fire Destroys Postoffice and Stores at Delphi

Logansport, Ind., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Fire which destroyed the post office at Delphi and adjoining business buildings did $50,000 damage early today.

JUDGE ACCEPTS PREJUDICE OATH IN SAPIRO CASE

New York, Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Federal Judge Carroll C. Hincks of Connecticut, sitting here temporarily, accepted an affidavit of prejudice today, thus disqualifying himself from passing on the order requiring Aaron Sapiro, criminal lawyer from Chicago, to show cause why he should not be censured, suspended or disbarred.

Sapiro was acquitted last week of jury tampering, but his co-defendant was convicted, and Sapiro admitted having known of one contact the other made with a juror's wife. On the basis of this, United States Attorney Conboy obtained the order calling for some form of punishment. In his charge to the jury, Judge Hincks said that Sapiro had been remiss in not reporting the contact to the court, and this was the principal point in the affidavit submitted by Harold Stern, Sapiro's counsel, calling Judge Hincks too prejudiced to pass on the matter.

JOBLESS, KILLS SELF IN HOME.

Philip Stevens, 35 years old, 5025 [illegible] street, committed suicide yesterday by shooting himself through the head in the bedroom of his home. His father, Herman, told police his son had been despondent over inability of find work.

26 COOK COUNTY CROSSINGS WILL GET NEW SIGNALS

275 Selected in Illinois for Equipment.

A list of twenty-six Cook county railroad grade crossings, designated as hazardous enough to be equipped with warning light and bell signals, was made public yesterday by Benjamin F. Lindheimer, chairman of the Illinois commerce commission.

They are among the 275 crossings selected in the state for the new warning equipment, to be installed by engineers for the commission, the state highway department, and thirty-five railroads. Four of the crossings are in Chicago.

Cross-Arm Devices for Others.

In addition to the 275 crossings selected for the light-bell signals, 350 others are to have new cross-arm warning signs bearing glass devices. These devices, similar to those on highway curves and crossings, reflect the glare of automobile headlights at night.

Recently the state was alloted a federal grant of $500,000 for the purchase and installation of the new safety equipment. The work is to be done under state highway department supervision, while the railroads, as their part of the bargain, will bear the maintenance expense.

Crossings in Cook County.

The railroads and their grade crossings listed for the light-bell signals in Cook county are:

ROCK ISLAND RAILROAD, on state route 189 in Midlothian, at 159th street in Oak Forest, at Central avenue in Oak Forest, at 167th street in Oak Forest, at Belleview street in Tinley Park, and at 139th street in Robbins.

BALTIMORE AND OHIO RAILROAD, on state route 50 in Cicero, at Harlem avenue in Chicago Ridge, at 147th street in Harvey, on route 171 in Evergreen Park, near 159th street and Blue Island road in Phoenix, and on Indiana avenue in Riverdale.

GRAND TRUNK RAILROAD, near 147th and Wood streets in Harvey, and on route 171 in Evergreen Park.

BIG FOUR RAILROAD, on Main street in Dolton, and at 138th street in Chicago.

CHICAGO, MILWAUKEE, ST. PAUL AND PACIFIC RAILROAD, at North avenue in Chicago; at Willow road in Glenview, and at Gravel road near Spaulding.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL RAILROAD, near Harrison street and Wolf road in Hillside.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD, on state route 187 in Dolton

INDIANA HARBOR BELT LINE, on Crawford avenue in Chicago.

NORTH WESTERN RAILWAY, on Lake avenue in Glenview, and on Oakton street in Des Plaines.

MICHIGAN CENTRAL RAILROAD, on the Lincoln highway at Chicago Heights.

WABASH RAILROAD, on state route 51 and 171 in Chicago.

Installation of the new signals may be held up by a jurisdictional dispute between two unions, the Brotherhood of Railroad Signal Men and the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. Both are asserting the right to put in the equipment.

Gov. Olson Back on Job; Works on His Message

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 3.—(AP)—Gov. Floyd B. Olson, Minesota's Farmer-Labor governor, leaving his home today for the first time since he underwent an operation for hernia four weeks ago, said he would present a "conciliatory message" demanding action to the legislature, which convenes next week.

187 KILLED AND 3,680 HURT IN BRITISH YULE WEEK ROAD ACCIDENTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 3.—Christmas week was Great Britain's blackest week on the roads. One hundred and eighty-seven persons were killed and 3,680 were injured in street accidents.

The holiday spirit was responsible for the increase in deaths, as the country roads were crowded with motorists racing home for Christmas and Boxing day, and city streets were jammed by shoppers.

London fared better than the country as a whole, since only thirty-six persons were killed, compared with forty-three in the previous week.

LIBRARIAN HURT BY CAR ON WRONG SIDE OF MIDWAY

Autoist Charged with Drunken Driving.

Miss Gertrude Larson, 35 years old, 6121 Greenwood avenue, a librarian at the Harper library, University of Chicago, was seriously injured in an automobile accident last night at the Midway and Greenwood avenue.

She was struck by the automobile of Raymond T. Lynch, 28 years old, 1206 West 83d street. Police declared that Lynch was driving west in the eastbound lane of the boulevard, and had a 1934 license plate on his car. The number was Illinois 1-260-063. He was charged with reckless driving and driving while intoxicated.

Pedestrian Killed by Auto.

Maurice Robbins, 65 years old, 3217 Crystal street, was fatally injured when he was struck by an automobile at Western and Belmont avenues. He was struck by the car of Mrs. John Ellstrom, 19 years old, 1971 Winona street, whose machine bore a 1934 license plate, Illinois 708-110.

Robbins' death was the third automobile fatality in Cook county since the new year began.

The mysterious death New Year's morning of Randolph Owen Schueren, 20 years old, 645 North Wabash avenue, was found yesterday to have been the result of an automobile accident. Shelby Johnstone, 2836 North Francisco avenue, testified at the inquest that Schueren had been struck by his car in Roosevelt road, Broadview. A verdict of accidental death was returned. Johnstone was driving a car with a 1934 license, No. 344-925.

Body of Boy Identified.

The body of the boy who was fatally injured by a hit and run motorist Wednesday was identified as that of Louis Allevito, 9 years old, 832 South Morgan street. The boy's father, Vincent, told police he had learned from witnesses the boy was hit at Blue Island avenue and Forquer street. The car stopped, the child was lifted in, and the car sped away. Later the boy was left at the County hospital by a young man who did not give his name.

Youth Ordered to Stop Driving Auto for Year

Robert Muir, 17 years old, 5821 La Salle street, was sentenced yesterday by Judge Joseph A. Graber in the Safety court to refrain from driving an automobile for a year. He was arrested for leaving the scene of an accident involving his car and that of John Cowles, 7028 South Union avenue. After granting probation, Judge Graber told Muir: "If I hear that you've driven an automobile before 1936 I'll send you to jail."

COMMITTEE ASKS STATE LICENSING OF AUTO DRIVERS

Indorses Resolution for City Council.

Drivers' license and financial responsibility laws as proposed for passage by the legislature were indorsed by the city council committee on trafic and public safety at its meeting yesterday. The committee's recommendation will be offered as a resolution at the council meeting today.

The committee, headed by Ald. John A. Massen [48th], approved the drivers' legislation after hearing representatives of safety and civic organizations. All urged that the city align itself behind the movement to tighten the requirements for operating vehicles on public thoroughfares.

Urges Licenses Be Revoked.

Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court was one of those heard by the committee. He urged that the present trafic ordinance be amended to empower the mayor and Municipal court judges to suspend or revoke city vehicle licenses of trafic offenders and those who have failed to pay fines imposed in the city courts. The council committee indicated it would consider this proposal at later hearings.

George W. Fleming, chairman of the Keep Chicago Safe committee, announced he would ask all Cook county legislators to meet here to discuss the proposed legislation before they leave for Springfield next week.

It was pointed out that laws requiring the licensing of vehicle operators and establishment of their financial ability to settle for damage are in force in several states. The "responsibility" provision would be invoked only against those who have demonstrated their unwillingness to satisfy court judgments against them in trafic cases, it was emphasized.

Arguments Given for Laws.

Here are some of the expressions at the meeting:

Sidney J. Williams, National Safety council: "In states which have such laws there has been a 25 per cent decrease in trafic fatalities; in those that have not, a 14 per cent increase."

Si Mayer, Illinois Automobile club: "Only three legislators opposed such laws in the last legislature, all from downstate. One was a senator who feared his son couldn't pass a driver's test."

Elmer Stevens, chairman of the legislative subcommittee of the Keep Chicago Ahead committee: "Unless the laws are enacted, Chicago will have more than 1,000 trafic deaths in 1935."

J. Dillard Hall, insurance man: "States with drivers' laws enjoy decreasing trafic death rates and lowered automobile insurance rates."

Others who approved the proposed legislation included James E. Bulger of the Illinois Conference on Highway Safety Legislation; C. Wesley Rice, former president of the Chicago Safety council; Joseph Gill, clerk of the Municipal court; Judges Frank M. Padden of the Safety court and John Gutknecht of the Trafic court; Robert H. Nau of the Association of Commerce; Leslie J. Sorenson, city trafic engineer, and Mrs. Harold White, representing women's clubs.

Warant Service to Be Speeded.

Judge Gutknecht later summoned all policemen detailed as warant servers for the Trafic court to a conference at 11 a. m. today in the Central police building. He said the conferees would discuss means of speeding warant service and of finding motorists who give false names and addresses. Of 2,000 warants issued for trafic violations in December, the police were unable to serve about 300.

A resolution calling upon the governor and legislature to reduce automobile fees and gasoline taxes was introduced at the county board yesterday by Commissioner William Busse. Twenty-one states have increased their automobile revenues by reducing license fees and several by cutting the gasoline tax, Busse said.

COURTNEY SEEKS REDUCTION IN CAR THEFT INSURANCE

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.
Automobiles stolen, 16; recovered, 16; stripped, 1 [from police records for 24 hours ending at midnight Wednesday].

Members of the actuarial committee of the 153 automobile insurance companies have been summoned by State's Attorney Courtney to appear in his office at 10:30 o'clock Monday morning to explain why the companies have not reduced their automobile theft insurance rates as rapidly as automobile thefts have dropped in Cook county.

Mr. Courtney pointed out that, although the thefts dropped 57 per cent last year as compared with 1933, the insurance companies followed with a reduction in their rates of only 26 per cent.

Supporting his request that these rates be lowered, Mr. Courtney pointed out that since the campaign against automobile thieves was started in August, 1933, there has been a reduction of 65 per cent in thefts, 90 per cent in the number of cars stripped, and that last year the police actually recovered 12 more cars than had been stolen that year.

The tabulation of stolen and stripped cars in the last four years, given by Mr. Courtney, follows:

	Stolen.	Stripped.
1931	35,436	....
1932	35,233	9,855
1933	27,891	4,169
1934	12,164	1,158

The daily average of automobile thefts prior to the start of the drive was 97. The average stolen daily in 1934 was 33.

The members of the insurance committee who were asked to appear at Monday's meeting are J. W. Burden, chairman; J. A. McClelland, vice chairman; L. L. Sanders, chairman of the subcommittee; E. L. Rickards, branch secretary; E. A. Henning, W. H. Achenbach, George H. Bell, and S. M. Buck. Representatives of the Chicago Motor club, which also provides insurance, have been requested to attend.

JURORS GIVEN MASSACRE CASE IN KANSAS CITY

6 Called Plotters to Free U. S. Prisoner.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—The Kansas City Union station massacre case went to the jury tonight. Final arguments were begun after charges against the six defendants had been reduced to one count.

All charges against the seventh defendant, Mrs. Frances Nash, widow of the slain convict, Frank Nash, were dismissed. She had aided the government.

One Defendant Says Guilty.

An eighth defendant, Mrs. Vivian Mathis, who posed as the wife of the late Verne Miller, one of the reputed "trigger men" in the union station slayings, pleaded guilty when the trial opened Monday to one of the three counts against her. The government dismissed the other two.

After the defense rested this afternoon, Judge Merrill E. Otis granted a request of Randall Wilson, assistant district attorney, for dismissal of the second and third counts against the six remaining defendants. The counts dismissed charged those on trial with conspiring to harbor and to rescue a federal prisoner. Nash was on his way to the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kas. He was in custody of two detectives and two United States agents. All five were killed by machine gun fire just outside of the Union station June 17, 1933.

The maximum sentence under conviction on the remaining count—conspiracy to free a federal prisoner—is two years' imprisonment and a fine of $10,000.

All But One Testify.

Defense attorneys concluded their case at noon after presenting all but one of the defendants on the witness stand. Herbert Farmer of Joplin, Mo., did not testify, because of deafness.

Farmer's wife Esther, Louis Stacci, Chicago roadhouse operator, and Frank [Fritz] Mulloy took the stand They denied they plotted to release Nash when they assisted Mrs. Nash at Hot Springs, Ark., in her efforts to reach Joplin, where she thought Nash was being taken. It was previously contended that Mrs. Nash believed her husband was being kidnaped. He had been arrested at Hot Springs for return to Leavenworth.

Richard T. Galatas and his wife, Betty, yesterday entered similar flat denials that in aiding the distraught Mrs. Nash they had entered into a conspiracy which the government claims resulted in the machine gun assassination of Nash and the four in whose custody he was at the Union station.

The government named the machine gunners as Miller, Charles [Pretty Boy] Floyd, and the latter's lieutenant, Adam Richetti. Miller and Floyd were subsequently killed and Richetti is under arrest.

BOY, 14, ADMITS KILLING CHUM, HIDING HIS BODY

Clarksburg, W. Va., Jan. 3.—(AP)—Sherif Fitzhugh Reynolds announced tonight that the body of Richard Sinsel, 14, missing high school student, was found late today. The sherif said Elmo Walter Pfouts, 14, another high school pupil, confessed shooting his chum accidentally New Year's day and hiding the body.

Reynolds said the body was found under the front porch of the Pfouts' home, where the boy told officers to look.

Reynolds explained that young Pfouts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Pfouts of suburban Nutter Fort, first confessed to Paul Sinsel, 23, brother of the dead youth, at high school today. The sherif said that Pfouts admitted shooting Richard while playing at the Pfouts home. The boys were alone at the house at the time of the shooting, Reynolds added.

Board Opens New Bids for Nurses' Home Furnishings

The county board yesterday opened new bids to supply furnishings for the Cook County Nurses' home, recently completed with Public Works Administration funds. The low bid of $114,471 was submitted by Marshall Field & Co. Readvertising for bids became necessary because of a controversy several weeks ago between county and PWA officials when the board members refused to recognize the low bid of Marshall Field & Co. because it was submitted five minutes late. The new bids will be acted upon at a special meeting of the county board Monday.

MEXICO HOLDS 40 FOR KILLING OF FIVE AT CHURCH

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 3.—(AP)—The formal imprisonment of 40 of the 65 members of the bloc of young revolutionaries of the federal district was ordered today on charges of homicide in connection with the killing of five Catholics in Coyoacan last Sunday.

Judge Rafael Enciso of the Coyoacan penal court also ordered the formal imprisonment of two men charged with lynching Ernesto Malda, 20 year old member of the Red Shirt organization. Another man held on the same charge was released for lack of evidence.

The district attorney asked the judge to release 25 of the Red Shirt youths, and the formal imprisonment of the others and the three accused of the lynching. No date was set for the trial of the forty. The Red Shirts have maintained they were not the aggressors. Today a black and red airplane circled the city and dropped pamphlets supporting their case and accusing independent newspapers and Archbishop Pascual Diaz with responsibility for the Coyoacan killings.

MOTHER SEEKS TWO FAHNESTOCK CHILDREN CARE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Mrs. Helen Morgan Fahnestock, prominent in New York and Washington society, today filed suit for a writ of habeas corpus to gain custody of her two daughters, Clara, 7, and Mary Lee, 6.

The writ is directed against Snowden A. Fahnestock, the father, and his mother, Mrs. Caroline S. Fahnestock, and alleges the children were on a train en route from Aiken, S. C., to the Todhunter school in New York when they were removed from the train here by their father and taken to his home.

Justice Jesse C. Adkins ordered the father and his mother to appear in court tomorrow with the children for a hearing.

The petitioner stated she was married to Mr. Fahnestock in June, 1925, and separated from him last October. She told the court a divorce suit was being filed today in Newport.

SEWAGE DISPOSAL WORK TO BEGIN AT EAST ST. LOUIS

East St. Louis, Ill., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Actual work on the $2,360,000 sewage disposal project for St. Clair and Madison counties will begin tomorrow. It is to last two years, employ 2,000 men. It includes a $700,000 pumping station and a two mile drainage ditch, to flow into the Mississippi river from Cahokia creek.

The creek now carries more than half of the sewage of East St. Louis. The new project will cause destruction of old viaducts and railroad trestles, permitting construction of a new railroad passenger terminal, as well as reclamation of several thousand acres of swamp land.

The contract was awarded to G. Locke Tarlton, St. Louis contractor, Dec. 7, 1934, for $1,993,731. That covers the entire project, exclusive of pumping machinery.

HORNER TO CONVENE FORUM ON CRIME IN CAPITAL TOMORROW

Gov. Horner announced yesterday that Joseph B. Keenan, assistant United States attorney general, and Harold Nathan, assistant director of the division of investigation of the department of justice, will attend the conference on crime suppression and prevention he has called for tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock in the Centennial building in Springfield.

Besides the federal crime specialists the conference will be attended by Illinois officials interested and active in crime prevention work. Originally planned for last July the conference was postponed until the successors to sherifs in 102 counties whose tenure of office ended Dec. 3 were installed in office. Consequently, all the new sherifs are invited and expected to attend tomorrow's conference, along with the majority of state's attorneys, mayors, chiefs of police and officials of the state highway police.

All phases of crime and its suppression will be discussed, the governor announced, and numerous authorities on the subject will be heard. These will include Police Commissioner Allman, State's Attorney Courtney, Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan of the Criminal court, George T. Scully, state superintendent of supervision of paroles, and others. Attorney General Otto Kerner will act as chairman.

SCENT HOUNDS IN WASHINGTON.

Mr. Ickes explains that his investigators, Mr. Burlew and Mr. Glavis, are busy in only his own department. The heads of other departments were reported to be uneasy, suspecting that their wires were tapped and themselves shadowed. Mr. Ickes is said to have reassured the other New Dealers that they need not worry, although he himself in his own department is subject to the searching eye and need not be astonished if he finds his own sleuth at his own orders under his desk, behind his door or in his waste basket.

Mr. Ickes will be in luck if he does not emerge from these brisk times with heavy responsibilities he would like to shed. Mr. Farley may be the Santa Claus, but Mr. Ickes, with the public works money, is the Christmas tree which, when it has been shaken for everything on it, may be the most melancholy relic of the happy season.

It is a political certainty that when the turn of sentiment brings a hostile congress the operations of the New Deal will be put minutely under inquiry, the intent being, as in all congressional star chamber work, to discover scandal. That was the wash-up of the Wilson war appropriations and it will be the wash-up of the Roosevelt emergency activities.

The department of the interior in charge of public works is the gold mine sought by all politicians. They get such things as the Loup river, Grand Coulee, Texas Colorado, and Bonneville projects even when engineering reports pronounce the enterprises wasteful follies which will leave monuments as such.

Mr. Ickes' investigators may put him in possession of a complete record, but they cannot add anything to the serenity of the Washington family if that be the purpose of their work. Nothing destroys domestic peace so much as a person around taking fingerprints off the tables and glasses, listening in on the conversations and noting who is out with the car at night.

ENFORCE THE LAW.

A bill will be introduced in the next Illinois legislature to prohibit hitch-hiking. Is it superfluous to remark that it isn't worth passing unless it is to be enforced? Chicago has a provision in its trafic code which declares that "it shall be unlawful for any person to stand in a roadway for the purpose of soliciting a ride or employment from the operator of a private vehicle." The harsh conditions of the depression are no doubt largely responsible for this leniency, but it has been abused. The police make a lot of trouble for themselves by failure to enforce the reasonable and necessary regulations fixed for the safety and comfort of the public. A policeman is in duty bound to enforce the law. He has no lawful discretion to permit violations. In some instances his failure to enforce a regulation may be corrupt, though not in many. In more instances it may be the result of political influence, but in most cases it is shortsighted good nature or indifference to duty. But nonenforcement of regulations, as to lights, licenses and hitch-hiking, for example, encourages lawbreaking and even crime. It therefore makes the policeman's service harder than it need be, to say nothing of the welfare of the public and the injustice to law abiding motorists.

MR. BAER DISPLEASES MR. BROWN.

One event of the generous and merrymaking Christmas holidays now in the January straightaway after taking all the joyous curves on high was the dropping of Kingfish Levinsky from the Christmas tree. Max Baer knocked him out of it with a few flurries of fists in the second round of what was to have been a short portion fight merely to display the boxers' figures in Attic poses and illustrate a few points of the manly art.

Mr. Levinsky as a Kingfish is justly rated several civilizations above the Louisiana Fish, King or Craw, but he unwisely picked up one of Mr. Long's habits. He outtalked himself just when Mr. Baer thought that his own prestige as champion would be enhanced if he began killing the bull early in the proceedings. In the Spanish game this is regarded as a fault. The matador offends when he does it. He is expected to play the bull about, carry him awhile, to display the dexterity and courage of both.

In the American prize ring all that is required of the killer is that he allow the more punctual of the customers to get to their seats. Mr. Levinsky was good one round and gone the next. When the Christmas season again revealed itself to his opening eyes all he could see was the Christmas tree draped in black and winged dollars flying into the far distance with the cries of frightened ducks.

The oddities of the prize ring are further illustrated by the exception taken to the bout by the New York athletic commission, whose Mr. Brown puts Baer on his better behavior as a condition precedent to any future appearances in New York. Mr. Brown cannot be taken in by an exhibition which turns into a real fight between a champion and one of the leading contenders. To him it was a sucker show for Chicago hicks and Baer is suspect.

There are two New Yorks, a small one of the Philharmonic orchestra and a large one of alecs and provincials.

THE STIMULUS OF COMPETITION.

A recent editorial in which THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE proposed a transportation policy produced more than the usual volume of public comment, some favorable, some otherwise; the latter mostly from self-styled friends of the railways who appear to believe that no substantial improvement can be made within the railway industry itself and that their problem solely is one of unfair competition. Therefore, politics is the doctor to be summoned.

One difficulty with railroading appears to be its traditional tendency to standardize its whole colossal structure, its habit of halting on each step of progress until every last segment has reached that level. That characteristic has stretched over a hundred years the advance that the automotive industry has accomplished in one-quarter that time. There are no early 1934 and late 1934 train models. We believe that under stimulus of competition the railways are overcoming this characteristic and are now entering an era of diversification with trains designed best to meet the several varieties of public demand. It took them twenty years to recognize motor competition, but now that they fully realize that there is a dangerous rival in the field with unlimited possibilities they are responding with air conditioned trains, streamline units, and lowered fares. But they must not stop to standardize, because the virile automotive industry is not going to surrender one inch of advantage without a stiff battle. As an instance, while air conditioning equipment represents a tremendous forward step, it has not reached the acme of perfection. Right of way dust and cinders as well as the dreaded heat of a railroad journey are gone, but on the other hand the system that produced this marvel has also heightened the stale tobacco smoke nuisance.

The United States is not going to be legislated back to the transportation methods of the '90s. THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE believes that the railways are going to pull through this depression as they have pulled through other business recessions by reasserting through innovation their ability to furnish the country with the great bulk of its overland transportation. There is talk of the necessity for government ownership, but that is nothing new. It has been suggested as the inevitable solution of railway problems in every crisis or near crisis during the last sixty years.

Editorial of the Day

THE MISSOURI RIVER SINK HOLE.

[The Traffic World.]

In view of the fact that Harold L. Ickes, in his capacity as administrator of the federal emergency administration of public works, has allotted $50,000,000 for the Fort Peck dam and reservoir—a part of the gigantic federal project designed to make the Missouri river navigable—he should find a great deal of enlightenment in the report the Mississippi valley committee has submitted to him. This committee, it may be explained, is one created by President Roosevelt.

It is no secret that army engineers have long questioned the wisdom of attempting to improve the Missouri river for navigation. Now the Mississippi valley committee in its report informs the federal distributor of billions for public works that the total cost of the Missouri river improvements will not be much, if any, below $250,000,000, and adds:

> Assuming that the more optimistic estimates of the future trafic on the river will be realized, the savings to shippers which would result from free operation of the waterway would exceed by only a small margin the annual charge to be borne by the public for maintenance and interest on the investment. If fees were levied with a view to reimbursing the government for the cost of maintenance only, the volume of trafic, doubtless, would be reduced materially and the savings to shippers would be vitiated in large measure. Most current estimates of prospective tonnage are exceedingly liberal, and, if the present trafic on the section below Kansas City may be accepted as in any degree indicative of future prospects, the probability of those estimates ever being realized even on a free waterway is very slight.

The committee quotes from a letter the chief of engineers of the United States army wrote to the secretary of war under date of Sept. 30, 1933, as follows:

> There is practically no commercial trafic on the Missouri river at present except that incident to sand and gravel dredging and to ferry operation. The reported commerce in 1929 between the mouth and Kansas City was 1,160,000 tons and between Kansas City and Sioux City, 209,000 tons. Of this, all but 1,300 tons consisted of construction materials moved by river contractors.

The committee pursues its subject ruthlessly. Mr. Ickes should pay attention particularly to the following:

> The adequacy of some of the works now under construction is doubtful. The channel below Kansas City is still unsatisfactory at several points, while the effect of Fort Peck reservoir on low water flow of dry years such as 1930-'34 would have reached or closely approached its limit.

Again, the committee says the main stem of the Missouri is being improved for navigation in the face of great obstacles "and at an expense which has very doubtful justification."

The committee recommends that no further navigation projects in the Missouri basin be undertaken until the present project for the improvement of the Missouri below Sioux City is completed, "and its benefits, if any, have been determined." In addition, it recommends abandonment of the project for improvement of the Osage river, a tributary of the Missouri.

What one wonders about all this is why those in charge of the affairs of the federal government shovel out the millions for waterway improvements that a committee set up under the auspices of the same government comes along later and finds not justified—even before the work is fairly under way. However, there need be no worry that the work may be interrupted—it will go on.

WHAT AN ERROR.

It had been an exciting game, a tie in the twelfth inning, but the home team finally had won. A group of homebound commuters on the 6:25 were discussing the game heatedly, when suddenly one sprang to his feet with the exclamation, "Great Scott!"

"What's up?" somebody asked. "Lost your watch?"

"Watch be hanged!" cried the passenger. "I've left my wife asleep in the grand stand, and she's got my return ticket!"—Exchange.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THERE WAS A HOLDUP at eleven o'clock the other night in our street. It's none of your quiet little thoroughfares, where the footfalls of the occasional passerby echo loudly in silence, but quite a busy street with plenty of cars and pedestrians passing to and fro even at night. But a man was held up and robbed of fifty-five dollars and he came and told his story to the elevator boy, who sent for the police. When the police came they tried to console the victim. "Ah, fergit it!" said the sympathizing constabulary; "hain't no use o' squawkin'. You hain't the only one that gets held up in this town. Take out your watch and I'll tell you something." "Gosh!" said the victim, feeling in his pocket, "the dirty bums got that, too." "Well, get another one," said the constabulary, "and when you get it just look at it and reflect there's a holdup in Chicago every fifteen minutes. Every fifteen minutes! Think it over and cheer up." I wish I had seen the policeman. I would like to find out if these holdups occur on the hour and quarter hours. If I could find that to be true then I would wait for, say, the regular eight o'clock holdup to happen and then duck across to the drug store or the letter box and get back at eight thirteen and be safe up in my flat by fifteen minutes after eight o'clock, the regular scheduled time of the next holdup.

FASTER! FASTER! FASTER! That's the slogan nowadays. Automobiles, passenger trains, and airplanes are all speeding up and up and up. But if anybody tires of so much speed there's an antidote. All they've got to do is ride on a street car. They're not going any faster than they did when they were hauled around by horses. Giddap!

NOTES FOR A NEW RHYME.

I. PLANET'S EDGE.

This is the end of the world.
And the lights. And the shadows.
The crying—the going down of ships
There in the rushing dark.
This is the cliff we cannot scale,
The shouting we cannot hear.

This is defeat unfurled
Against our eyes in our own meadows.
And silencing of Beauty's lips,
And of the lark.
This is the everlasting wail
Against the things that we held dear.

Be with us, St. Timothy,
For now . . .

II. TRANSITION.

The mood changes. Death
Goes into his eerie dance.
This is the final breath,
The last performance.

Now are we drowned
In a sea of musk,
As fireflies bound
In a purple dusk.

III. THE AMAZING HORIZON.

Darling, look above you—there
Are the gates of heaven.
Unimaginably sweet
Are the gates of heaven.
Now . . .
We needs must be
Reaffirming constantly,
The three in one,
The one in three,
The everlasting
Trinity.

IT'S CHARGED that there's a lot of communism in the colleges nowadays. If there is then the only way to stop it is to continue the football season right up to spring when the baseball season opens. The reddest college red forgets all about the overthrow of capitalism when he's yelling for dear old Alma Mater to lick Freshwater university. Of course, in winter the students have basketball, but somehow basketball doesn't seem to keep their hearts from bleeding for the downtrodden proletariat any more than dominoes or ring around the rosy.

"REPUBLICAN MINORITY in Congress Expected to Make Strong Opposition to Administration Measures."—Headline. But what can the Republican minority do? He can't do a thing, not a blessed thing. No, he can't.

NOW EVERYBODY IS RAVING about getting broadcast from France, Turkey, and Siam. That's fine! If I've got to be told what toothpaste I ought to use or the kind of soap that best suits my complexion I would rather it would be in French, Turkish, or Siamese. And if the crooners and lady vocalists would only sing in the Apache language or Sanskrit or Chaldean I would be still more pleased.

* * *

"GIGGLING GIRL Who Smokes Cigarets Leads Bandit Gang in Ozarks."—Headline. A lady does not giggle! Nor does a real lady smoke cigarets during business hours. A lady may lead a bandit gang, but that is no excuse for her giggling and smoking cigarets when holding a gun against the tummy of a gentleman she is engaged in robbing. A lady should be always a lady!

And all the swagger and the bluster might

IN SACKCLOTH AND ASHES I repent the enthusiastic manner in which I celebrated the Christmas-New Year's festivities. I shiver every time I think of going through another holiday. The next one is Lincoln's birthday, in February, never a very rollicking occasion, but now—oh, gosh! how I dread it!

PERITONITIS.

INTEREST in peritonitis is great, since so many have friends and acquaintances who have suffered from this condition. It is often associated in the lay mind with abdominal operations.

We must first understand that the peritoneum is a thin, secreting and absorbing membrane of great importance to the proper functioning of the structures and organs that lie within the abdominal cavity. It lines the abdominal cavity, covers the numerous folds of the intestinal tube, and equals in total area the skin of the entire body.

It has great absorptive powers. Substances such as bacteria and their toxins that come into contact with the peritoneum are sent with great rapidity into the blood stream or into the lymph channels. An indication of the power of this important membrane is the fact that within 24 hours fluid equal to the weight of the body can be absorbed from the abdominal cavity.

If the peritoneum becomes infected by bacteria the patient is definitly engaged in a fight for life. For example, if the removal of a diseased appendix has been delayed so that rupture occurs, pus and bacteria from the intestine may be poured into the peritoneal cavity. Now and then bacteria will pass through the wall of a badly diseased appendix even though the wall remains intact, and occasionally bacteria may be brought to the peritoneum through the blood. Any perforation of or leakage from the bowel, the stomach, or certain other organs may infect the peritoneum.

Fortunately the peritoneum possesses considerable fighting power. Whenever it is irritated by bacteria it pours out fluid containing cells and fibrin that inhibits the growth of bacteria. This fluid also helps to limit or wall off the infection, and may glue together loops of the intestine in an effort to stop its spread. Sometimes the bacterial invasion is so virulent that the defensive processes are inadequate to cope with the situation, and the condition known as general peritonitis results. This means that a considerable portion of the membrane is involved and that life is in danger.

Early manifestations are usually those of pain, tenderness, rigidity of the abdominal muscles, and other evidences that the patient is severely ill. Vomiting usually occurs.

Paralysis of the intestine is an occasional and serious complication. This is sometimes thought to be due to excessive handling in the course of a surgical operation of the peritoneal covering of the intestine, resulting in adhesions and paralysis with entire stoppage of normal contractions of the bowel.

The treatment of peritonitis is directed toward limiting the spread of the infection and sustaining the strength of the patient. It is often wise to place the patient in a semi-sitting posture in order to secure the advantage of gravity drainage. The body defenses must be reinforced by every means at the physician's command. The normal fluids require maintenance, and pain should be eliminated in so far as possible. Clean and prompt surgery when the indication is clear has greatly reduced the number of cases of peritonitis, and the use of glucose solutions, normal salt solutions, and other supportive measures has saved many lives.

Whether the treatment shall be conservative or not calls for sound judgment and a fine sense of discrimination. Radical measures are occasionally demanded, but if adopted the reasons therefor must be valid.

REMOVING TONSILS.

Mrs. T. writes: Is it safe to remove tonsils by electric surgery during the winter months?

REPLY.

It is as safe as at other times. There are no game laws governing infected tonsils. Removal of tonsils by any method must not be attempted when the patient has a fever, or when the tonsils themselves are actively inflamed.

DISTRIBUTION OF ESTATE.

Chicago, Dec. 28.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My parents died in Wisconsin in 1933. My share of the estate has been withheld because I have to pay an inheritance tax, and so far I have not been informed whether this hearing has been held. 1. How could I find out if the tax hearing has already been held? 2. To what court in Wisconsin could I write for this information? 3. Could I demand that my share of the estate be turned over to me if the tax hearing has not been held, inasmuch as [4] it is over a year? 5. Can an estate be held open more than one year in Wisconsin? 6. Would you advise me to have a lawyer there to take care of my interests?

P. E. R.

1. One way would be by asking the administrator.
2. See 1.
3. Ordinarily distribution cannot be forced until the expiration of the year for filing claims.
4. The year would run from the date when letters of administration issued. You do not give us this date. If the time has expired we see no reason why the estate should not be closed.
5. It is physically possible.
6. Ordinarily this expense is not necessary and your letter does not indicate that you have exhausted other possibilities.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

PROBATE OF ESTATE.

Chicago, Dec. 29.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Is there any time limit after the decease of a person during which the estate must be probated? 2. What are the fees for probating and when are they payable? 3. If a mortgage is held against the estate can it be foreclosed before the estate is probated?

M. M. O.

1. No, in the sense that probate can be entirely dispensed with in some cases.
2. Depends on facts that are not before us.
3. No, in the sense that completion of foreclosure proceedings ordinarily takes more time than the foreclosure. Yes, in the sense that the foreclosure is independent of the probate.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

MAKE WRITTEN AGREEMENT.

Chicago, Dec. 29.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am owner of a house in Michigan, which I rented under the following oral agreement: The tenants, instead of paying rent to me, are to pay the taxes each year. I would like to know, if they pay the taxes each year would I lose the house after a stated period?

M. M.

They would not acquire an adverse right as long as it could be proved that they were holding under agreement with you. In order to be sure that you are in a position to make this proof, we advise you to have the arrangement with your tenant in writing.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN.—The Bible, the Ten Commandments, the Sermon on the Mount—all these most treasured possessions of Christendom are rejected by the German faith movement.

Its members decline to be guided by the Bible as to what is good and what is evil, Prof. Wilhelm Hauer, one of the founders of the movement, told a gathering of his followers in the Schoeneberg rathaus in Berlin.

Prof. Hauer rejected the Ten Commandments, declaring it is "a misfortune for the moral development of the German people that they had ever referred back to the Ten Commandments." He attacked Christian morality, asking: "Was Christianity able in over 1,000 years to develop a true morality, a morality binding on the German people? One has only to regard the morality of love and marriage in Christianity. In this Christianity has also failed."

He asserted that houses of ill fame appeared on German soil only under Christian rule.

The attitude of Christians to war evoked the professor's derision.

"You cannot at one time preach eternal peace and describe war as the work of the devil, and then at another time approve war, even if it is forced," he said.

The Sermon on the Mount he described as a "fine address which must stir every true man," but its teachings are not "German."

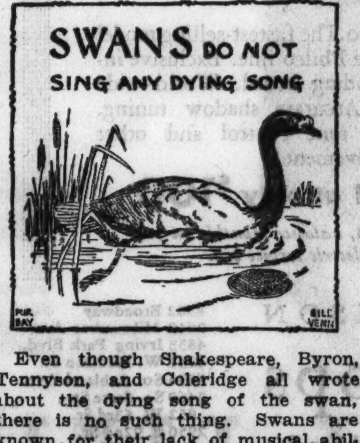
"To be German means to have joy in fighting, also in the fight against fate, not meek resignation," he declared.

"The ideal German figure is that of Siegfried," the professor said. "He had no wish to lead a virtuous life, but a heroic one. Germanic morality takes no heed of reward, in this life or the next. It stands on the earth and seeks nothing for its actions, for in action itself lies the whole heaven of Germanic morality. Therefore the questions of the Christians in regard to responsibility toward a higher being and a last judgment are superfluous."

Prof. Hauer also contended that Christian religion fails to give enough prominence to "human love," which the German Faith movement insists must be the object of greater reverence than it is now.

The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph. D.



Even though Shakespeare, Byron, Tennyson, and Coleridge all wrote about the dying song of the swan, there is no such thing. Swans are known for their lack of musical ability, and why should a bird so silent all its life suddenly start singing at death? It is only another case of pure ignorance being passed down through literature and folklore.

STREET CAR COMPLAINT.

Chicago, Dec. 30.—I am one of many street car riders who, unfortunately, must depend on the 111th and Sacramento street cars for transportation and certainly am disgusted with these cars. During the pre-Christmas rush I stood it good-naturedly and expected better service after the holiday, but it's just as bad if not worse than before.

After waiting patiently for the one 111th out of three or four 79ths or 88ths, getting pushed and jammed onto an overcrowded car where one must stand until 79th or 87th street, the tired working man or girl finally gets a seat only to be dumped out unceremoniously at 111th and Monterey and told to take another overcrowded, smelly, wet, cold street car behind or before as happens to suit the dispatcher's whim. Then the car stands there 10 or 15 minutes more while the cars switch and the 119th street cars back up and go forward.

These cars, too, are underheated in cold weather, and often think nothing of passing up passengers on some unsheltered corner where they have been waiting perhaps 10 minutes in the cold.

MRS. ARTHUR CONLAN.

SLOW STREET CARS.

Downers Grove, Ill., Dec. 29.—I am wondering if you could improve the service of the surface lines. Man's top speed for a mile is five times that of three street cars on which I have ridden outside of the loop during the last week. A man can run a mile in about four minutes and it took these particular cars twenty minutes to transport the writer one mile.

When the great invention known as the street car functions to reduce capacity to travel about the city on all types of errands to such an extent the progress of the city and its inhabitants is at stake.

H. R. ALLEY.

A DISILLUSIONED YOUNG MAN.

Chicago, Dec. 30.—I am a young man, aged 25, born an American on Jan. 19, 1910.

I was brought up under quiet and refined environments and was taught to hold the highest respect for the opposite sex, also the true meaning of love, passion, and marriage.

Today I am beginning to believe that all that my parents taught me may have existed and been true years ago, but for the last five years I have been unable to find in any form or manner the ideals that my parents taught me except in motion picture plays.

Will you please inform me as to what became of the ideals that I was brought up under, and if these ideas still exist, where?

WINTER SPORTS.

Chicago, Dec. 30.—Thousands of men and women do ridiculous stunts in front of the radio each morning called "setting up exercises." These same people would be shocked if they were asked to get out and take real exercise, cleaning the ice and snow off their sidewalks. Yet why blame private citizens when a public building like the Hiram Kelly library is among the worst offenders? I saw two women fall there, and it was only with the aid of railings around the building that I managed to keep my own feet, so thick was the ice and snow on the sidewalk. They have a janitor there whose main duty seems to be chattering to casual acquaintances on the steps or to the women attendants in the library.

C. M.

AN INACCESSIBLE MARKET.

Chicago, Dec. 29.—For the last year and a half my business has brought me in contact with the merchants in Maxwell street market.

Since the fall of the heavy snow their business has fallen off and they have a grievance which, although remediable, has not been taken cognizance of by the proper authorities.

At this writing the snow lies in Maxwell street at least two and one-half feet deep. Naturally prospective buyers are loath to drive their autos into a street where they may be stuck in the snow for hours. Further, pedestrians who usually walk in the streets to view the merchandise offered for sale cannot do so because of the snow. As a result business has decreased markedly.

The market master, although he realizes the importance to the merchants of having the street clean, does nothing to remedy the situation.

HAROLD J. HALE.

SOME DEMOCRATS ARE PATRIOTS.

Abingdon, Ill., Dec. 30.—I have been a constant reader of your TRIBUNE for fifteen or twenty years and am pleased with the stand you take on most questions. I am a Republican, have always voted with that party, and I am near 80 years old. I have known Democrats that I think are patriots, and I believe if the President had chosen some five or six good loyal Democrats for his advisers in place of his brain trusters it would be much better for our country.

B. P. BAIRD.

AGAINST AN ENGLISH ALLIANCE.

Chicago, Dec. 31.—We, the members of the American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic, do unanimously and solemnly protest at the violation by Ambassador Robert W. Bingham of the principles of American policy as contained in the historic farewell address of George Washington, by the statement of the ambassador in London urging an Anglo-American alliance.

JOHN DOYLE.

THE SALES TAX.

Maywood, Ill., Dec. 31.—Why doesn't your correspondent, "Customer," render the thousands of retail merchants in Illinois a real service and figure out a way to collect the 2 per cent state sales tax [after all, that is all that we want], and still not have the merchant 10 to 20 per cent in the hole as it is now? Examination of the books of 100 stores will show this to be the case.

With the "exempt goods" and 17 cent exemptions we ran 15 to 20 per cent off, and does he kick about that? Why doesn't he start up a company which will guarantee the merchant 100 per cent collections, and the company keep the big surplus? Like all the rest of those fellows, when called upon to deliver he would fall flat.

DRUGGIST.

PUBLICITY ON LOCAL FINANCES.

Chicago, Dec. 27.—We trust you will, in your fearless manner, continue the suggestion that each of the local governments publish a weekly or monthly financial statement until results are obtained and your generous offer to assist in the compilation and publication of such statements be accepted.

With the millions passing through the treasuries of the different local governments surely accurate records are kept and the taxpayers are entitled to know what disposition is made of these funds. For instance, let us begin with an accounting of the vehicle tax funds.

POWER OFFICIAL ASSAILS SEAWAY ON ST. LAWRENCE

Sees No Economic Reason for Project.

New York, Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Nothing approaching economic justification can be found for the government public work projects on the St. Lawrence and in the western river basins according to Elon H. Hooker, speaking as a hydraulic engineer, chairman of the research corporation, and president of the Hooker Electrochemical corporation.

Mr. Hooker addressed more than 200 members of the New York State Chamber of Commerce, today.

"There appears to be 400,000 developed but unsold horse power free at the present on the Canadian side of the St. Lawrence which it will take many years to dispose of," Mr. Hooker said. "There also is another 2,000,000 horse power loose in New York ready to be used, with no present market. Yet the government proposes to develop 800,000 additional excess horse power on the St. Lawrence.

Call Power by Product.

"There is a curious psychology about this enterprise. When you criticize the worthlessness of the power project its proponents soft pedal that and call attention to the overwhelming advantages of the St. Lawrence seaway, of which power is only a by-product. When one questions the economic value of the St. Lawrence seaway they point out how necessary it is to develop St. Lawrence power to protect New England and New York from the power octopi and the gangsters."

As to the economic value of the seaway, Mr. Hooker said American routes of grain transportation could now carry four times what is passing, and that it is the farmers of Canada who have added three million wheat acres who will be largest beneficiaries of the St. Lawrence route. As to the contention of the power authority at Washington that 7 cents a bushel can be saved on wheat transportation from Duluth to Montreal, Mr. Hooker said that at no time during the last three years have total charges in any case exceeded 4½ cents per bushel.

Take Five Years.

"Further," he said, "the fatal defect in all these government plans for power dams, so far as emergency relief is concerned, is that it will take five year to complete the projects and five years more to purchase transformer lines and the apparatus to use, and we cannot wait ten years for relief."

Even after the first ten years, Mr. Hooker continued, the government will find on entering the power market, that there already is an excess of unsold power awaiting distribution. In the Portland [Ore.] district, he said, there is 600,000 excess horsepower available which the local utilities expected to sell over 25 years. With the introduction of the Bonneville dam and the Grand Coulee dam into the situation by the government, the power to be developed will, according to Mr. Hooker "be used about a hundred years from now."

Visits Tacoma City Plant.

Mr. Hooker said he had visited the municipal power plant at Tacoma [Wash.]. "The yardstick which Senator Norris uses as the basis for his arguments for govenment operation of power all over the United States."

Mr. Hooker said it was "unfair" to use it as a yardstick because there is no place in the country where the natural advantages for the furnishing of cheap power are as great as at Tacoma. Nevertheless, he said, the Hooker enterprises pay $2 a horsepower less at Niagara than they do at Tacoma.

REPUBLICANS MAKE LIST OF CANDIDATES FOR 2 CITY OFFICES

Names of prospective Republican candidates for city clerk and city treasurer were submitted by ward committeemen yesterday at a meeting of the Republican city central committee in the Bismarck hotel. The names were referred to a subcommittee for compilation of biographical material on the candidates. No action was taken on an indorsement of a candidate for mayor.

James A. Kearns, now city treasurer, led the list of possible candidates for city clerk. Others suggested were Attorney Michael Henkel, Michael Ostrowski, Stanley Bartecki, George Barrett Jr., son of former Judge George F. Barrett; Leon Novak, August Kilmek, Michael J. Rudnik, Siegfried L. Blumgren, and Oscar Hansen.

Names submited as candidates for city treasurer were Lawrence Zygmundt, lawyer and banker; Anthony L. Golusinski, 22d ward committeeman; M. G. Kudlick and S. J. Simon, former arbitrator of the Illinois Industrial commission.

BURNED BY HEATER; DIES.

Daniel Sekulic, 46 years old, of 11221 Langley avenue, died yesterday in the County hospital from burns received when he attempted to light a heater in his room.

RICHEY GRAHAM IN LINE TO HEAD SENATE AGAIN

Searcy Assured Election as Minority Leader.

The reëlection of Richey V. Graham as president pro tem of the state senate, the office he held in the 58th general assembly, was predicted yesterday by political leaders although opposition has arisen among some of the downstate members of the upper house of the legislature.

Graham's candidacy is said to be favored by Gov. Henry Horner. His campaign is being aided also by the apparently increasing certainty that a downstater, either Thomas P. Sinnett of Rock Island or John P. Devine of Dixon, will be the speaker of the house. Cook county Democratic leaders are following precedent in demanding that their delegation receive either the speakership or the presidency pro tem.

Election Virtually Assured.

Eighteen votes will control the caucus of the 35 Democratic senators next Tuesday night at Springfield. Graham is said to have the 14 votes of the Cook county bloc and sufficient pledges from downstate senators to insure his election.

The Democratic representatives also will caucus on Tuesday night and in the race for the speakership legislative leaders give the edge to Devine, a veteran of twenty-two years in the lower house. They also regard it as likely that James P. Boyle, Chicago member of the house who also is a candidate for the speakership, will be elected majority floor leader.

Searcy to Be Minority Chief.

In the caucus of the 16 Republican senators the same night, the way has been cleared for the election of Senator Earl B. Searcy of Springfield as minority leader by the announcement yesterday from Senator Richard J. Barr of Joliet that he would not be a candidate for reëlection to that post.

Barr is the dean of the senate, having served continuously since 1902. In times of Republican adversity as well as dominance he has led the party in the upper chamber.

Searcy is a fourth termer. During the Emmerson administration he was chairman of the senate revenue committee.

RELIEF FAMILIES FOUND CHOOSING FOOD UNWISELY

Survey Shows Purchases "Badly Distributed."

Relief families in most cases fail to eat "vitality producing" foods, although they receive adequate grocery purchase orders supplemented by foods distributed by the Federal Surplus Relief corporation. This was shown yesterday by the results of a survey covering 1,729 Rockford families on the rolls of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission.

An independent study of the subject was made under the auspices of the Elizabeth McCormick Memorial fund. The first step taken was to compare the grocery orders, furnished in amounts proportionate to the size of the family, with standards of dietary adequacy.

Grocery Orders Used Unwisely.

It was determined that sufficient quantities of the proper foods could be secured if relief families used their grocery orders wisely and took advantage of the federal surplus commodities given to them.

Investigators found, however, that actual purchases by relief families were "badly distributed." Outstanding deficiencies in the purchases were milk, vegetables, dried fruits, and cereals. The choice exercised by the "clients" also gave them less deficiencies of cheese, legumes, meat, and fish.

On the other hand, "adequate or excessive" purchases were made of fresh fruits, eggs, fats, sugar, and coffee, among the important items. A connection was found here with the items distributed by the federal surplus foods agency, which were salt and smoked pork, eggs, butter, oranges, canned roast beef, cheese, and navy beans.

Serious Lack of Milk.

The study indicated that the distribution of surplus foods by the government "tended to intensify the nutritional 'unbalance' of the diets." The shortage of milk, which may be obtained by families with children under 16, was termed the most serious lack in the relief diets, and, next to that, vegetables. Inadequacy of these two items results in low vitality for relief families, the report declared.

The appointment of Dr. Scott E. W. Bedford as director of community cooperation for the work relief division was announced yesterday. In this new position, Dr. Bedford will develop housing projects, and will make studies of the effect of work relief on recipients.

RETIRED AT 67, HE FINDS TIME FOR HOBBY—WRITING

After 41 years as an employé of the Commonwealth Edison company, E. A. Edkins, 67 years old, of Highland Park will have leisure now to devote to his hobby of writing. He retired on Jan. 1 as general manager of the company's electric shops.

Mr. Edkins before entering the Edison company's employ as a clerk in the stores department was a reporter on the old New York Sun. Before becoming general manager of the electric shops he served at one time as head of the information bureau and editor of the Round Table, the Edison house organ. In 1928 he published a book of verse called "The Scarlet Cockatoo."

Kills Himself in Hotel; Leaves No Identification

A man who registered under the supposedly fictitious name of M. Bailey of Duluth shot and fatally wounded himself yesterday in his room in the Michigan hotel, 1206 South Wabash avenue. He was about 60 years old and wore good clothing, from which all identifying marks had been torn. Employés of the hotel said the man registered Dec. 29 and paid a week's rent in advance.

CAPTURED BANDIT TRIO LINKED WITH $80,000 ROBBERIES

CRIMINAL COURT.

RAYMOND ANTONELLI, robbery, sentenced to one year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Harry B. Miller.

S. KAHN, burglary, sentenced to one year to ten years by Judge Cornelius Harrington.

WILLIAM ADAIR and GEORGE BAILEY, larceny of an automobile, sentenced to one to twenty years each by Judge Walter P. Steffen.

HELEN BAKUTIS, robbery, sentenced to one to twenty years in woman's reformatory; EDWARD HANKIEWICZ, JOSEPH LISNEWSKI, and JOHN PTAK, robbery, sentenced to one year to life by Judge Denis E. Sullivan.

Three bandits, believed by police to have taken some $80,000 from 150 different victims after trailing them from banks where they had withdrawn money, were captured yesterday.

The three, held at the Racine avenue station, are: Albert Tomasello, 18 years old, 905 Townsend street; James Capodanno, 29 years old, 1150 West Grand avenue, and Victor Musso, 22 years old, 859 Sedgwick street.

They were captured after they had robbed Henry Windels, owner of a tavern at 3000 North Ashland avenue, taking $300 he had just withdrawn from a bank.

Capt. John J. O'Brien declared that in each of the 150 robberies of this kind three men rode in a small sedan and two of them always wore dark colored glasses as a disguise. He declared that all victims of these crimes would be summoned to view the prisoners.

COMMON COLDS COST LIFE EVERY FOUR MINUTES

One person dies every four minutes in the United States from pneumonia or other disease traceable to the common cold.

That statement was made yesterday by Dr. Bayard Holmes, chairman of the medical exhibit of the Second Rotary Business Recovery exposition, to be held at the Hotel Sherman from Jan. 15 to 18.

The common cold, so prevalent during such weather as Chicago has been experiencing recently, is characterized by Dr. Holmes as public health enemy No. 4, and means of combating it will be demonstrated at the exhibit.

Public health enemy No. 1 is heart disease, Dr. Holmes adds. It is responsible for 208 deaths among every 100,000 persons in the country.

NEW NRA COUNCIL STARTS SESSION HERE IN SECRECY

Hears Complaints About Code Violations.

The new NRA regional compliance council shrouded itself in secrecy yesterday when it began sessions here to pass judgment on alleged code violators from four central west states. Two of the three members slipped away from interviewers, one of them denying his identity to a reporter.

The sessions are closed to the press and public. C. F. Rumely, who arrived from Washington on Wednesday as regional compliance director, declared no one but "directly interested parties" will be permitted to attend the hearings. He said he did not know the reason for this procedure.

What Sessions Are Called.

"Then they will be 'star chamber' sessions?" he was asked.

"You might call them that—we don't," was his reply.

The regional director said information concerning the cases heard could be obtained from the state director, F. L. Roberts. The same advice was later volunteered by Rumely's assistant, George H. Shields III.

State Director Roberts said he did not know what cases were heard. Later he was able to furnish only the information that there were two, one involving the retail motor vehicle code, and the other the textile code. He said the regional organization would follow the policy used in Washington, withholding information until cases were finally decided and he was notified of the outcome.

Member Denies His Identity.

Rumely suggested that the two local members of the council be interviewed "some other day." At the conclusion of the hearing, they eluded a reporter. One who answered the description of Adolph Germer, the labor member, denied his identity and left hurriedly. The other was Carl W. Bergquist, of the Western Electric company, representing industry, who has already given much of his time to New Deal affairs.

The third member and impartial chairman of the council is W. W. Swift, an NRA employé from Washington.

MISSING WHEEL CHAIR RETURNED; CRIPPLE IS HAPPY

Robert Vlk has his wheel chair again and it appears that 1935 will be a happy new year.

Shortly after Ralph Cohen, 3916 Congress street, read an item about Vlk and the loss of his chair in THE TRIBUNE yesterday morning, he hurried to a garage at Karlov avenue and Fillmore street, where he keeps his car, loaded on a stray wheel chair he had found outside the garage on New Year's day and delivered it to the crippled Vlk at 1612 South Kedvale avenue.

"He certainly was tickled," Cohen said. "My wife and I saw some youngsters playing in the wheel chair in front of the garage when we went for the car New Year's day. No one claimed it, so we took it inside and were going to give it to an institution."

Vlk, who is 28 years old, makes his living as a radio repair man. The chair was stolen New Year's eve when it was left tied to an automobile outside a friend's house during a new year party.

U. S. COURT HOLDS INSULL RECEIVER FEES EXORBITANT

Second Division Approves McCulloch's Work.

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals, in two opinions handed down yesterday in cases arising from the receiverships of Samuel Insull's holding companies, held that compensation to receivers and their counsel "in general has been greatly exorbitant."

In one opinion the appeals court sustained the ruling of a member, Judge Evan A. Evans, then sitting in the District court, who had found evidence of collusion in the receivership of Insull Utility Investments, Inc.

Although by implication, Judge Evans' finding was construed originally to apply also to the Middle West Utilities company and the Corporation Securities company, two other Insull concerns, the second opinion of the Court of Appeals upheld the decision of Judge Walter C. Lindley of the District court that there was no collusive activity in the receivership of Middle West. The Corporation Securities company was not mentioned in either opinion.

Deny Fentress More Cash.

In the Insull Utility Investments case, the court denied further compensation requested by the receiver, Calvin Fentress, and his attorneys, the law firm of Cassels, Potter and Bentley and Allen and Dalbey, who brought the appeal when Judge Evans refused their claims. The opinion agreed with Judge Evans' statement that Fentress was not knowingly a party to collusion.

The Appeals court opinion in the Middle West case sustained Judge Lindley's denial of a motion to discharge Charles A. McCulloch and the late Edwdard N. Hurley as co-receivers of the company.

"We are convinced," the opinion read, "that the character and ability of Mr. Hurley and Mr. McCulloch and the results of their administration are sufficient to classify this receivership as one of conservation for the benefit of all creditors and that its function was legitimate and properly exercised."

Charges Made by Ettelson.

The collusion charges were made by Samuel A. Ettelson, former corporation counsel, who contended that Insull and his associates had engineered friendly receiverships for the holding companies under which they would keep control. Insull was at one time a co-receiver for Middle West but was forced to resign.

Both Middle West and Utility Investments are now in bankruptcy. Dean Harry A. Bigelow of the law school of the University of Chicago is trustee of Utility Investments and Daniel C. Green, operating head of Middle West while it was in receivership, is trustee for that company.

Fentress Barred by Court.

Fentress was disqualified as trustee in bankruptcy for Utility Investments by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson on the ground, advanced by Ettelson, that Fentress was the nominee of Insull and the bankers.

Fentress, who had received $12,500 as fees for his services as receiver of Utility Investments, had asked Judge Evans for $17,500 more. The firms of Allen and Dalbey and Cassels, Potter and Bentley, which had each received $12,500, asked for $9,000 and $5,000 more respectively.

In upholding Judge Evans' refusal for further compensation, the Court of Appeals said: "We have no doubt that the compensation sought was excessive. It may be truthfully said that the claims were no larger than others which have been allowed for similar services. We think that quite generally advances to receivers and their counsel have been greatly exorbitant and that the office of receiver has been made entirely too attractive in this respect.

Will Keep Fees Reasonable.

"It would be most unfortunate for the courts and the people generally if compensation for such offices were reduced to such an extent as to render the services of capable men inaccessible. If that condition arises, it will be corrected, but until it becomes more imminent than it is at present, we feel there is no cause for alarm."

As to collusion in the Middle West case, the opinion pointed out that "agreeing creditors had knowledge which they failed to disclose to the court that Samuel Insull had been guilty of some irregularities, which weighted strongly against his moral fitness to act as receiver."

Uphold McCulloch and Hurley.

But neither McCulloch and Hurley knew of this, the opinion said, and when informed they immediately avoided any taint in their management of the company by forcing Insull to resign.

Judge Evans, having heard the Utility Investments case in the lower court, did not sit in review on it, and the opinion was written by Judge Will M. Sparks with the concurrence of Judges Louis FitzHenry and A. B. Anderson.

The opinion in the Middle West case was also written by Judge Sparks with the concurrence of Judges FitzHenry and George T. Page.

WORK ON PLANS FOR ROOSEVELT BENEFIT BALL

Business Leaders Aid Paralysis Fight.

Plans for Chicago to participate in the nation-wide celebration of President Roosevelt's birthday on Jan. 30, the purpose of which will be to raise funds for treatment of infantile paralysis sufferers and scientific research on the disease, were outlined yesterday at a luncheon in the Chicago club.

Use of the funds raised will be changed radically from that made last year, when more than $1,000,000 was raised for the Warm Springs foundation at Warm Springs, Ga., where President Roosevelt obtained treatment for the ailment. This year 70 per cent of the money raised in any community will be kept in that community for relief of sufferers there.

In Chicago five hospitals devoted to treatment of crippled children will share in the fund. The remaining 30 per cent will go to a national fund for infantile paralysis research. The 70-30 plan was devised in answer to some criticism which arose a year ago as a result of using the whole fund for a single institution.

Walter J. Cummings is chairman of the finance committee of the local fund. The drive marks a new activity for Mr. Cummings, who formerly was head of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation and who a few months ago was installed at the insistence of the Reconstruction Finance corporation as chairman of the board of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company. He is also treasurer of the Democratic national committee.

Mr. Cummings was host at yesterday's luncheon to some fifty leading business men and introduced the speakers, Mayor Kelly and Howard F. Gillette, western representative of the Chase National bank of New York, who is general chairman of the drive in Chicago. The national chairman is Henry L. Doherty, the utilities magnate.

The principal entertainment in Chicago on Jan. 30 will be a birthday ball in the International amphitheater at the stockyards. The ball, with contributions gathered from school children, public contributions gathered by the Boy Scouts, auctions of birthday cakes and private parties in hotels and restaurants, is expected to raise $85,000.

FEW COMPLAINTS ON FILE AS TAX HEARINGS OPEN

One of the lightest schedules in several years faced the board of tax appeals yesterday when it began hearings on protests against 1933 tax bills. Fred W. Brummel and Emmett Whealan make up the board.

Only about 1,200 complaints were filed up to yesterday, a sharp decline from previous years when as many as 110,000 protests were made. Jan. 31 is the deadline for the filing of objections.

Fifty homeowners were heard at the first session. Most of the overcharges of which they complained were due to clerical errors, and only a few insisted they had been overassessed. In other years most of the objectors claimed inequality of assessment, but considerable tax reductions were made for the 1933 bills.

Meanwhile taxpayers continued to pour 1933 tax funds into the office of County Treasurer Robert M. Sweitzer, who announced the distribution of $6,460,000 in current collections. The largest share, $4,000,000, was turned over to the schools and city. Other large shares included: Sanitary district, $800,000; south parks, $700,000; and county, $500,000.

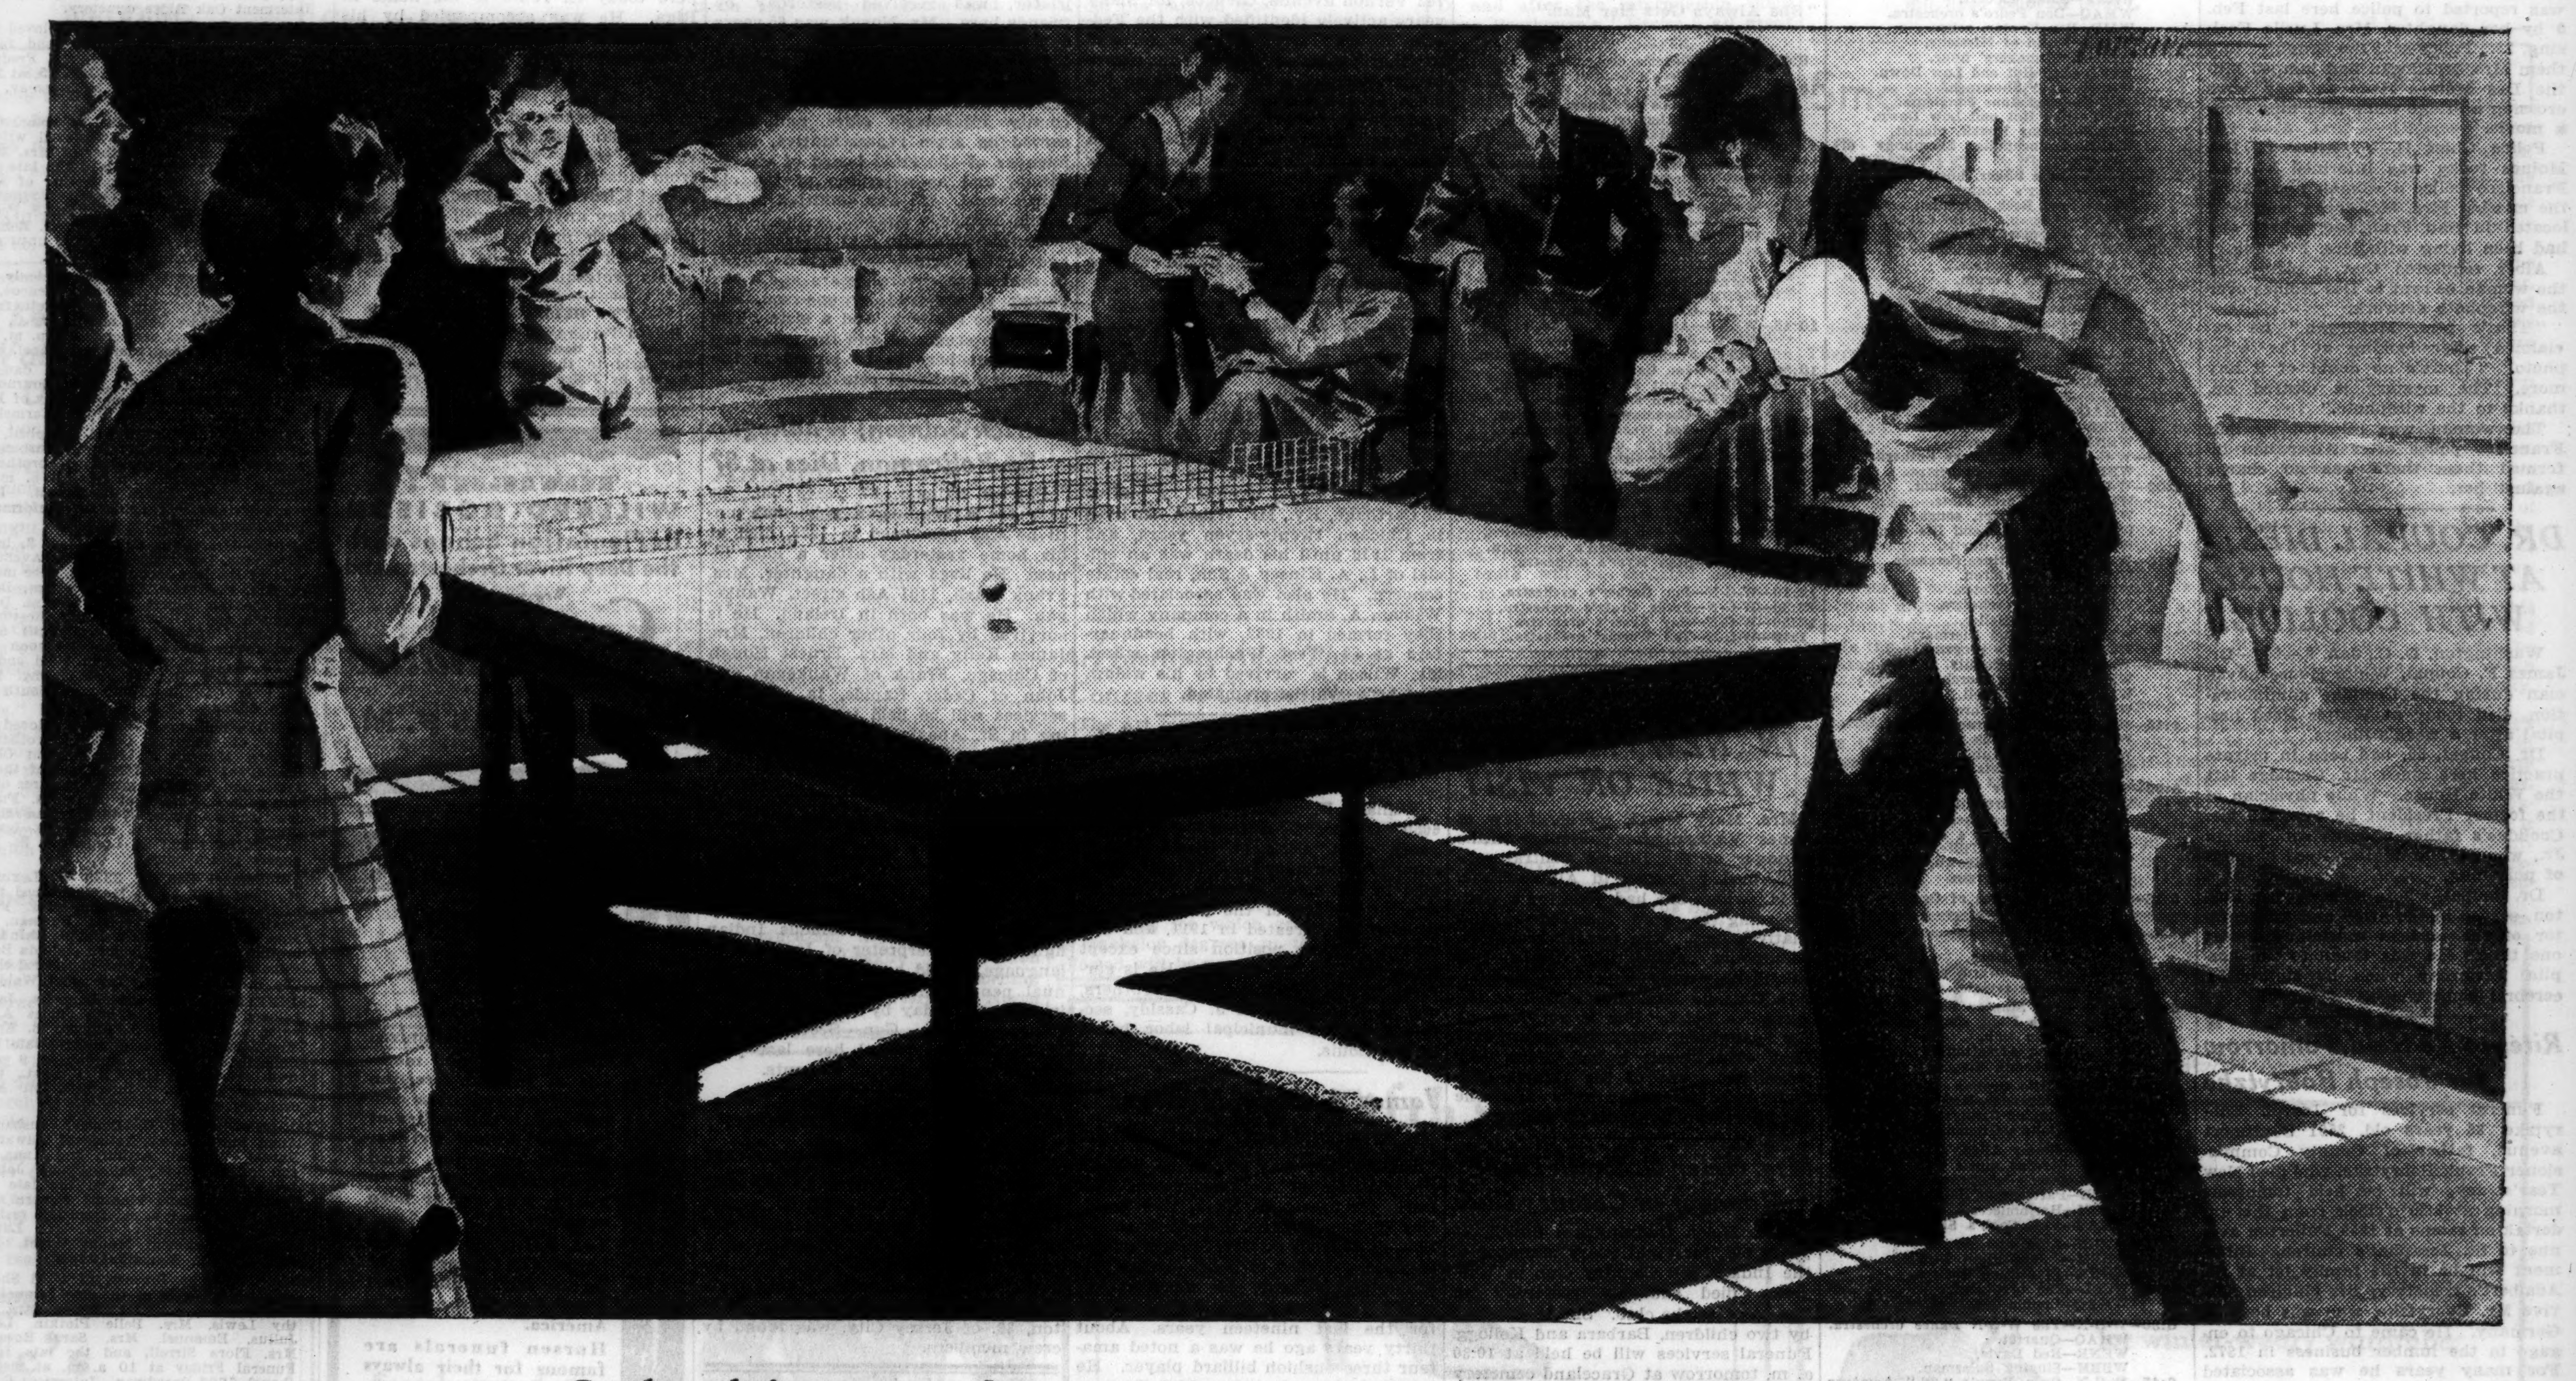
where the Coal Bin used to be



Gas heat brings many advantages into your home. Cleanliness, freedom from furnace worries, year 'round convenience — and a clean, warm, livable basement.

PICTURE the ordinary basement before gas heat. Coal bin, piles of kindling, boxes, ash cans, dust, dirt, soot. Not a foot of space available for pleasure, for useful, practical purposes. This is changed when gas heat is installed. No need for a coal bin now. The ash cans are no more. Kindling is dispensed with. All needless grime and dirt are abolished. And the basement becomes a place that can be utilized as a comfortable room.

The PLUS value of gas heat

Thousands of homes have automatically made possible an enlargement of their living quarters by installing gas heat. Their basements have become rooms for recreation, for table tennis, for cards, for entertaining, playrooms for children, offices, workshops. And yet, important as this is, it is only a plus value of gas heat. For with gas heat, you realize comforts and conveniences never possible with old-fashioned methods of heating. You are absolutely freed of all furnace worries. No shoveling, no hauling of ashes, no getting up at dawn to fire the furnace. Gas heat is automatic. One flip of the control on the little thermostat regulates the heat. With that your furnace tending is done. And gas heat is clean—immaculately clean. No soot to smear walls and woodwork. No dirt to cover furnishings. No dust to seep into rugs and drapes. Gas heat eliminates unnecessary cleaning—and thereby saves many dollars expense every year.

Now, when you can truly appreciate it, try gas heat. Rates, now less than half of what they were a few years ago, make our liberal proposition more than ever attractive. You can try gas heat without investing one cent for equipment. We'll install it in your present furnace or boiler at our expense. You try it for one month, two months or a year. While you are trying it you pay a small monthly rental—only $3 for the burner during the heating months in the average home. This charge is included with the bill for the gas you use.

Try gas heat—now

If you decide—as we think you will—to keep gas heat, the rental you have paid applies on the purchase price of the equipment. But if at any time within the year you find that you are not satisfied with gas heat, we will take it out and replace your former heating equipment in good workmanlike order. The rental charge stops immediately . . . Investigate this liberal offer now. Simply call your nearest gas company office for full details. Ask for an accurate estimate of what it will cost to heat your home with gas.

4,000 Work For You When You Light Gas

Every day, in the Crawford Avenue plant of The Peoples Gas Light and Coke Company, 2,000 tons of coal are converted to coke in the production of gas. The ovens are never cool; in all weather, day and night, the work goes on.

A thousand miles away, on the plains of west Texas, natural gas rushes up from the earth and is led through pipe lines to serve you in Chicago.

Within the city limits of Chicago, a 3,700-mile network of distribution mains is watched over constantly by a small army of experienced workers whose duty it is to keep this vast system working perfectly in every part.

More than 4,000 workers, on the job day and night in eight-hour shifts, are dedicated to your service—so that when you touch the valve handle on your gas range burner, the gas will be there.

You Invest Nothing

To Try Gas Heat!

Gas heat can be installed without your investing one cent for equipment. To prove that every home can now afford to heat with gas, we'll install it at our expense—remove it at our expense, if you don't like it. Accept this startling offer. Phone your nearest gas office TODAY.

HUEY'S NEW TAX MAY LOSE STATE BIG OIL PLANTS

Standard Oil Starts to Lay Off Men.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—The Standard Oil Company of Louisiana announced today it would begin immediately laying off employés in its plant at Baton Rouge. The company employs between 3,000 and 4,000 workers and just how many will lose their jobs was not indicated.

Some reports are that the concern is preparing to close its plant in Louisiana, but this is not generally credited. The company today also indicated it would greatly curtail its production and begin moving part of its equipment used in special refining processes to New Jersey.

Standard Hit Hard by Tax.

Senator Huey Long, at his recent special session of the legislature, placed a tax of five cents a barrel on refined oil processed in the state of Louisiana. The Standard would have been the greatest sufferer. Senator Long estimated that his tax would bring in around 2 million dollars a year.

The Standard refines at its Baton Rouge plant around 40,000 barrels a day. It was also reported here today that other smaller and independent refineries are planning either to close or cut down production.

Thousands of oil refinery workers were called tonight to gather in mass meeting to protest Long's tax, and local workers telegraphed President Roosevelt attacking Long's dictatorship.

Long to Buy Radio Station.

Senator Long is negotiating for the purchase of radio station WDSU at New Orleans. He announced today that he will make it one of the most powerful stations in America. It will be bought in the name of Louisiana State university. An amendment providing for the funds was jammed through the recent special session of the legislature.

WIREPHOTO AIDS IN LOCATING OF MISSING WOMAN

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 3.—(AP)—Wirephoto, the Associated Press new photo by wire system, today aided in clearing up the police record of a Des Moines woman who had been missing since Feb. 9, 1934.

The woman was Mrs. Minnie Brown McKirgan, 58, whose disappearance was reported to police here last Feb. 9 by her daughter, Mrs. Lucile Foelsing, 23. Police said the daughter told them Mrs. McKirgan had jumped into the Des Moines river as they were crossing a bridge while returning from a movie.

Police Chief H. A. Alber of Des Moines today was informed by San Francisco police a woman resembling the missing Mrs. McKergan had been located in San Francisco, where she had been living with Mrs. Foelsing.

Alber requested that a picture of the woman be sent to Des Moines over the wirephoto network.

"That's Mrs. McKirgan," he exclaimed after looking at the wirephoto. "There's no doubt of it any more. The mystery is cleared up, thanks to the wirephoto."

The woman was released by San Francisco police after Alber had informed them there was no charge against her.

WARNS AGAINST IRRITATION AS CANCER SOURCE

Expert Tells Club Women Heredity Is Factor.

The cancer cell was described as "a lawless bandit of the racketeering type which muscles in and destroys normal body tissue" by Dr. James P. Simonds, professor of pathology of Northwestern university, in a lecture yesterday before the Chicago Woman's club at 72 East 11th street. Mrs. Ralph W. Webster, chairman of the club's cancer research committee, presided.

The talk was the first of a series to be given every Thursday during January. Intended for the public, especially women, the lectures are being sponsored by Mrs. Webster's committee.

Other Experts to Speak.

Speakers on the program are all widely known for their work in the field of cancer. Those to follow are Drs. Harry A. Oberhelman of Rush Medical college, Dr. Max Cutler of the Michael Reese hospital, Dr. Bowman C. Crowell of the American College of Surgeons, and Dr. Ludvig Hektoen of the John McCormick institute.

Dr. Simonds in his talk summarized present day knowledge and conclusions on the nature and prevention of cancer. The important ones were:

1. That cancer is not a germ disease, and that it is not infectious or transmissible through contact.

Irritation Is a Factor.

2. That it develops only among persons having a tendency to inherit the disease, and then only where there has been some chronic irritation.

3. That the disease is preventable among those with an inheritable tendency by the avoidance of chronic irritations. The factors of heredity and irritation must be combined to develop cancer. Irritation alone will not produce cancer among persons without the ancestral tendency.

"Cancer is not a stigma or a disgrace," said Dr. Simonds. "The modern generation of young women may be contrasted to the mid-Victorian prudery of their mothers in not hiding presence of the disease. It means a better chance of prevention and cure."

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Beatrice Lillie, that irrepressible comedienne, is to start her own radio show over WLS-NBC at 8 o'clock this evening. For listeners her program is likely to prove pleasantly informal. For radio production men and technicians the show may have as many surprises as Joe Cook's. In private life Miss Lillie is Lady Peel, but her conduct is not always precisely that laid down for ladies by Emily Post.

While here she was a guest at a luncheon. During the course of the meal she was told that she was expected to speak. When the chairman turned to introduce her she had disappeared. After some commotion she was discovered hiding under the table.

And while facing the microphone she hooked her arm through Noel Coward's, teetered on one foot with the other one hitched behind her ankle. So anything may happen on her broadcasts. The authorities at Radio City may even decide to harness one of those lapel outfits to her lest she get out of the range of the microphone.

New York, Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Texas Guinan, spectacular Broadway night club hostess during the prohibition era, left a gross estate of $52,405, and a net of $28,172, according to a transfer tax appraisal filed today. Miss Guinan died on Nov. 5, 1933, at Vancouver, B. C., where she was taken ill while on a theatrical tour with her troupe of forty show girls. Her body only yesterday was transferred from a vault at the Gate of Heaven cemetery, Mount Pleasant, to the Guinan family vault recently completed at Calvary cemetery in Queens.

To her mother, Mrs. Bessie Guinan, Tex left her entire taxable estate. The will required only a page of typewritten paper and was signed "Texas" Guinan, although the testator's Christian name was Mary Louise.

The assets of the estate were rather evenly divided among several items. Miss Guinan had securities valued at $9,135 and insurance of $10,478. She had additional insurance of $40,000, which was exempt from taxation under inheritance laws and hence not included in the gross assets of the estate.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Jan. 3.—(AP)—George W. Bisenieks, Latvian consul general to Leningrad, who was expelled from Russia, passed through here today en route to his home in Riga. He was accompanied by his wife and two children.

His appearance was unexpected, since a Latvian foreign office spokesman last night said he already was in Riga on vacation.

Bisenieks refused to comment on rumors which linked his expulsion from Russia with the assassination of Sergei Kirov at Leningrad, saying: "I cannot say anything until I have conferred with my government and received directions. The whole matter seems grotesque."

Louise McCormick Is Bride

MRS. MONTGOMERY ORR.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Bride Wears Wedding Gown of Other Days

Looking like a lovely old daguerrotype of a bride of half a century ago, Miss Louise McCormick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brooks McCormick of Baltimore and St. Louis, was married yesterday afternoon to Montgomery Orr, son of Mrs. Arthur Orr of St. Charles.

The service was read at 4 o'clock by the Rev. Duncan Browne in the drawing room of the Lake View avenue residence of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey McCormick. Only relatives attended the wedding and the reception that followed.

The bride wore the hoop-skirted, deep cream grosgrain satin gown that the bridegroom's maternal grandmother had worn for her wedding, and carried a shower bouquet of roses that matched the rich old color of the gown. The same tulle veil, edged with lace, that Marion Deering wore when she became Mrs. Chauncey McCormick in Paris 21 years ago was worn by yesterday's bride, and, just as it was then, it was held in place yesterday by a wreath of orange blossoms.

Calla lilies decorated the stunning room in which the ceremony took place in front of the fireplace.

Ten year old Susan Orr, who was her sister-in-law's only attendant, wore a silk frock in a soft pink shade and carried an old fashioned bouquet. Arthur Orr, 14 years old, stalwart in his military school uniform, was his brother's best man. Mrs. Charles W. Dempster's white velvet stool, on which dozens of fashionable brides and bridegrooms have knelt to receive the benediction, was used by yesterday's handsome couple.

Mr. Orr and his bride have left for a motor trip to Mexico City, and after Feb. 15 they will be at home at 534 North Wabash avenue.

St. Louis Singing Waiter Must Stop, Union Head Says

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 3.—(AP)—The singing waiter is clearing his throat for a swan song in St. Louis, if Waiters' union, local No. 20, has anything to say about it.

Brought into popularity in the gay '90s and revived by repeal, singing waiters had a great day in St. Louis a few months ago. Then the union took a hand. Now, according to Harry Cordes, union secretary, there is only one place left where the utility entertainer can take refuge.

"Our union frowns upon singing waiters," he said, "and we're ready to picket any place that uses them if it becomes necessary.

"If a man is a waiter, he's a waiter. If he's a singer, he's a singer. We can't recognize any such thing as a combination. It's degrading to the union waiters."

City Welcomes the Return of Robert Cabells

Wife of Armour Head to Be Luncheon Guest.

BY JUDITH CASS.

It seems almost too much to ask Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hervey Cabell to give up a 400 year old house in the country just outside of London for a hotel suite, but with fond devotion for Chicago and friends here they have already found genuine compensation. The new president of Armour & Co. and Mrs. Cabell arrived in Chicago to stay, two days after Christmas, and are now nicely settled in an apartment at the Drake hotel and enjoying the hospitality of friends, new and old.

Mrs. Richard Hackett, whose home is at 179 Lake Shore drive, has issued invitations for a large luncheon for Mrs. Cabell next Thursday. A few days later Mrs. F. Edson White and her daughter, Mrs. William M. Spencer, are entertaining for her at a similar party.

It was before 1913, when Mr. Cabell went to London to represent Armour's, that they lived for a number of years in Chicago and in Evanston. Now that they have returned here, their eldest son, Robert H. Cabell Jr., is the managing director for Armour in London. Young Mr. Cabell [the name is pronounced with a softened "a" and the accent on the first syllable] is married, but Mr. and Mrs. Cabell have two bachelor sons who are in this country. Unfortunately they will not be in Chicago with their parents, for Charles lives in New York City and Patterson is traveling on business in the west.

The Cabells' only daughter and grandchildren are in Paris. The former Helen Cabell became the Countess Jacques de Lailhacar a number of years ago and now they have two children, Robert and Jacqueline.

Mr. Cabell, who has a distinguished face with an iron gray mustache, was over here in the late fall. He went back to London at holiday time, however, to help Mrs. Cabell close their house and accompany her to this country.

Gen. and Mrs. McCoy to Arrive Feb. 1.

Other newcomers to Chicago this new year will be Gen. Frank R. McCoy, the youngest major general in the United States army, who was ordered by the war department to command of the 6th corps area, and Mrs. McCoy. They are due to arrive on or about Feb. 1 from Omaha, Neb., where Gen. McCoy is now the head of the 7th corps area.

Where they will live in Chicago remains indefinite. Although the area law allows the chief officer to live anywhere within the area, it is generally believed that Gen. and Mrs. McCoy will select a residence in the city.

Their coming is significant not only in civic and military affairs but also in the social world. Before her marriage in 1924 Mrs. McCoy was Frances Field Judson of New York, a niece of Gen. McCoy's superior officer. Their wedding took place in Manila where Gen. McCoy was serving as aid to Gov. Gen. Leonard Wood. Gen. and Mrs. Preston Brown, who have given up their apartment and gone south due to Gen. Brown's retirement, were the McCoy's immediate predecessors here. Gen. Brown was in turn preceded by Gen. Frank Parker, who is now in the Philippines with Mrs. Parker and their delightful daughters.

Dean Harrington's "writing for print" class, on McKinlock campus, was discussing the "possibility story"—what would have happened had the Pilgrims landed in California instead of Plymouth Rock; if Columbus had landed in South America instead of North America, and similar what ifs.

Thumb Pointers—
Oddment—
Tot Tales—
Club.

"What if man had been created with four fingers and no thumb," suggested one member of the class.

The class was floored at this possibility except one young woman, who observed brightly:

"There wouldn't be any hitchhikers."

If you've seen "Ah, Wilderness" at the Erlanger, with George M. Cohan, you remember the supper table act, in which lobster is served, also bluefish. Mr. Cohan has a standing order with a neighboring restaurant for real lobster and real bluefish, and this bit of realism adds $72 a week to the play's expenses. Thus, while the actors eat, they are eating real food, although the stage hands get most of it.

Mention was made the other day of the queer conception of things children sometimes acquire. One such example is illustrated by a comment made a few days ago by Anne, the small daughter of Carl Bricken, young composer and conductor of the University of Chicago Symphony orchestra.

"When you get younger, mummy—as young as I am," she said, "you can wear a hair ribbon, too."

* *

All right, another child story. Mrs. Samuel Rinaker tells about the little neighbor girl to whom she said:

"Happy New Year!"

"But I don't want any new ears," objected the child.

Ruth Stein reports the two little girls, about twelve years old, who were walking briskly along Crawford avenue south of Jackson boulevard the other day wearing jaunty club sweaters. The name of their club—if the bright orange letters on their backs may be believed, is "Vigilante Coquettes."

Helen Hertz Is Bride of Robert Levy

New York, Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Miss Helen Betty Hertz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hertz of Chicago and New York, was married this evening to Robert M. Levy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Levy of 575 Park avenue. The ceremony took place in the grand ballroom of the Ritz Carlton hotel in the presence of a gathering of New York and Chicago relatives and friends of the couple, with the Rev. Dr. Samuel Goldenson of Temple Emanu-El officiating.

Next Saturday, the couple will sail on the Rex for a ten months honeymoon trip through India and the orient.

Miss Hertz had as her matron of honor, her sister, Mrs. Alfred Ettlinger of Chicago. The bridesmaids were the Misses Elizabeth Milhiser and Anne Goodman, and Mrs. Joseph Schwarzchild of New York and Miss Babbett Rothchild of Chicago. Mr. Levy's best man was Germain Seligmann of New York.

The ushers were John Hertz Jr., Andrew Goodman, John Raiss and James Raimer of New York and James Plaut and Charles Kuhn of Cambridge, Mass., and Paul Trivers of Chappequa, N. Y.

Mr. Levy, a graduate of Yale, is connected with the Jacques Seligmann Art galleries of New York and Paris.

Women Voters.

The education department of the Cook County League of Women Voters will meet at 10:30 this morning at the league headquarters, 225 North Michigan avenue.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

The right shade and the right texture of lipstick will do more to give your face a "lift" than anything we can think of, even a new hat. If you're bored with your face you can be sure that your friends are too—and a better, brighter lip rouge may be just what's needed to make a new woman of you.

There's a new one out that you shouldn't overlook. The colors are as true as any you'll ever find—no dissolution at the edges or beneath the top layer into weird nuances of purplish blue or orange. And the texture is sublime. It's a really greasy lipstick—the sort every blessed one of us should use during the winter months—but it isn't sloppy. One coat does the trick; you don't have to outline the lips over and over for a satisfactory depth of shade. With some sticks, you know, it's hard to get the color just right and avoid the painted look.

This new lipstick number is indelible. It sticks for hours and, like a good friend, it wears well. You don't find flaws bobbing up after long acquaintance.

There is one shade about which we're simply gaga—a bright, lively flame color that's brilliant, but with depth, and quite respectable. It's not one of those frighteningly lurid shades that make your skin look dead white and your eyes haggard. Some women can get away with these, but mighty few. Most of us when we try that lurid effect don't quite make the grade at looking interesting. We merely look as though we needed fresh air and tons of spinach.

The flame shade is different. The rich brilliance of the color, with no undertones of blue, is bright and youthful. You're in luck if you can wear it. The light metal case is automatic and the stick is so large you have a comfortable appreciation of the fact that you're getting lots of lipstick for your money.

Art Institute Adds Three Courses as Classes Reopen

One will be a course in fresco painting under Merlin Pollack, another in wood block printing under Douglas Hall, and the third in loom weaving and pattern design in textiles under Miss Innie Arfsten. The arrangement with the University of Chicago whereby courses for which credits leading to bachelor degrees in the arts are allowed will be continued.

Harris Plays at Orchestra; Lusty Applause

Chicago Pianist Pleases His Audience.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

No one who heard the lusty and continued applause extended to Tomford Harris when he appeared as piano soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra will ever be able to say that American artists do not get a fair showing before an American audience. Apparently the chief thing demanded is that the emphasis should be on the word artist and not necessarily upon American, and that the artist should deliver a big piece in a big way.

Mr. Harris is a young Chicagoan who in times past has given cause to some of us to speak admiringly of what he is able to do in the recital field. This was his first appearance as soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra, and for it he chose the Saint-Saëns Fifth Concerto, a work much less frequently played than the Second or Fourth and less obvious in its display than either of them, but still a brilliant and engaging work.

He is about as able a pianist as you will be able to find. Possessed of a technical development that halts at little or nothing, he is able to express and project practically everything from the sustained melody to the raging torrent of boiling fervor, and all of this he did with the finest of poise and self-possession. As far as the audience was concerned, he could have played an encore, or two or three, but his refusal was as firm as his touch on the keyboard.

This, according to the calendar, is the week that should have been devoted to a program in memory of Theodore Thomas, founder and first conductor of the orchestra, who died thirty years ago. Instead Conductor Frederick Stock has preferred to celebrate the memorial through the medium of the Bach program next week. But at that last night's concert was a noble event, since the concerto was preceded by the Mozart Symphony in D, and after the intermission there came Beethoven's "Eroica," all great music and superbly played.

Field Museum Serves Nearly 2,700,000 in Year Just Closed

Nearly 2,700,000 persons were benefited by the Field Museum of Natural History last year, according to a report of Stephen C. Sims, director. The figure includes the 1,991,469 visitors to the museum.

Besides, more than 700,000 persons, mostly children, were reached by the 1,300 traveling exhibits of the N. W. Harris public school extension department, and by the classroom speakers on natural history subjects sent out from the James Nelson and Anna Louise Raymond Foundation.

"People of the South Seas" will be the subject of the museum's guide-lecture tour Monday afternoon, which starts from the north entrance. Similar tours will be escorted daily at 3 p. m.

Four technical reports on the first Marshall Field paleontological exposition to Argentina and Bolivia have just been issued by the museum press. They are the work of Bryan Patterson, member of the museum staf, and are for international distribution among institutions interested in mammal fossils excavated by the expedition.

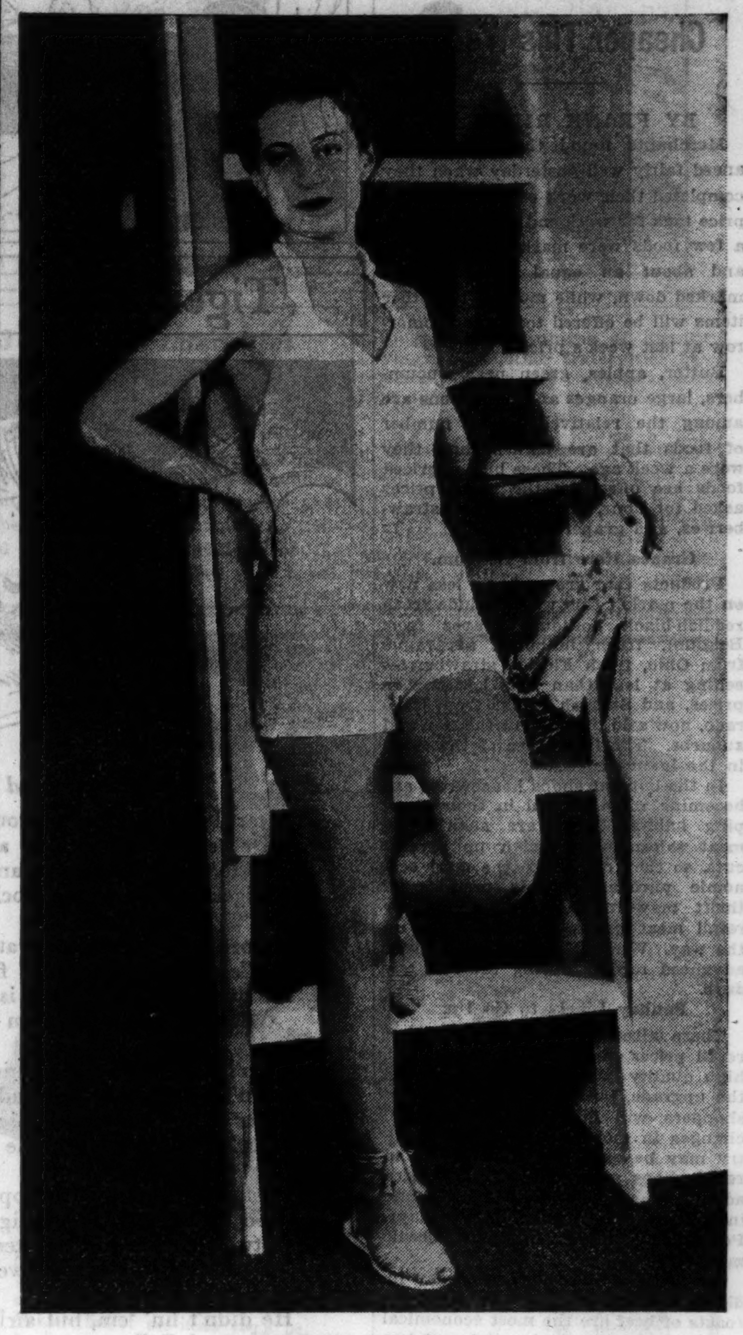
Take a Swim in Lace



[TRIBUNE Studio Photo.]

Smooth Knits, Subtle Shades for Sweaters

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Sweaters seemingly go on forever. There must have been dozens of dozens packed and wrapped for gifts and still the shops stress these very important "woollies." Smooth knits are going south, with subtle shades featured. Cashmere twins done in the grand manner with grosgrain ribbon banding in all street shades and pastels are prime favorites. And the stripes, wide, riotous, and rather abandoned as to color combine, are quite the most cheerful things to be found. The inner sweater with short sleeves sports the stripes and the outer jacket sweater struts the dark contrast.

If you want to keep your pet sweater outfits the easiest way is to have them monogrammed. One well known sports shop has a grand assortment of designs, styles and charts of the same, for your selection, and will show you all the newest ways to have them embroidered on the sweaters you choose. These monograms can be used for both twin sets and the single units and some particularly stunning effects are achieved by contrast with light initials on dark colored sweaters.

A new sweater for riding outfits comes in a new turtle neck model, all the pastel colors and white made of the softest wool imaginable and the old double fold of the turtle neck is gone. All there is to the collar now is the single thickness or height, literally half the old-time turtle neck. This single thickness makes it smooth and snug fitted and a stock can easily be worn over the sweater neck, which makes it as practical as it is swanky.

Fashion photograph. . . . What's new in swim suits? Cotton lace in flesh shade with brassiere and shorts of flesh colored jersey. It's backless, with a halter strap gathered neckline, and as spectacularly lacy as it sounds. From a Chicago shop featuring all the exciting new ideas for resort and vacation activities and spectator sportswear.

SOME PRICES GO UP, SOME DOWN AT FOOD STORES

Flour and Strawberries Cheaper This Week.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Merchants found their scales balanced fairly well yesterday when they completed their work of marking their price tags for week-end shoppers. Only a few foods were marked up in price and about an equal number were marked down, while most of the other items will be offered today and tomorrow at last week's price level.

Butter, apples, green peas, cucumbers, large oranges and dry onions are among the relatively small number of foods that are higher than they were a week ago. These higher priced foods are offset by the lower prices asked for flour, green cabbage, strawberries, and grapefruit.

Grapes Here from Belgium.

Products that are more or less new on the market this week include fresh reddish-black hothouse grapes from Belgium, fresh hothouse asparagus from Ohio, fresh Florida strawberries selling at less than half last week's prices, and Spanish onions from Colorado, now sold throughout the city and suburbs. The first three of these are in the luxury class.

In the butcher shops housewives are becoming more careful in their shopping habits. Many are asking the meat salesman to weigh up several cuts, so they can make the most economic purchases. This practice of thrift may increase because higher retail meat prices apparently are on the way. Wholesale meat prices have advanced rapidly during the last few days.

Poultry Likely to Go Up.

There already are indications that retail prices of meat, especially pork, high quality beef and poultry, are on the upgrade, but today and tomorrow shoppers will find no market retail changes in most cuts of meat. Poultry may be expected to go higher in retail shops soon. This week poultry advanced as much as 5 cents a pound in the wholesale market in two days. Pork also is higher in the wholesale market.

A survey of the shops yesterday indicated that shoulder of veal and chuck roasts of beef are the most economical cuts to be bought during the next two days.

Fishermen of the Great Lakes have been handicapped by the rough, cold weather and ice recently, but in most shops in the city and surrounding suburbs the prices of fish, excepting trout, are about the same as last week.

"Soup greens,' 'old winter standbys, are being featured in some stores this week. This mixture of vegetables—turnips, carrots, celery, onions and parsley—are displayed in transparent wrappers. They are sold in one pound lots at reasonable prices.

Tax Affects Dairy Bills.

Those who pay their weekly or monthly dairy bills this week will find that the state sales tax of 2 per cent has increased the retail price of dairy products. For example, milk costs one-fifth of a cent a quart over the regular price of 10 cents a quart. More people likely will pay cash for milk as it is delivered from day to day to avoid paying the extra 2 per cent, thus forcing the distributor to absorb the sales tax.

Each milk distributor is working out his own method of collecting the sales tax. A survey yesterday indicated that they would absorb the tax on sales below 18 cents, but would start collecting the tax from the consumer on sales of 18 cents or more.

SANTA ARRIVES LATE WITH PACK OF GOOD NEWS

HERRING NECK, Newfoundland, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Santa Claus came late to this little fishing community, but when he came his pack was full of good news for very nearly every Herring Neck inhabitant.

The spirit of Christmas was impersonated by a mail courier, who battled through snow drifts to make his deliveries. He brought in his packs checks for 35 Herring Neckers signifying that they were sharers in the estate of their remote and probably in most cases forgotten relative, John Esau Miles, who died in New Zealand last summer.

The estate was appraised at $450,000. The checks received so far are only the first instalment of the eventual settlement. John Esau Miles, so the historically minded folks here say, was one of the Newfoundlanders who emigrated to the antipodes when economic conditions were unsettled on the American continent after the civil war in the United States.

He prospered in business in New Zealand, but never married. Now almost the whole population of Herring Neck is reaping the fruits of his prosperity and his bachelorhood.

LAMB AND VEAL ROAST GOOD BUY FOR WEEK-END

The committee on marketing information of the Meat Council of Chicago yesterday issued the following report for the guidance of housewives purchasing meat in Chicago retail meat stores:

Here's that new complete food with nine seed ingredients, Vegetable, Egg Flakes and Cuttle Bone. Triple air washed. Laboratory tested. Brings wonderful health and gorgeous plumage, thrilling song. Every particle a necessity—no waste—goes twice as far—costs less per month. Entirely different. Try it.

BUFFET SUPPERS EASY TO SERVE, ENJOYABLE, TOO

Booklet Tells Ways to Success.

The much-in-vogue buffet suppers are in principle the same. Yet there are three styles of service from which the hostess may choose. One lends itself better to the small group, while the semi-formal and formal buffets are grand for larger numbers. A complete explanation of the three types of buffet service, ideas for the Dutch supper, with menus and recipes for both, are in Mary Meade's booklet, "Buffet Suppers and Dutch Lunches."

THE SYNTHETIC DRUMSTICK IS EASY TO MAKE

BY MARY MEADE.

Parades—We love them! And always afterward it's the drums and the drumsticks we best remember. Likewise when the tumult and the shouting dies, and the last of the company turkey has disappeared, it always seems to be the drumsticks we recall with the most sentiment. But the great problem which presents itself to a nation's carvers is that no matter how many folks are present, there are never more than two drumsticks per bird. Which makes it all difficult.

Our solution, since obviously it will be difficult to breed a fowl with enough legs to go around, is to resort in this one instance to subterfuge—and manufacture our own drumsticks. They may be created from the meat morsels left from yesterday's chicken or turkey. Or we can grow even more pleasingly fantastic and conjure up our drumsticks from vegetables, from other leftover chopped cooked meats or from raw veal pieces left whole. After we have shaped the chicken legs convincingly, a stick of raw macaroni or spaghetti poked into the end of each will positively cinch the argument. They are drumsticks!

Turkey or chicken drumsticks are good starters. To balance the meat taste and supply practically a whole meal-in a dish, we'll add a few vegetables. The recipe—

TURKEY OR CHICKEN DRUMSTICKS.

- 1½ cups fine cracker crums, sifted
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1 cup milk
- 2 cups chopped cooked poultry meat
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 2 cups cooked vegetables, chopped [carrots, string beans, peas]
- 2 eggs

Blend a half cup of the fine crums with the butter in a frying pan over a low heat. Add the milk and stir until smooth. Let this thicken for three minutes, then add the combined poultry meat, seasonings, and cooked chopped vegetables. Stir in one of the eggs which has been beaten well. Chill the mixture in a shallow pan in the refrigerator, then form it into fat drumsticks, shaping them like large pears. Roll them gently in the rest of the cracker crums and dip them in the second egg which has been slightly beaten. Roll again in the crums and fry in deep hot fat [380 degrees F.] until golden brown. Drain on unglazed paper. Insert a short piece of raw macaroni in the end of each for the bone end. Serve hot.

The veal drumsticks are something quite other, and obligingly do away with the need of having a fowl skeleton in the closet.

STUFFED VEAL DRUMSTICKS.

- 2 pounds veal, cut ⅓ inch thick
- 2½ dozen crushed soda crackers
- ⅓ teaspoon poultry seasoning
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- 2 tablespoons minced onion
- 2 tablespoons melted butter
- ¾ cup milk
- 1 egg well beaten or ⅓ cup evaporated milk

Cut the veal into six triangular slices about 6 by 4 inches. Sew up the two sides of each to make a pocket. Combine one cup of the cracker crums with the seasonings, onion, butter, and milk. Stuff this dressing into the meat pockets, then sew or skewer each into the shape of a drumstick. Roll the "legs" in the evaporated milk or egg, then in the remaining crums which have been finely rolled. Brown the drumsticks in hot fat in a frying pan. Add one cup of hot water, cover, and cook for half an hour or until tender.

ENGLAND DOOMS BOILED POTATO; URGES VARIETY

Expects New Styles to Benefit Farmer.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 3.—The boiled potato, without which no English meal would be truly English, is going to be dethroned.

If the marketing board has its way [and it is doing its best to get it], the boiled potato must step down in favor of potatoes in more exotic forms. Nothing has been found wrong with the boiled potato as such, but its daily presence on the menu of homes, hotels, restaurants, and tea shops apparently discourages people from doing their duty by the English farmers by eating more potatoes.

So the potato marketing board will send out to English housewives and chefs 1,000,000 books telling them how to cook potatoes in the most attractive styles. Foreign recipes have been copied, so, if the public responds as the board hopes it will, the English will turn with avid teeth to potato soufflés, thin slices puffed thrice their size, saute in butter, lyonnaise [that is, hashed with onions], and French fried, or to potatoes cooked with cheese in soufflés or creamed, or creamed with cheese. Roast, baked, and mashed won't be overlooked.

The board's expert is now in the Durham mining area suggesting to unemployed and to employed alike how to eat more potatoes and how to cook them. The first miner interviewed said that when he and his sons were working in the pits the family ate about fourteen pounds a week, but since they have been unemployed potatoes have become a luxury and the family buys a shilling's worth Sundays for a feast.

A shilling's worth of potatoes is seven pounds, which makes a pound of potatoes cost about 3½ cents.

Even hotels, according to the board, often don't know how to treat the potato with the cooking it merits. "Members of the board," said Capt. J. Mollett, chairman, "visit various hotels and if they find the potatoes are poor suggest improvements."

With a slogan of "More Potatoes, Please," the board is going ahead and that slogan will be hung soon in 25,000 retail stores.

SOME HINTS ON SAVINGS WITH ELECTRIC RANGE

As the use of electricity for cooking purposes becomes more common, housewives are confronted with the problem of discovering the most economical ways of using the electric range in preparing family meals.

Professional researchers are helping them to find the solution to the problem. Findings to date are summed up by Miss Thelma Beall, extension specialist in home management for the Ohio State university.

It has been shown, she says, that the use of low wattage to maintain boiling permits a saving of 45 per cent in electric consumption.

In heating water in a covered pan, select a pan with a bottom larger than the surface of the heating unit.

In baking, tall sides on the pan retard browning and hasten accumulation of a bill, but when tall sided pans are used on the surface cooking unit, kilowatt hour consumption is not greatly increased.

Because dark baking sheets absorb radiant heat and shiny baking sheets reflect it, less current is required for baking with the former.

Battered pans don't work so well on the electric range. The heating units are most efficient when in close contact with pan or skillet, so that for most economical use the bottom of a utensil must be flat.

COLORS IN FOODS LEND REAL ZEST TO DAILY MEALS

Hues Furnish Guide to Mighty Vitamins.

The monotony of preparing more than a thousand meals a year for her family can be broken by the homemaker if she will add zest to the menus through the colors of fruits and vegetables, Miss Harriet T. Barto, professor of dietetics at the University of Illinois, believes. Furthermore, these colors are a safe, practical guide to the vitamin A value of these foods.

The golden shades in pumpkins, carrots, sweet potatoes, rutabagas and squashes; the red of tomatoes and peppers, and the varying tones of green in parsley, new cabbage and broccoli are an indication of the vitamin A value of these vegetables.

Green leaves and stems, yellow roots and yellow fleshed fruits contain a pigment called carotene which the human body makes into vitamin A. This is the same vitamin for which cream, butter, egg yolk and cod liver and halibut liver oils are so highly valued.

In carrots, pumpkins, sweet potatoes and the yellow varieties of squash and turnips the carotene color is readily seen. In asparagus, spinach, green cabbage, lettuce and other leafy vegetables it is obscured by the green coloring. In red peppers and tomatoes it does not show because of the red. Whether the vegetables and fruits are cooked, canned or raw, however, the vitamin A is there.

BAKED ONIONS IN TOMATO SAUCE

DIRECTIONS—Crush a quart can of tomatoes and cook with 4 tablespoonsful of sugar, 1 teaspoonful of salt, 2 tablespoonsful of flour, and ¼ teaspoonful of pepper for fifteen minutes, then add 2 tablespoonsful of butter. Cut 6 or 8 onions in halves and put them in a baking dish. Cover with cooked macaroni, 2 slices of bacon cut in small pieces. Pour the tomato sauce over the top, sprinkle with cracker crums, and bake about 1 hour in a moderate oven. Canned tomato soup may be used in place of tomatoes.

FARM MORE LAND AND U. S. WILL EAT BETTER, IS N. Y. EXPERT'S PLEA

Ithaca, N. Y., Jan. 3.—To eat well, more land must be farmed; to eat poorly, land must be taken out of production, says Prof. Bristow Adams, editor of publications at the New York state college of agriculture.

He points out that four balanced diets, at different levels of quality and cost, have been evolved. The lowest one might be called the "restricted or emergency diet," or the least that the country can afford. This offers, he says, less than what is needed to maintain both a healthy and a long life.

The next two diets in the four levels or grades mean an adequate diet at a moderate cost, Prof. Adams states. These diets use less cereal products and more milk, vegetables, and meat.

He says the fourth, or highest of these diets calls for still less use of cereals and an increase and liberal use of meat, eggs, milk, vegetables, and fruit.

RED STEFAN

By PATRICIA WENTWORTH.

SYNOPSIS.

Stephen Enderby, an Englishman, had lived as a boy on the large Russian estate of his stepfather and grew up with a peasant couple and their large brood of children, until his mother got him an English tutor. When his mother died he went to live with his guardian in England. After the revolution in Russia, as Stefan Ivanovitch, he became a "secret observer" for England, adopting various peasant rôles to hide his identity. Now Stephen has inherited the fortune of his guardian and is anxious to quit his hazardous work. He is escaping out of Tronsk when he meets and rescues Elizabeth Radin. She is the widow of an executed engineer. Though English, her husband was half Russian. She is flying from the advances of Commissar Petroff, who is also anxious to obtain from her a secret formula of her husband's. Stephen takes her with him and tells her his history. They stop at the home of the grandparents of the peasant children, who believe Stephen to be one of their many grandchildren. Stephen tells them Elizabeth is his wife and her name is Varvara. Akulina dislikes the frail woman, as she docs Irina, a beautiful communist friend of Stephen's. Irina wanted Stephen herself and resents Elizabeth. Stephen knows she might prove dangerous. He plans to get away with Elizabeth the next time Yuri goes to market.

INSTALMENT XVII.

DANGER SIGNALS.

As Elizabeth ran out, Stephen began to pile up the straw which she had pulled down. As he worked, he sang in his big rolling voice:

"Let the red cock crow on the kulak's roof!
Pull down the beams of the kulak's house!
Let the red cock crow!
Let the red fire glow!
Pull down the beams of the kulak's house!"

"What is that song?" said Irina.

He looked over his shoulder and saw that she was pale.

"I made it. Don't you think it goes well? I knew you'd like it."

Irina stamped her foot.

"I hate it!"

He came over to her and took her by the shoulders.

"Was it you who reported Nikita for hiding grain?"

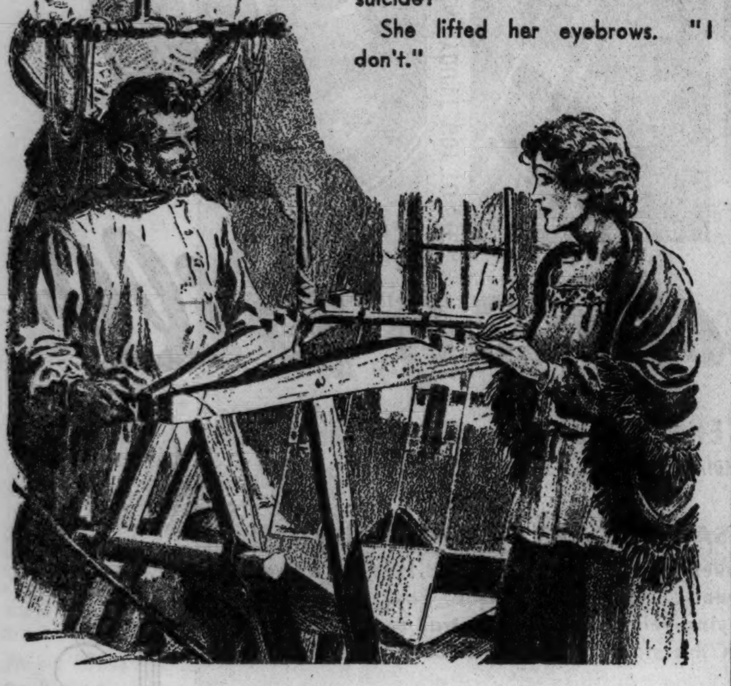
"No!" said Irina violently. She wrenched away from him and went back a step or two. "Why should you say such a thing? Why should you think I would do such a thing?"

Stephen looked mildly surprised.

"Why should you be angry with me? Wouldn't it have been your duty to report him if you knew that he was hiding grain?" He whistled the air of the song he had just sung—"Pull down the beams of the kulak's house."

"Why do you want to commit suicide?"

She lifted her eyebrows. "I don't."



"Be silent!" said Irina passionately.

Stephen stopped whistling.

"You are not a good communist if you are sorry for kulaks and grain hoarders," he said contemptuously. "I suppose it was Nikita's wife Anna who frightened you by saying it would be your turn to be unhappy one day."

"She did not frighten me!" said Irina with heaving breast.

Stephen pressed his advantage.

"I should never have thought that you would have been superstitious, Irina. To be afraid of a poor silly, demented woman's curse!"

Irina was frightfully pale.

"She did not curse me!"

"Well, it sounded very like it to me. Isn't it cursing to wish anyone unhappy?" He shrugged his shoulders. "There are curses I'd prefer to that myself."

"I tell you she did not curse me!"

"All right," said Stephen cheerfully—"you didn't report Nikita, and Anna didn't curse you, and you're not superstitious, because none of us have got any superstitions left. It's a wonderful world—isn't it?"

He turned back to the straw and sang again:

"The red cock crows on the Kulak's roof."

Irina rushed out of the barn.

Stephen came back into the house and found Elizabeth alone there. She was looking pale and troubled.

"That's all right," he said. "But we must get away. She's a heap too interested in you."

Elizabeth had turned away. She said without looking round,

"What happened? What did you say?"

Stephen laughed a little grimly.

"I pulled off a good rousing counter attack. I asked her if it was she who reported Nikita for grain hoarding. Akulina was talking about it last night."

"Was it Irina?" Elizabeth's tone was low and horrified.

"I don't know. I expect so. She'd look upon it as a duty—you've got to remember that—a painful duty."

Still without looking round, Elizabeth said,

"She wouldn't find it a painful duty to report me."

"I don't know," said Stephen. "I don't believe she'd know herself. Most of the time she's a set of copybook maxims for young communists, very handsomely bound, but every now and then a streak of something real crops up, and then I'm sorry for her because she doesn't know what to do with it."

Elizabeth went over to the old fashioned loom and stood there fingering it.

"It would be better to tell her that we are not married."

"Why?"

"It would be better."

He came and leaned against the wall beyond the loom so that he could see her face.

"Why do you want to commit suicide?"

She lifted her eyebrows.

"I don't."

"Telling Irina we're not married would be suicide—for both of us. And a nasty, painful, lingering suicide too—weeks in a buggy bolshevist prison, a lot of beastly interrogations."

Elizabeth looked up, met his eyes, and quickly looked away. She frowned a little and said,

"When we were talking on the bridge, you said—I should be—rather an asset." She hesitated curiously over the words. "You said anyone who was looking for you wouldn't expect you to have—a woman with you. I've wanted to ask you about it. What did you mean? Are people looking for you?"

"They're not looking for Red Stefan," he said with a laugh. "I didn't mean that. We'd be badly up against it if they were."

"What did you mean?"

"I told you I was in Tronsk to meet a man who was taking over my job. When he didn't come, I was pretty sure he'd been done in. Well, they might have known he was going to meet some one, and that would mean they'd be keeping their eyes skinned for any one who was hanging around in Tronsk without a good excuse. They might have come to wonder why Red Stefan was kicking his heels there. But if he was there to pick up a wife, that let him out. That's what I meant."

"I see," said Elizabeth. She smiled suddenly and sweetly. "I don't know if that's true, but I should like to think it was."

"O, it's quite true," said Stephen. Then, with one of his abrupt turns, "I didn't tell you that I knew Petroff, did I?"

She was really startled.

"No—you didn't."

He looked pleased.

"I know him quite well. We're almost bosom companions. You see, I saved his life."

"Why did you?"

"I didn't know what a nuisance he was going to be. It was in the early days at Magnitogorsk. The whole place had run out of vodka—and you know what Petroff is when he can't get vodka. I had two bottles, and he swore they saved his life."

"I didn't know you'd been in Magnitogorsk."

"O, I've been in lots of places," said Stephen cheerfully.

It came on to snow that evening and snowed all night. An hour before the snow began Irina left the village for the nearest collective farm, which was about ten versts away. The schoolmaster drove her over, and his wife was quite certain that he would be snowed up at the farm with Irina and unable to return. All the women agreed with her that this was what Irina had intended. Akulina did not scruple to assert that she had caused the snow to fall—how, or by what arts, it was not for a God-fearing woman to say.

Doctor Pleads for Sensible Reducing Diet

Says Too Many Carry It to Extremes.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

"The way to get thin is not to get fat."

This classic line was fathered recently by Dr. J. Clarence Funk, noted public health educator.

"The way to get thin is first not to get fat," the doctor elaborates, and, second, if overweight, see your physician and be guided by his directions.

Personally, we don't feel the physician needs to be called in or upon when one knows her waist and hipline spread is due to overeating. We do not have to have a doctor tell us we've been overeating—not so long as we have seams and belts that have to be let out. But Dr. Funk's respected advice applies to those who aren't conscious of overconsumption of food and still put on weight.

Mostly, however, Dr. Funk pleads for moderation in reducing techniques. He says hundreds of women have killed themselves during the last decade by senseless and excessive dietary and reduction practices. The worst damage, we judge, was done during the flapper, flat-chested era. Arduous drugging and misguided food practices caused premature funerals and prolonged illnesses.

The urge to be thin at any cost, in Dr. Funk's experience, isn't dead. There are still innumerable women, he holds, who have developed the thin complex almost to a psychopathic point, if not altogether so. He tells of one young woman, sadly in need of more flesh, who keeps the spectre of an obese mother before her and consistently deprives herself of potatoes, sugar, and starches in general.

Men are up front now in the vanguard of waistline watchers. They have become highly waistline conscious, as Dr. Funk puts it. And, hence, starvation diets, reducing drugs, and so-called freak diets are making new friends among the males. Naturally, the result does not meet with the favor of a reputable physician. Normal weight, he admonishes, is not a sickly thinness. For many it may mean a flesh covering above the average.

She Sleeps in Kennel to Keep 19 Dogs from Disturbing Neighbors

White Plains, N. Y., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Mrs. Wilbur K. Hitchcock, head of a national association of English sheep dog fanciers, loves her dogs so much that she has slept in the kennel with them for the last six months to keep them from disturbing the neighbors, she testified today in Supreme court.

The litigation over the Hitchcock dogs entered court again when Mr. and Mrs. George B. Murphy, neighbors in Pleasantville, asked that Mrs. Hitchcock and her husband be held in contempt for disobeying a court order.

The order, issued last year, required the Hitchcocks to keep their dogs from disturbing the peace. At that time there were 41 dogs in the kennel. Now, according to Mrs. Hitchcock, there are only 19.

Irishman Sails for U. S. to Help Supervise Movies

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Jan. 3.—An Irishman has been appointed as an expert to supervise American movies to meet the objections of the Legion of Decency to films. He is Lennox Robinson, manager of the Abbey theater, who sailed today on the liner Majestic. Robinson said he may remain in New York six months. He is 48 years old. He has written several plays including "The Lost Leader" and "The Whiteheaded Boy," which have been produced in the United States.

STOMACH UPSET

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain. All druggists. 15c, 30c and 60c.

Contrariness Not Inherent Trait of Child

It Develops Only When He's Mismanaged.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Can you, without an extra heartbeat, walk under a ladder, put up an umbrella in the house, be the thirteenth at a dinner party, or spill the salt without throwing a few grains over your shoulder as you utter an incantation? Many intelligent people cannot. Superstition still has them in its grip.

I almost wonder sometimes if it isn't something like superstition which makes otherwise intelligent people believe that left-handedness is an affliction, or that it goes with a mental lack. It is time this misconception was thrown permanently into the discard to be replaced by enlightened ideas on the subject.

I am writing on this matter today because the subject of handedness keeps coming up in our correspondence, and because it is so important to the well-being of those children who show a definite tendency to use the left hand where people in general use the right.

Parents and teachers should be informed on this subject. Principals of schools would do well to devote at least one faculty meeting each year to this matter, so that any new teachers will understand how to deal with the left-handed child.

Left-handedness bears no relation to mental capacity. Let alone in his left-handedness and given equal opportunity for manual activity, the left-handed child's achievement equals that of the right-handed one. It is only when the handedness is changed or when the child is made to feel that he is queer or afflicted that troubles begin.

It is essential to the happiness and well-being of a child that he be allowed to use whichever hand it is natural for him to use.

[Copyright: 1935: By Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

We have gone into this matter of handedness rather fully in our leaflet, "The Left-Handed Child in a Right-Handed World." If you wish to have it sent to you, please enclose with your request a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

13 U. of C. Fraternities Try Co-operative Buying

Thirteen of the 25 fraternities at the University of Chicago have joined in a six months' experimental coöperative buying movement, it was announced yesterday. All of their maintenance expenditures are to be handled by Conrad Lund, graduate student of the business school. The new plan is calculated to save about 10 per cent through the advantages of quantity buying. Nine other fraternities have rejected the plan and three have withheld decisions.

Jane Withers Perils Crown of Shirley Temple

She Nearly Stole the Show, Studio Contends.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—They told me at Fox studio: "If the director and the cutter had allowed Jane Withers ten more feet in the film 'Bright Eyes,' in which she plays with Shirley Temple, Jane would have stolen the picture from Shirley."

Jane Withers, 8 years old, is a newcomer who merits remembering by film fans. Her studio expects a quick rise to popularity for this little girl from Atlanta, Ga.

After three days on the sets in United Artists studio here, where the exterior of Tex Rickard's Skagway saloon has been reproduced under the sound stage roof, the company making "Call of the Wild" left today in a special train of eleven cars for the blizzardy outdoors near Mount Baker, in Washington. Four weeks of shooting in severe winter conditions is scheduled there by the cast headed by Clark Gable, Jack Oakie, Loretta Young, and Katherine De Mille.

Anna Sten requested Producer Sam Goldwyn to leave her love scenes with Gary Cooper in "The Wedding Night" until the last in the shooting because she had never met Gary prior to the picture and couldn't put any feeling into tender emotional kisses with an unfamiliar man. Three hundred people miraculously packed their way into the three front rooms of Magician Fred Keating's Hollywood knoll home for a New Year's cocktail party, and how Keating got that many guests in, fed, refreshed and out again was a better demonstration of his magic than pulling any number of rabbits out of a hat.

The Herbert Mundins couldn't stay estranged when the holidays began. They've been seen together at the race track and have attended holiday cocktail parties of their friends together. . . . The chef of the United States cruiser Indianapolis sent Janet Gaynor a 50 pound fruit cake for a holiday gift. . . . Edna May Oliver so mistrusts riding in airplanes that she was persuaded to enter the mainland to Catalina Island seaplane for "Murder on a Honeymoon" only after Director Lloyd Corrigan had promised her it wouldn't take to the air. When the propellers started she thought she had been double-crossed and the tall comedienne took her trusty umbrella, always her companion in these mystery comedy dramas, and actually broke a window in the cabin of the plane trying to squirm out. After she got out she saw the ropes that held the ship fast.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Coat and Bedding Lacking.

"Dear Miss Brown: My husband broke his heel and ankle and has been on crutches since last June. The cast was recently removed at a charity hospital. He is now able to get around a little but is shabby, and we would appreciate some clothing for him. He wears size 47-48, shirts 15, and shoes size 8.

We are also destitute of bed covering. Sheets simply fell apart from long usage and we have only one thin cotton blanket. I will be glad to have any bedding offered, and be happy to mend it. We are old people, 64 and 56, and hope some one will respond to our requests. MRS. G."

Appearance Prejudices Employers.

"Dear Miss Brown: I know my ragged appearance is my only handicap in getting work and wonder if you will help me secure a suit, size 39, overcoat size 40, and a pair of shoes size 9 B. H. F."

Wildcat Girl Says She Has Sweet Nature

BY DORIS BLAKE.

He called her a wildcat. So she ups and slaps his face, arguing meanwhile that she's no wildcat. Far from it. Everybody says she has a wonderful disposition.

He called her a wildcat because she jerked his tie askew, commenting unfavorably on its color. She confesses to rumpling his hair in the mêlée. But she claims a wonderful disposition just the same!

O, woman of unreasonable mien! What can men make out of the likes of you! Of course, you're a wildcat, or a good imitation of one, from your own report. Your disposition may be sweet, but it is subject to being mislaid, we sadly fear.

You WOULD, of course, be writing to find out how you can get the young man back again. Want to slap his face again, or just prove that you can get him back? He probably is telling people to shy clear of your ménage, that you're dangerous, have claws, you scratch and bite. That you are a wildcat. And life has troubles enough these days without annexing any more of them.

Why should a young woman attack a man's taste in ties, anyway? Or, go about the criticism in such a crude way? If you don't like the ties you could slip a nice one for a birthday or Christmas gift, if you wish—but you can't out of a clear sky lead an assault on another's dress taste. You know how you would feel were he to dislike the way you wear your hair, for instance, or the form fit of your frock. You wouldn't like it; you'd be angry. It's the usual way with the self-made critic of others.

In any event, young lady, it's not the prescribed form for winning hearts. Any show of pugilistic tendencies sets you down as a terror. Besides, to the tired business man, young or old, who comes calling it's too hectic a form of entertainment to be courted a second time.

Better call up the boy and tell him you acted like just what he called you, but if he will forgive you you'll try your best to tame the beast.

Moscow Art Theater Will Play in City

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The plans of S. Hurok, impresario of the Monte Carlo Ballet Russe, are now focussed on the importation of a company of Russian actors who have been identified with the Moscow Art theater. This organization, headed by Michael Chekhov, nephew of the Russian dramatist, is on tour among the capital cities of western Europe.

The players will arrive in New York early in February, and will begin their American tour there. The Chicago engagement will open in April, and will probably take place at the Grand Opera house. The company's répertory will contain several dramas representing the Russian classics, and also two plays of the soviet period, although not of the propaganda type. "The Inspector General," a comedy of the old régime which is fairly familiar to Americans through translation and occasional staging in this country, will be prominent in the list.

"Say When," a Broadway revue in which Harry Richman returned to the stage after years as a night club entertainer, is among the prospects for the Chicago stage early in the spring. The New York run will end on Jan. 12, and the company will cease its activities for a time to permit Richman to recuperate from an illness.

"Ah, Wilderness," with George M. Cohan as its star, will move from the Erlanger theater to the Grand Opera house next Monday night, to remain in Chicago for two more weeks.

"Within the Gates," a drama by Sean O'Casey, author of "Juno and the Paycock," "The Plough and the Stars" and "The Shadow of a Gunman" [famous items in the répertory of the Abbey Theater company of Dublin] will end its New York run on Jan. 12, and will then go on an extensive tour. Chicago will be included in the company's itinerary. The leading members of the cast are Lillian Gish, Bramwell Fletcher, Moffat Johnston and Mary Morris.

The Goodman theater will stage "The Sleeping Beauty" for children's matinées on Saturdays for the next four weeks. The first performance will be given tomorrow afternoon.

Bridal Dinner Tonight for Miss Mary Reid.

Tonight at the Racquet club the Bryan S. Reids will give the bridal dinner for their daughter, Mary Elizabeth, and Ralph Chatillon, who will be married tomorrow afternoon at St. Chrysostom's church. Preceding the dinner Miss Ellen Wacker and Miss Priscilla Morse, two of the bridesmaids, will give a cocktail party at the Ambassador East.

Tomorrow the Madlener twins, Otto and William, will entertain the bridal party at luncheon at the Saddle and Cycle club. Last night Miss Frances Jeffery, another bridesmaid, was a dinner hostess, following a cocktail party given by Mrs. William L. Hodgkins. Mr. Chatillon and his bride will be at home after the first of February in the Marshall Field Garden apartments. His mother, Mrs. Ralph F. Chatillon, and his sisters, Mrs. William D. Dunning and Miss Jane Chatillon, and Mr. Dunning are here from Syracuse, N. Y., for the wedding.

Twelfth Night Ball on South Side.

The Christmas greens are to be burned tonight at the Twelfth Night party the University Colony club is to have for all of its members and friends at Ida Noyes hall on the University of Chicago campus. There will be an elaborate ceremony presided over by Mrs. Charles Gilkey, president of the club, and then the Madrigal singers of the university will sing a group of songs appropriate to Twelfth Night.

To judge by the responses to the invitations there are to be several hundred guests at the party, including among others Mrs. Ernst Freund, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Peete Cross, the George Hortons, the Arthur Tobins, the Chauncey Bouchers, the Frederic Woodwards, the William Nitzes, and the Leonard Reids. A number of mothers and fathers who are club members will bring their young sons and daughters for the circus that is to be held in the Ida Noyes gymnasium before 9 o'clock.

There is to be a reception after this, then the burning of the greens, and after this dancing and bridge.

Bryn Mawr Alumnae to Fete College President.

The impending arrival of Miss Marion Park, president of Bryn Mawr college, a week from today to visit Mrs. William G. Hibbard is a sign for feverish activity within the Bryn Mawr Alumnæ association here. Mrs. William Hale and an alumnæ committee have issued invitations to the alumnæ, prominent students, and their friends to a dinner at 7:30 o'clock at the Casino the night of Miss Park's arrival.

Mrs. Cecil Barnes will be toastmaster at the dinner, and the other speaker, in addition to Miss Park, will be Lloyd Garrison, dean of the University of Chicago. There will be several cocktail parties Friday afternoon, the 11th, with interested Bryn Mawrites taking their guests on to the dinner.

Miss Nora Ryerson, who will be leaving next Tuesday to return to Vassar, and Edward L. Ryerson III., who goes to the Hill school, were with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson Jr., at last night's symphony concert in Orchestra hall. Dr. and Mrs. Philip Miller occupied the other two chairs in the Ryerson box.

The Albert A. Spragues' two sons, Albert Jr. and Otho, were with their mother and father at the concert, also. Prince and Princess Rostislav completed this box party.

Mrs. Francis T. A. Junkin had given her box last night to Capt. and Mrs. H. Winston Holt, attractive newcomers to Chicago, who had as their guests Col. and Mrs. Thomas A. Clark and Mr. and Mrs. John B. Bellinger.

Cornelius Cranes Going to Tahiti.

Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Crane will be leaving Chicago before long, for they plan to sail from San Francisco on the 16th of this month to join the former Florence Crane and her husband, William A. Robinson, in Tahiti. Mrs. Robinson's mother, Mrs. Richard T. Crane Jr., has had one letter from her daughter since the Robinsons arrived at the South sea island and it was full of enthusiasm about the beauties of the place and of the trip.

Mrs. Crane and the Robinsons did not exchange Christmas nor New Year cable greetings, for cabling to or from Tahiti is a roundabout method of communication, and they agreed before the Robinsons left to let the monthly mail boat carry all their messages except in the case of an emergency.

It is the new year wish of all their friends that there will be no need for cabling, of course, for the intrepid young Robinsons had their share of bad luck last year when they were in the Galapagos Islands and he was stricken with appendicitis and had to be rushed to Panama for an operation. Mrs. Crane flew down at that time and when her son-in-law was well enough she took him and her daughter to her summer place at Ipswich on Massachusetts' north shore to spend the summer.

The Crane residence, Castle Hill, at Ipswich, is one of the most beautiful in America. It is on high land with extensive views of the countryside, the sea and the sand dunes, and the house itself, designed by David Adler after the Stuart tradition, is very handsome.

The Jan. 1 issue of Town and Country has an interesting article and about a dozen pictures of the house and grounds, giving one a clear idea of the great beauties of the place and of the furnishings.

Robert E. Woods Going to Panama.

Gen. and Mrs. Robert E. Wood and their daughter, Miss Mary Wood, are leaving their Highland Park home today. They are boarding the train for New York where they will embark Saturday on the S. S. Santa Elena for Panama where Gen. and Mrs. Wood made their first home and brought up four of their children.

That was when Gen. Wood was chief quartermaster engaged in the construction of the Panama canal. In recognition of this work, he treasures a Panama Canal medal awarded him by the government.

After several weeks renewing friendships in Panama, Gen. Wood is flying back to Chicago and Mrs. Wood and Miss Wood are continuing by boat to California where they will visit the James Addingtons [the former Sarah Wood] at their home in San Pedro.

On her way back to Chicago Miss Wood will stop in Castle Hot Springs to visit Miss Gwendolyn Bowen. Miss Bowen is leaving with her parents, the Joseph T. Bowens, this month for their Arizona ranch.

Angus Hibbards Will Visit Arizona Ranch.

Any one who enjoys real western life may envy the Angus Hibbards, who are leaving Feb. 8 for two months in their beloved Arizona. They have a delightful little adobe house at Rancho Linda Vista, which is forty miles outside of Tucson and they've been going there every winter for the last fourteen years.

For rest and relaxation there is nothing to equal it, according to Mrs. Hibbard, who describes the house as overlooking the corral where the horses are rounded up. Mr. Hibbard has his own horse, so both he and Mrs. Hibbard spend most of their time in riding togs. The ranch is run by an easterner who married a Spanish girl, which provides it with a cosmopolitan background. The Hibbards recently celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary.

The Howard W. Fentons arrived at home yesterday from a holiday trip which included stops at Del Monte, Cal., and Phoenix, Ariz.

Mrs. Seymour Wheeler is sailing tomorrow from Los Angeles for Honolulu, where she will be joined later in the winter by her daughter, Miss Eleanor Wheeler.

The Francis Neilsons and the Charles P. Randalls are among the Chicagoans enjoying the warm Arizona sun at Phoenix this winter.

Former Winnetka Girl Is Married.

An announcement of interest on the north shore because the young lady used to live in Winnetka is one that Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Lum of 158 Hancock street, Brooklyn, N. Y., are making. It is that of the marriage of their daughter, Dorothy, to Walter B. Cameron, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Don Cameron of New York, on July 6.

In the late afternoon today the Cordon is to have reception in recognition of the opening of an exhibition of paintings by Sara Crosby Buck. Blythe Owen is to play a group of piano selections. Mrs. Elsa Durand Mower will receive.

Paris Copies Suits of the Regency Beaux for Southern Resort Wear

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

NEW YORK.—[Special.]—Suits that are getting ready to go south right after the holidays are wearing a rakish air. They are, in short, taking a tip or two from the regency rakes that strut across the stage in "Conversation Piece." This means that the masculine styles of 1811 and thereabouts are being chained to women's suit styles, as is shown in the model herewith.

This suit, which will be out in public soon now, is made of deep green velveteen, with a jacket which is similar to the waistcoats worn in the romantic days of the regency. It has wide revers, embroidered with three little minus signs to a rever, and its big cuffs button on with silver buttons and are further decorated with cuffs of white fine linen starched to crispness. The white linen blouse that goes with this suit has a starched ruffle collar that descends to fill in the front of the jacket. The latter is fastened by four silver buttons arranged like double cuff links.

The skirt of this model has a panel in back and one laid under the sides, down the front. This front panel is about an inch shorter than the rest of the skirt. Don't ask me why.

White House Opens Official Social Season

Roosevelts Give Reception for Diplomats.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—President and Mrs. Roosevelt gave the first one of the official evening receptions tonight in the White House in honor of the diplomatic corps.

Many new members of the diplomatic corps made their first appearance tonight. Sir Ronald Lindsay of England was the first to be received by President and Mrs. Roosevelt. He headed his own staf and the diplomatic corps. The members of his staf were accompanied by their wives, but the first ambassadorial hostess to be received was Señora de Espil, the former Courtney Letts of Chicago. She was very beautiful in a gown of silver lamé made severely plain with a short train. She wore no ornaments and her shoes, gloves, and bag were brown.

Mrs. Frank C. Letts of Chicago and Washington, mother of Señora de Espil, who has been here since before Christmas, also was a guest. She wore a gown of black velvet with no trimmings, save rhinestone buckles, but she wore some handsome diamonds and pearls. She is spending the winter in New York at Mayfair house, but will return here in the spring.

The ladies of the cabinet circle were all present except Mrs. Farley, wife of the postmaster general, who did not come down from her home in New York. Mrs. Ickes of Winnetka, wife of the secretary of the interior, wore a handsome gown of blue uncut velvet with silver trimmings, made with a short train.

Refreshments are not served at the state receptions and there were innumerable supper parties afterward. The White House is fresher and brighter than it has been in many years. The red parlor is done over in a lighter shade of red than it formerly had and all portraits have been removed, except those of Grover Cleveland and Theodore Roosevelt, the former occupying the space over the mantel and the latter hanging immediately opposite.

Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Astor and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Edgell, all of New York, arrived this morning and are house guests overnight at the White House.

Lutheran Churches Report Gain of 3,000 Members

Lutheran churches in the Chicago area made net gains of 3,000 adult members and 2,000 pupils in their Sunday schools, according to the annual report of the denomination issued yesterday. Approximately $250,000 was raised for benevolences and missions, not including support of institutions maintained partly by societies within the congregations. The report also stated that the general financial situation is satisfactory among congregations which had built new churches just preliminary to 1929.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

DUTIES OF RESPONDING HAND AFTER A THREE-BID.

I have explained about:

(a) The ace showing on the first round, and on later rounds when the opportunity is offered by the opening bidder through a rebid by him in terms of no trumps.

(b) Answering the call for a king when opening bidder bids a second suit.

(c) The obligation not to pass any bid in terms of no trumps below the level of six, but to pass six no trumps if the opening bidder does make this bid.

I must now explain that the responder must obey his partner more or less blindly. If asked a definite question he must answer that question immediately and not volunteer some different information which he has not yet been able to show. For instance, your first response shows an ace, but your partner now asks for a king, though you still have a second ace to declare. Answer the question about the king first and show your other ace later if you get the chance to do so without taking your partner from six to seven. For instance, with

Sp.—A x x Di.—K x x
Ht.—x x Cl.—A x x x x

you have to respond to an opening bid of three hearts. You say three spades. Now your partner says four diamonds. Your duty is to answer that specific question, and to bid five diamonds. If your partner wants to know about the ace of clubs he will now bid five no trumps, and you can bid six clubs, and he will then bid either six or seven hearts. If you were to bid five clubs in reply to four diamonds you would be denying the king of diamonds and would surely wreck the proper bidding of the hand. Your partner with

Sp.— Di.—A Q J 10
Ht.—A K Q J x x x Cl.—K x

has very good reason to ask his questions in the above order; if you have the king of diamonds the hand is safe at six and he can give you the chance of showing the club ace for seven. If you lack that ace he can get to your hand with the diamond and discard a club on your spade ace, surrendering one club but not two. He can stand a club lead and make six. However, if you lack both the club ace and the king of diamonds he may lose a diamond and two clubs, being unable to get to your hand in order to take a discard on your ace of spades. If he can first locate the king of diamonds he knows he can make six without the club ace; he needs that card only for grand slam. If you must deny it you will have to bid only four hearts, a contract which was safe from the first. If you have the ace of clubs but not the diamond king your bid over four diamonds is five clubs, enabling him to bid six safe hearts.

Opener Must Be Free to Plan His Probes.

However, should he bid the hand in this way—three hearts, three spades, three no trumps, what will happen? If you have the ace of clubs everything will go smoothly, as you will bid four clubs; now he bids four diamonds, probing for the king, and he bids either six or seven hearts according to your answer. Let us suppose, however, that you lack the ace of clubs. Now you must, over three no trumps, bid four hearts. The opening bidder has now got himself in a jam. If you have the king of diamonds he can make six hearts, but if you lack that king he can only be sure of making four hearts. Your spade ace will be useless to him unless he can get to your hand, and this will not be possible unless the opponents arrange it for him. One must not trust them to be so kind. You may have the thing he needs for a sure small slam, but he cannot find out whether you have it or not without throwing the game away in case you do not possess that card.

When Five Is a Hopeless Contract.

When you lack the ace of clubs the hand is good either for four or for six, depending on the king of diamonds, but it cannot be intelligently bid to five and signed off — five is wrong in any case. Therefore, the opener must be allowed to choose the order in which he asks his questions and the responder must defer to him and obey him without fear or question. The opening hand is the master hand, and he is the one to decide how to bid the hand and where to stop.

O'BRIEN CLAIMS HELEN JACOBS WILL TURN PRO

Seeks Perry, Mrs. Whittingstall Also.

New York, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Professional tennis struck another heavy blow at the amateurs tonight when Bill O'Brien, sports promoter, announced he had virtually signed Helen Jacobs, national women's champion; Fred Perry, world's leading singles player, and Mrs. Eileen Bennett Whittingstall, another British star.

Although he made it clear that none yet had signed a contract, O'Brien declared that he had offered Miss Jacobs $20,000, Perry $40,000, and Mrs. Whittingstall $10,000 for a professional tour starting in March and that he was sure all three would accept.

So certain is he they will sign, O'Brien said, that he already has leased Madison Square Garden for March 20, when he hopes all three will make their professional debuts. The tour, as O'Brien plans it, will last through June with Ellsworth Vines as the fourth member.

Says Helen's Serious.

O'Brien made his announcement at a dinner in honor of George Lott and Lester Stoefen, the latest additions to his professional troupe. Lott and Stoefen will open a tour when they play Vines and Bill Tilden next Wednesday night at Madison Square Garden.

Tilden, O'Brien's business associate, addressed the diners with some doubt as to Perry's turning professional.

"It is my personal opinion," said Tilden, "that Perry will not turn professional until next fall at the earliest. "As far as Miss Jacobs and Mrs. Whittingstall are concerned I can truthfully say that they are seriously considering professional offers and it wouldn't surprise me if they accept them."

Miss Jacobs, now 26 years old, has been national champion for three successive years and a powerful factor in American Wightman cup play. Mrs. Whittingstall, a British star for ten years, won the American mixed doubles crown with Henri Cochet in 1927 and the American's women's doubles title with Betty Nuthall in 1931. In the latter year she was ranked No. 3 on the world's women tennis list.

Perry World's Champion.

Perry has been the sensation of men's tennis for the last two years. In addition to helping the British to win the Davis cup from France in 1933 and retain it against America's challenge last year, he found time to win the American singles title in 1933, defeating Jack Crawford of Australia, and retain it in 1934, conquering Wilmer Allison. During the last summer he also defeated Crawford for the all-English singles championship at Wimbledon.

After winning the Pacific southwest and Pacific singles title in the fall of 1934, he began a tour of Australia, and, apparently overplayed, suffered frequent defeats.

MOTHER DOUBTS IT.

Berkeley, Cal. Jan. 3.—(AP)—Doubt that Helen Jacobs would desert amateur ranks was expressed here tonight by Mrs. Eula H. Jacobs, mother of the tennis champion, when informed her daughter had been offered a contract to turn professional.

"I don't imagine she will consider the offer," said Mrs. Jacobs, "and I feel quite sure that she would have cabled me if she had decided to become a professional player. I feel sure that she will remain an amateur."

Miss Jacobs, said her mother, is staying at the American embassy in London and a letter received from her recently told of her plans to go to Egypt early next month to play tennis.

HUBBELL LOSES NO TIME SIGNING GIANT CONTRACT

New York, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Carl Owen Hubbell, southpaw pitching star of the New York Giants, returned his signed contract for 1935 today, thereby putting an end to any speculation that the club would make further efforts to trade him.

Hubbell was offered by Manager Bill Terry to Pittsburgh in exchange for Larry French and Fred Lindstrom, but the Pirates turned this proposition down in preference to dealing with the Chicago Cubs. Terry's offer was made during the minor league convention at Louisville.

The alacrity with which Hubbell signed, within a week after being officially crowned the National league's most effective pitcher for the second straight year, led baseball observers to believe that the terms were attractive and perhaps involved an increase over his 1934 salary, reported to be around $18,000.

Hubbell topped Dizzy Dean, ace of the world champion Cardinals, in the official percentages with a mark of 2.30 earned runs yielded per nine innings.

Giants Buy Full Back from St. Louis Gunners

New York, Jan. 3.—(AP)—The New York Giants of the National Football league today announced the purchase of Lester Corzine, 205 pound full back, from the St. Louis Gunners. He will play with the Giants against Ernie Nevers' All-Stars at San Francisco Jan. 20. Corzine played college football at Davis and Elkins.

Talking It Over

BY ARCH WARD.

FRANK THOMAS, coach of Alabama's undefeated football team, turned down a five year contract to succeed Biff Jones at Huey Long's Louisiana State. . . . Only a short time before he received the offer he had signed an agreement to remain at Alabama five more years. . . . He was offered approximately $5,000 a year more by Louisiana State than he receives at Alabama, but he felt obligated to live up to his contract at Tuscaloosa. . . . Thomas is one of the most successful pupils developed by the late Knute Rockne. . . . The second year after he left school he was making $7,000 a year as a coach and he has earned a good salary ever since. . . . In his four years at Alabama his teams have lost only four games. . . . Last season his squad was the Southeastern conference champion and it shared title honors this fall with Tulane. . . . Tulane was defeated by Colgate, however, whereas Alabama rolled along Saturday after Saturday without a hitch to take its place alongside Minnesota for national honors. . . .

Coach Bob Zuppke of Illinois is on his way home to rest up from his vacation spent amid California hospitality. . . . He went west to scout Southern California against Washington and Notre Dame. . . . The Trojans are on the Illini schedule next fall. . . . During his stay in Los Angeles Zup made 46 speeches, four radio broadcasts, and participated in several hundred thousand fanfests. . . . He took with him from his hotel one of those "don't disturb" signs which he said he intended to hang on his bedroom doorknob upon arriving home, and thus catch up in sleep. . . .

Charlie Grimm nearly tore the roof off a loop café New Year's eve with his vocal rendition of "Shanty in Old Shanty Town." . . . Buddy Baer has reached the stage where he smokes a pipe but Max refuses to puff on anything but cigarets. . . . Ralph Metcalfe, national sprint champion, who recently returned from a world tour, will renew his law studies at Marquette in February. . . . Dr. Howard J. Savage reported at the national coaches' meeting that the Carnegie Foundation had spent $103,000 to find out if the colleges of the United States had paid any attention to the irregularities disclosed in the now famous Bulletin 23 of 1929. . . . If the Carnegie Foundation wishes to do something really constructive why not take the next $103,000 it decides to throw away on foolish investigations and establish athletic scholarships for boys who otherwise would be deprived of a college education? . . . William V. Morgenstern, publicity director of the University of Chicago, and Mrs. Morgenstern became the parents of a daughter on Christmas day. . . .

James Norris Jr., who at 29 owns his own racing stable, runs his father's hocky team in Detroit, grain brokerage business in Chicago, and boxing promotional ventures in Chicago, Detroit, and St. Louis, now has a yen to manage a fighter. . . . Gov. McNutt of Indiana is a wrestling fan. . . . He frequently attends matches in Indianapolis with Tom Taggart. . . . Lee Ramage, who was knocked out by Joe Louis in the colored boy's last appearance at Chicago Stadium, is suffering from a sinus infection. . . . Clem Noughton, St. Mel High school's all around athlete, plans to enroll at Purdue next fall. . . . Tod Morgan, former junior lightweight champion, is now a promoter in Australia. . . . Wild Bill Cummings has made $40,000 the last year in auto races. . . . Cotton Warburton and Jules Bescos of the Southern California eleven are working in a frontier motion picture that calls for some Indian rough stuff. . . . The father of Bill Lee, Alabama football captain, is the sherif of Green county, Ala. . . . Bill helps as a deputy during vacation. . . .

When Charley Phil Rosenberg was matched with Cannonball Martin for the bantamweight championship he was 40 pounds over weight. . . . He removed the excess suet and won the title. . . . Matt Wells, former English lightweight champion who fought several bouts in this country, recently had his referee's license revoked by British authorities when it was found he had accepted gifts from bookmakers who were taking wagers on fights. . . . Jimmy Corcoran, sports writer for the Evening American, who was run down by a motorist last summer, is now able to get around on crutches. . . .

Jim Crowley, one of Notre Dame's Four Horsemen, was taken from the train and removed to a hospital suffering from a nervous breakdown. . . . Fielding Yost said he was opposed to post-season intersectional football games. . . . In the Wake of the News

MOTORING EXPENSE.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Jan. 3.—Friend Arch: Well, Arch, because I promised to do so, I better get finished up about the expense angle and details of our motor trip out here because it looks like a mighty busy week or two ahead. Every one you ever knew in the middle west wants to show you something you haven't seen and ought to see. Unfortunately, there are only 24 hours in the day when there should be at least 48 hours a day when you first arrive.

I told you yesterday the route we took. Our mileage was approximately 2,543. I'm sorry to say approximately because I was keeping it accurately until our speedometer went out of commission entirely the fourth day. One of the ladies was driving and we were going only a little over 70—they said they were making a good tourist out of me because I'd quit moaning unless they went over 70 on good roads and 50 on slippery roads—when something happened.

Did you ever carry one of those $1 watches so popular a few years ago? Sometimes when you wound them too tight, they'd sort of explode with a terrific whirring and whizzing and weren't any good thereafter. That's what happened to the speedometer. So, after that, I had to compute mileage by the road maps.

We used 222 gallons of gasoline and 28 quarts of oil, if that means anything to you or any one else contemplating the trip.

◆

Total expenses for the journey for three persons were $158.11, which does not include cigarets or airmail stamps for the letters to you because I expect to get the letter back in my expense account. I have an expense account out here, haven't I?

In apportionment of the $158.11, hotel costs were $48.60. They may be made higher or lower. We stayed at good hotels. They were not always the best, both because of economy and because at the end of the day we usually were too tired to dress again for dinner at too swell a joint. Usually there was only one choice. The point is we did not make cheapness a watchword.

Expense of the car, including gasoline, oil and garaging, was $60.40. Meals en route were $39.45. Tips to bellhops in carrying in and out our baggage, including my portable typewriter, were $6. I am not putting any part of that in my expense account, if any. Telegrams, en route, to you and to those at home that we had not skidded into a ditch were $3.66. That is included in the total, but may be deducted by any one whose friends at home do not care whether or not they skid into a ditch.

To the total of $158.11, however, perhaps should be added express on two trunks, which was $32.17. Shipping by freight is about 40 per cent as much, but George Shaffer wired to bring a dinner coat for New Year's eve, and also had a pair of new shoes which I figured might get lost in the freight

CHICAGO GIVES BUTLER BATTLE, BUT LOSES, 37-31

Lang of Maroons Leads with 11 Points.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 3.—[Special.] Butler university defeated the University of Chicago basketball team tonight, 37 to 31. Butler previously had lost close games to Purdue and Northwestern and tonight's victory was doubly sweet for Coach Paul D. Hinkle, who was captain of basketball and baseball at Chicago before coming to Butler fourteen years ago.

Jones of Butler opened the scoring and Brafford added another. Lang put Chicago into the lead with two field goals and then Armstrong tied it with one from under the basket.

Butler Leads at Half.

Demmary and Armstrong scored in quick succession and Chicago thereafter only nipped at the heels of the flying Bulldogs. Butler led at the half, 18 to 9.

Armstrong opened the second half with a basket and Demmary and Batts hit from far out to give Butler a 26 to 16 lead. Butler substitutes finished the game.

Lang, Maroon guard, led the scorers of both teams with 11 points. Lineup:

MICHIGAN BEATS COLGATE

Hamilton, N. Y., Jan. 3.—(AP)—The Colgate basketball team was defeated by Michigan here tonight, 44 to 41, in a contest in which the lead changed eight times in the second half and was tied four times.

Not until the last five minutes of play could Michigan put on enough of a spurt to win. Then Joslin made two baskets and Capt. Plummer got another to give Michigan a margin that could not be overcome.

Johnny Lenhart, Colgate's sophomore center, scored 17 points on eight baskets and a free throw. Lineup:

ANNENBERG BUYS LYNCH INTERESTS IN NEWS SERVICE

The General News bureau, a racing information service, has been sold to the Nation-wide company, a new corporation organized for the same purpose, and in consequence a suit over distribution of profits was dismissed yesterday in the court of Circuit Judge John Prystalski. Moe Annenberg, organizer of the Nation-wide company, announced the purchase of the old company yesterday and declared it would be dissolved.

This transaction ends the conflict of the Annenberg interests with those of John J. Lynch. Lynch and others held 50 per cent of the stock of the General News bureau, which, according to Annanberg, he acquired from Mont Tennes several years ago. Annenberg owned the other half. The Lynch interests were said to have received $500,000 in the settlement.

"The new company is controled by myself and my family," Mr. Annenberg said. "No hoodlums ever were employed by us and none ever will be."

NAVY BOY, ILL AT TIME OF ARMY GAME, IS HONORED

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Jim Mini, California midshipman, who was ill in the Navy hospital while his teammates were winning from Army in Philadelphia Dec. 1, was on the list announced today at the Naval academy of winners of N-Stars, provided only for those who take part in a winning game with the Army. Mini, who played in every other game during the season, was made the recipient by special action of the athletic department.

LENDING HELP TO A BUSY GOALIE

Facilities for Silver Skates Best in History

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Facilities for the accommodation of the hundreds of contestants in the eighteenth Silver Skates Derbies, which will be held at Waveland avenue arena [one block north of Addison street and east of Sheridan road] on Jan. 12 and 13, will surpass those at any of the preceding races. Plans now have been completed for the boys and girls to report for their racing numbers and prepare for their events at the Waveland avenue fieldhouse, one of the newest and largest buildings in the Chicago park district.

Harry O'Hare in Charge.

Harry O'Hare has been assigned by V. K. Brown of the Chicago park district to handle the preparations. He will be assisted by Leo P. Michiels, who is in charge of maintenance and repair for the district, and many other of the parks' staf. In addition, of course, the races will be conducted by a veteran crew of officials of THE TRIBUNE Athletic association. Many of these men have been connected with the Silver Skates since the inception of the Derbies in 1917.

The courses over which the preliminaries and championships will be decided will be laid out on the East Waveland avenue field adjacent to the fieldhouse. Paul Staff will survey the tracks, as he has done for all other Derbies.

Preliminaries on Saturday, Jan. 12, will start at 2 o'clock in three age divisions, the boys' midget, boys' juvenile, and boys' junior. All these contestants may report between 12 o'clock and 1:30 p. m. for their racing numbers at the fieldhouse.

Prelims Start 1:30 P. M.

Preliminaries in the other divisions will start at 1:30 on Sunday afternoon, Jan. 13. Skaters will report on Sunday between 11 a. m. and 1 p. m. for their numbers. The winners on Saturday, of course, must check in again for their semi-finals and championships.

Three days remain in which entries will be accepted for the Derbies. No one may enter after midnight Sunday, although letters postmarked before that deadline will be accepted when they reach THE TRIBUNE'S sports department on Monday.

MAJ. NEYLAND TO SAIL SOON FOR POST IN PANAMA

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3—(AP)—Army traveling orders in his pocket, Maj. Robert Neyland, who built an unusual record as Tennessee's football coach, said good-by to football today and turned toward Panama to begin a two year assignment.

His nine season stretch at the University of Tennessee ended less than a month ago when his Volunteers brought him a victory over Huey Long's Louisana State eleven.

The new army papers signed, Neyland left for New York this afternoon where he will sail in a few days for his post at Corozal, near Panama City. He likely will command a battalion of engineers.

Tigers Get Morgan, Texas League Batting Leader

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Chester Morgan, Beaumont outfielder who led the Texas league in batting last year, has been acquired by the Detroit Tigers, according to an announcement today. Last season was Morgan's second in organized baseball.

Joe Louis to Seek No. 13 in Perroni Bout

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 3.—(AP)—Joe Louis, Detroit's hard punching colored heavyweight, who has become a potential challenger after six months in the professional ring, wound up training today for his 10 round bout tomorrow night with Patsy Perroni, Cleveland.

Louis will be seeking his thirteenth successive victory in the feature attraction of a card which also includes Max Baer in a four round exhibition with Babe Hunt, Ponca City, Okla., and Buddy Baer billed for six rounds with Jack O'Dowd, Detroit.

The Detroit colored heavyweight, whose string of 12 victories in six months includes nine by knockouts, will depend upon his now famous right cross to the jaw, a short, powerful blow that has put away Lee Ramage, Charlie Massera, Stanley Poreda, Art Sykes, O'Dowd, Buck Everett, Larry Udell, Willie Davis, and Jack Kracken.

Perroni won nine battles in 1934, his last being a 10 round decision over Johnny Risko.

Baer and his brother, Buddy, tapered off training today, with the wisecracking Max tearing down a heavy sandbag from its moorings just to demonstrate the blow that laid out King Levinsky "as stiff as a dried mackerel."

Col. John S. Hammond, president of the Madison Square Garden corporation, is expected to watch the Louis-Perroni fight as a guest of James Norris, owner of Olympia stadium.

BRUINS DEFEAT CANADIENS, 2-1, FOR 1ST PLACE

Chicago Meets New Leaders Tomorrow.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 3. — The Boston Bruins, who have been pursuing the world champion Chicago Blackhawks for the leadership of the American division of the National Hocky league for more than five weeks, tonight overtook the titleholders with a 2 to 1 victory over the Montreal Canadiens.

The victory gave the Bruins first place, and pushed the Hawks out of the lead and into second place for the first time since Nov. 27, when they defeated Boston to take command of first place. The Bruins now have a total of 23 league points, against the 22 of the Hawks, who were idle tonight. Boston and Chicago will resume their battle for first place Saturday night, when they meet in the Boston Madison Square Garden.

Although beaten, the Canadiens finally had the satisfaction of scoring a goal on Boston's great goal keeper, Tiny Thompson. Boston previously had beaten the Frenchmen, 4-0 and 2-0, but Armand Mondou broke this scoreless streak with a brilliant goal in the first period, stickhandling through the entire Bruin lineup to do it.

RANGERS, 3; DETROIT, 2

New York, Jan. 3.—(AP)—The New York Rangers, continuing to play a greatly improved brand of hocky, defeated the Detroit Red Wings, 3 to 2, tonight in an exciting National Hocky league clash. About 9,000 fans saw the Blue Shirts wreck Goalie Johnny Roach's shutout record.

Murray Murdock scored the first goal against Roach in three games since the little goalie's return to the big league in the first period. Tommy Anderson tied it up in the second, then Bill Cook gave the Rangers the lead again 40 seconds after the final frame started.

Aided by a penalty to Ching Johnson, the Wings rushed in to tie the score again with Herb Lewis poking the puck home half way through the period. A pass by Frank Boucher enabled Bun Cook to net the winning score.

SAGILIO TO FIGHT JALLOS TONIGHT IN CICERO RING

Bus Breese Matched with Orville Drouillard.

Two bouts at ten rounds each will head the boxing card tonight at Cicero stadium, 19th street and 52d avenue. Frank Sigilio, Cicero junior welterweight, will clash with Lou Jallos of Cleveland, O., in one. The other will match Bus Breese, Manhattan, Kas., junior lightweight, and Orville Drouillard, Windsor, Ont. Drouillard has been substituted for Dario Moreno.

An encounter which is creating an unusual amount of interest for a six round preliminary will bring together Freddy Caserio, Golden Gloves product, and Jack Charvez, Kansas City, Mo., middleweight. Other matches pair Lou Vine with Hugh Allen and Danny Mack with Al Latie. Each is scheduled for four rounds.

Sagilio will be making his first appearance since his thrilling windup battle with Davey Day at Chicago Stadium in November. It was his first defeat in twenty-one professional engagements. He expects to resume his winning streak tonight by scoring a knockout. Jallos, tall, well built lad who has obtained experience in adventures with Barney Ross, Frank Klick, Bobby Pacho, and Young Peter Jackson during a four year pro career, hopes to be able to evade Sagilio's terrific punches and win the decision.

Drouillard and Breese have met on two other occasions. Lou fought an eight round draw with Breese at the Coliseum and then lost a ten round decision at Marigold Gardens a few weeks ago. Both affrays were closely contested.

Caserio most likely will receive the hardest test of his short campaign against Charvez. Caserio has won three previous pro conflicts.

Garden Vetoes Double Bout for Max Baer

New York, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Max Baer might just as well disabuse himself right now of the idea that he's going to feature the 1935 fight picture with an attempt to knock out two legitimate heavyweight title challengers in one night.

James J. Johnston of Madison Square Garden, the organization that holds the contract under which Baer will fight some one in June actually shudders at the thought of such a colossal waste of the prize ring's natural resources.

"Christmas," shouts Jimmy. "It takes a whole year to build up one challenger. And he wants to take two of them—Steve Hamas and Art Lasky—the same night on the same card for the price of one admission. Well, he won't do it."

Fantastic Prospect Fades.

So that, apparently, brings to a sudden ending one of the most fantastic prospects of a new year in which the boxing picture is likely to turn out just a reprint of the 1934 panorama, with slight background changes.

One heavyweight challenger will be culled from the list of Hamas, Lasky, Max Schmeling, and Primo Carnera, with an even chance that the Italian mastiff will again draw the Garden bowl invitation and take another first class licking. Personally, Johnston favors Lasky's chances, and he even thinks he might lick Baer.

"Why, that Baer!" he fumes. "He knocked out Levinsky in two rounds. He had to be lucky to do that after fighting him 30 previous rounds and never getting him off his feet. So now he wants to fight everyone all at once. If Baer's such a terrific puncher, why did Carnera get up 11 times? Why did Carnera finish on his feet? Why, if this Baer is such a murderer, couldn't he get enough power into one punch to keep a big guy down 10 seconds?"

Watch Joe Louis.

Johnston's conversation goes on that way for hours. It takes diplomacy to switch him to the rest of the 1935 prospects.

"This Joe Louis, the big Detroit Negro who knocked over Lee Ramage and Charley Massare, can be the sensation of 1935 that Baer was in 1934," Jimmy declares. "If Louis knocks out Patsy Perroni in Detroit Friday night, then he rates right up there with the rest of the challengers.

"The best all around class looks to be the lightweights, with Tony Canzoneri sliding back, Frankie Klick, Lou Ambers, and this Young Leonard Del Genio coming on fast. I don't think Barney Ross can make the lightweight limit any more. Another Ross and McLarnin match for the welterweight title will be the natural of 1935."

BOSTON STORE, J. & B. VICTORS IN AMATEUR HOCKY

Boston Store and Jones & Baumrucker were victors in the opening round of the Chicago Amateur Hocky league championship series at the Stadium last night. The Merchants beat the Postl Health club, 5-2, while the J-B's came through with a 5 to 1 victory over Highland Park.

A three goal rally in the final period enabled the Boston Store to win.

The Boston Store led, 2-1, as the last period began, but Arnold teamed up with Lorey and Latva to tie it at 2-all in 40 seconds. The Merchants then broke through with three quick goals by Christenson, Kovin, and Teevin.

LINCOLNSHIRE, BLACK HORSE TO PLAY TOMORROW

Girl Poloists Will Battle Centaur Trio.

The Black Horse Troop polo team and the Lincolnshire Country club trio will clash tomorrow evening in what may be one of the most closely contested games of the indoor polo season at the Chicago Riding club, 333 East Erie street.

Charlie Roovaart, Edwin Hirsch and John Bairnsfather who have played together for the last three years, may have the edge over the Black Horse Troop in team play, but to win the invaders will have to match the Troopers' speed.

Lieuts. Bill Kirby, Roy D. Keehn Jr. and Jack Armstrong, wearing the Troop colors, have beaten six of their last seven opponents and are preparing to grasp the opportunity to share second place in their league with 122d Field Artillery. Should the Troopers fail to defeat Lincolnshire, they will drop to fourth place, one notch below the position they now hold.

The Tiger Lilies, a team composed entirely of girl poloists, began tapering off their two weeks training with light skirmishes yesterday.

ARTILLERY IS READY

Lieut. Don Rice, Capt. Bill Everett and Lieut. Chris Schuh were named yesterday as the starting lineup for the 124th Field Artillery team that will battle the Chicago Riding club poloists tomorrow night at the artillery armory, 52 street and Cottage Grove avenue.

The game will be preceded by a junior division match between Kansas City and the Chicago Cardinals.

Although outmounted by the Chicago Riding club threesome led by Capt. Maxwell Corpening, the 124th Field Artillery high goal players believe the handicap in goals to be awarded them will be too much for the Riding club to overcome.

IT'LL TAKE SOME TABLE TENNIS TO BEAT HUNGARIANS

Barna, Glancz Win All Games on U. S. Tour.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

There's a new experience in store for table tennis fans who believe they already have seen everything the game has to offer. Viktor Barna, the Hungarian who holds the world championship, and his teammate, Sandor Glancz, will be in town Sunday for a series with some of the best American performers. The games will be played afternoon and evening at the Stevens hotel.

Spectators who have grown accustomed to the skilful, scientific style of Coleman Clark, or to the vigorous and brilliant play of young Jimmy McClure, are likely to view the game with revived interest by the time the colorful Hungarians get thoroughly warmed up.

Practically Perfect So Far.

The Hungarians recently started a tour of the United States and at this stage of the trip they should feel entitled to the luxury of a superiority complex. For in the matches played so far they have not lost even one game.

In Sunday's series, however, they will be forced to face one of the strongest teams the United States can get together. Clark, McClure, William Condy, Max Rushakoff, Edward Dugan, Yoshio Fushimi, Paul Pearson, and Edwin Lewis all will be on hand, eager to show how the ability of Chicago players compares with that of the best in Europe.

The program will consist of six singles matches and one doubles, each to be decided by the best two of three games. Four matches will be played in the afternoon and three in the evening. At the close of both sessions there will be exhibition games between Barna and Glancz.

Will Give 'Em a Battle.

The central states district has been able to muster a team that is truly representative of the best that the United States can offer. McClure, 18 year old Indianapolis boy, is the present national champion. He recently won in the American zone finals of the world championship eliminations, and will accompany Barna and Glancz to London soon for the title matches at Wembley. Clark is a veteran of national play, having held the United States championship in 1932. He was runner-up in 1933.

A first class doubles team also will be available for Sunday's series, Pearson and Lewis having held the national title in 1933.

The Chicago players are optimistic fellows, but they will be called upon for every bit of skill at their command if they are to make a good showing against the Hungarians. Barna has been world champion four times and generally is considered one of the greatest players in the history of the game. Glancz also holds a high position in international competition, having taken a share of the world doubles championship in 1933.

Sunday Will Tell the Tale.

It is believed now that these Hungarians are greater than any performers a Chicago gathering ever has seen. But there is a possibility that before the last match Sunday night the fans may learn that right here in the Chicago district there is a player who can exchange shot for shot with the best in the world.

ZEKE BONURA'S QUINTET HOLDS FIRST PRACTICE

New Orleans, La., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Zeke Bonura, first baseman of the Chicago White Sox, held the first practice today for his professional basketball players. Bonura has accepted a challenge from the Mexico Masked Marvels to play a game here on Jan. 23. The Mexican team has won 30 games without a defeat while touring the United States.

Zeke, who was an outstanding basketball player in his college days and last winter had a professional team which met few defeats, today said that basketball keeps him in fine trim for baseball.

"I'm not going to have any trouble with the White Sox this year," said Zeke, "and hope that I'll make good in much better style than I did last year. Chicago treated me mighty fine and Owner Lou Comiskey was certainly nice to me."

DRAKE HANDS LEHIGH FIVE 58-32 DEFEAT

Orebaugh of Drake accounted for seven field goals, while Smith had eight and two free throws for a 32 point total between them. Fairbanks, Henry, and Pharo starred for Lehigh.

Purdue Faces Big 10 Opener at Wisconsin

Six Western conference basketball teams, which have been enjoying themselves for the last several weeks at the expense of numerous nonconference opponents, tomorrow night will open the chase for the league championship.

From now on missed baskets will draw more than a shrug from the jittery coach on the bench, and a wild pitch from the free throw line may bring the culprit suspension from the squad.

Three Conference Games.

The conference engagements tomorrow night are:

Purdue at Wisconsin.
Indiana at Illinois.
Ohio State at Iowa.

Then there will be a couple of games that will have no bearing on the standing, as follows:

Marquette at Chicago.
Notre Dame at Minnesota.

Both these games are likely to be just as exciting and as full of one handed field goals as the Big Ten affairs, but the boys at Chicago and Minnesota can still laugh off a defeat, if defeat is in the cards.

Defeats Count Now.

For the other six quintets, however, defeat will mean they're one down in a race that offers only 11 more opportunities for getting even, and with a good number of strong quintets among the entries, the night for getting even may never come.

Heading the list of tomorrow night's battles will be the Purdue-Wisconsin argument in the fieldhouse at Madison. Purdue, the defending champion, appears bent on overpowering all opposition once more, if one is to go by its preconference record, which shows six consecutive victories and nary a trimming. Always a high scoring team, the Boilermakers have marched merrily on, averaging more than 40 points a game.

Last season Purdue set an all-time Big Ten scoring record with 512 points and also was first in defense when it held opponents to 324.

Badgers Second Last Year.

The Badgers finished in a tie for second place with Northwestern in 1934, winning seven of their last eight games after a slow start. Two of their defeats were by Purdue, 27 to 26 and 37 to 25. This season Wisconsin has a new coach, Harold [Bud] Foster, who took over the job when Dr. Walter E. Meanwell became athletic director.

The 7,000 or 8,000 who file into the fieldhouse will be robbed of one of the Big Ten's side shows by the change in coaches, for Foster, while a star pupil of Dr. Meanwell's a few years ago, scarcely can be expected to match the doc's delirium during the progress of a game. The only coach in the conference who can do that is Ward Lambert of Purdue.

Lambert to Be at Madison.

Mr. Lambert will be in action at Madison, will be shouting at his players and the officials, pulling hair [his own] and perhaps even rushing out to take part in the battle personally. But Dr. Meanwell, who could match him yell for yell and then win by two frenzied leaps from the bench to the playing court, will be sitting, cool and calm, in the athletic director's box. At least he will be for the first couple of minutes.

Like Wisconsin, which lost one of its preliminary games [to Marquette], the other four teams which will play conference games tomorrow have been defeated by nonconference foes.

Illinois, which is likely to be one of the upset teams in the league if its sophomores start to click, will play Indiana, and as basketball players are more numerous in the Hoosier state than anywhere else, can expect a struggle, even with the advantage of the home floor.

Iowa Has Hopes.

Iowa had high hopes until beaten by Iowa State the other night, and probably still has them. A high scoring game is looked for when the Hawkeyes tangle with Ohio State.

Chicago, with Bill Haarlow back in the lineup, expects to give Marquette plenty of trouble, although the Milwaukee team is strong. Notre Dame, back from its eastern trip, will be eager for victory over Minnesota, if for no other reason than Minnesota belongs to the Big Ten.

The Marquette and Purdue squads, which played at Milwaukee Wednesday night, divided time in the Marquette gymnasium yesterday in preparation for their week-end engagements. Coach Ward Lambert of the Boilermakers excused the regulars but worked all the reserves.

Church Fives to Resume Schedule at Olivet Gym

The Logan-Avondale Church Athletic association teams will open the second half of their basketball season at Olivet institute gymnasium tomorrow. The schedule:

6 p. m., St. Luke's Lutheran vs. St. Stephen's Episcopal; 7 p. m., Advent-Episcopal vs. Avondale M. E.; 8 p. m., Immanuel Lutheran vs. Fourth Congregational; 9 p. m., Grace Evangelical vs. Saron Lutheran; 10 p. m., Avondale Presbyterian vs. Immanuel Congregational.

MOSTLY about DOGS

By Bob Becker

Midwinter Puppies

One of the problems that winter brings to the dog breeder is taking care of litters of puppies in weather that is very cold. It's one thing to have litters arrive in pleasant, warm weather when the owner doesn't have to worry about draughts or low temperature in a kennel. But it is a far different story to handle one or more litters of helpless pups when attention must be paid to warm winter quarters so that the little fellows won't get cold.

I was especially conscious of this problem winter puppies a few days ago when I dropped in to see some very young Sealyham puppies that arrived as a sort of holiday greeting in Dr. Noel Young's home in Lake Forest, Ill. One litter of five Sealys had been whelped just 24 hours before I dropped in to look at them and see how they were being housed. Of course, it was necessary to keep the mother and pups [also another female that had one puppy] in quarters that had heat.

* * *

On the other hand, care was taken to prevent the kennel space from being overheated. In between the extremes of a cold room and too much heat was a healthful temperature that kept the little white Sealys comfortable and should develop healthy pups.

Of course, these winter pups are going to miss the healthful rays of warm summer sunshine. Sunshine is good for dogs just as it is good for humans. But it is possible to give the little pups their "sun vitamins" internally, thus making up, to a large degree, the lack of real sunshine.

One of the female Sealyhams [Redlands Dawn] in Dr. Young's kennel has just one puppy left out of her litter. When Doc brought this lone canine infant into the living room, carefully transported in a small box, you should have heard the mother howl. Never have I listened to such mournful crying as came from that Sealy which had been deprived of her only living offspring.

* * *

We didn't trouble her very long. Back went the pup to her side and instantly she began to clean it up, as if our human hands had soiled her snow white offspring, and gather it close to her for warmth.

Dr. Young is conducting an extremely interesting experiment with a wire haired terrier that he is keeping in the kennel. This terrier, from the finest show winning stock and owned by a Chicago terrier breeder, is having its teeth straightened. All of its teeth in the lower jaw have to be drawn toward the front of the jaw in order to give the dog normal conformation and have the upper and lower teeth register in their correct position. Therefore, Doc has the friendly little terrier wearing a big brace on its teeth.

* * *

The experiment is coming out splendidly. Before the big brace is through with its work the little fellow should have a normal set of teeth.

In this and other kennels around Chicago you find dogs being pointed for the Minneapolis, St. Paul, and Mankato, Minn., dog shows. This trio of shows will be held the latter part of the month. Inasmuch as all the cities are close together, a dog fancier can make the three in a few days. I saw Redlands Defiance, one of the winning Sealyhams at Dr. Young's wearing a sort of dog "bathrobe." He is growing a new coat for the forthcoming shows, but it is coming so fast that the dog has to be draped with a covering to sort of hold back the new growth of wiry hair which is the normal covering of the Sealy.

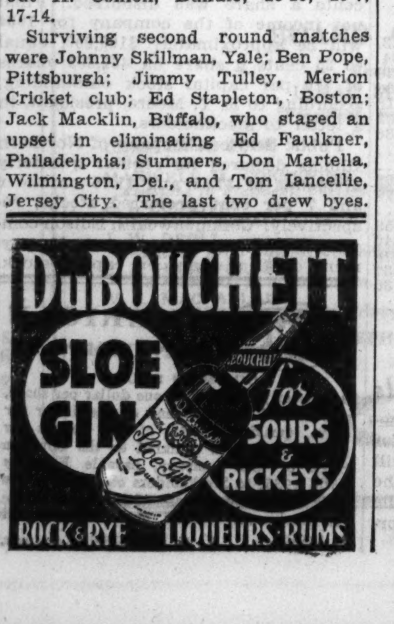
CHAMPION HAS CLOSE CALL IN SQUASH TOURNEY

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 3.—(AP)—The defending champion, Jack Summers, 40 years old, narrowly escaped elimination tonight in the second round of the national professional squash racquets tournament.

After disposing of John Doherty, Philadelphia, in straight sets in the first round Summers was forced to call on his last reserve to put out a fast stroking star from Baltimore, Harry Goodheart.

In the longest match of the day Summers finally won, 15-8, 11-15, 15-11, 14-16, 18-15. Goodheart earlier had put out H. Conlon, Buffalo, 18-13, 15-7, 17-14.

Surviving second round matches were Johnny Skillman, Yale; Ben Pope, Pittsburgh; Jimmy Tulley, Merion Cricket club; Ed Stapleton, Boston; Jack Macklin, Buffalo, who staged an upset in eliminating Ed Faulkner, Philadelphia; Summers, Don Martella, Wilmington, Del., and Tom Iancellie, Jersey City. The last two drew byes.



Shaughnessy Silent About Harvard Post

Clark Shaughnessy, University of Chicago football coach who remains outstanding in the list of prominent coaches named as possible successors to Eddie Casey, who recently resigned as head coach at Harvard university, yesterday declined to be interviewed on the subject of his possible transfer from the Midway to Cambridge, Mass.

Vice President Frederic C. Woodward of the University of Chicago also said he had no comment to make despite his conference Wednesday night with Coach Shaughnessy at which time the matter was discussed.

Awaiting Board Action?

Shaughnessy's refusal to be interviewed has two interpretations. Either Coach Shaughnessy has not definitly been offered the position, in which case he could not decline it, or he is waiting the formal action of the Harvard athletic board which meets Monday night.

William J. Bingham, director of athletics at Harvard, who interviewed Shaughnessy in New York, has said that he intends to submit the names of at least ten nationally known coaches to his board for consideration. As a matter of policy, Harvard will not, of course, offer the coaching position to any man who would be certain to decline it. College jobs aren't filled in that haphazard manner. This leads to the deduction that if Harvard wants Shaughnessy it already has communicated with him.

Courtesy to Harvard?

In this case Shaughnessy's reticence may be a polite deference to the Harvard officials. On the other hand, Coach Shaughnessy has insisted that the job has not been offered him.

Another possibility is that Coach Shaughnessy has decided to remain at Chicago. It is certain that Chicago wishes him to remain. Since this may be the decision, the refusal to discuss the question then must be classed as professional courtesy to Harvard in order not to embarrass the Harvard board in its search for a successor to Casey.

Ever consider Shipping your car

Santa Fe

-TO CALIFORNIA OR THE SOUTHWEST -WHILE YOU RIDE COMFORTABLY BY RAIL . . .

Twice as many wise Santa Fe patrons did just that in 1934 as in any other year.

And Why?

Because they discovered that cost had been made so low it wasn't reasonable, any longer, to deny themselves the pleasure and convenience of having their own motors to run about in at destination.

They already knew that California and the Southwest are big; packed with interesting places and magnificent scenery from end to end; and webbed with beckoning roads whose exploration would add immeasurably to vacations at hotel, ranch or resort.

When owner's party holds two or more first-class one-way or round-trip tickets, private motor can be shipped along, BY FAST FREIGHT, for only one additional ticket at 3.6 cents per mile. It's simple as A B C.

Now as to time. I received your telegram congratulating us on our breakneck speed. It sounded sarcastic, but usually you are not that way. True, we took 8½ days, but we stopped over at both Dallas and Phoenix to visit with friends, and had four days of rain. The trip really is about a 7 day loaf. Those in a hurry may do it in 4½ to 5 days. That's no fun—at least it wouldn't be for me. I still think the railroad is the best route to California, but as time passes and one becomes somewhat rested, the overland journey becomes less and less fearsome.

I'm thinking up some human interest stories, such as you like, and you'll hear from them soon. Hoping you are the same. Regards,

U. S. Golfers Return from Australia Tour

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 3.—(AP)—Fresh from triumphs in Australia that netted them $17,000 in prize money, eight American golf stars returned here today aboard the Lurline and immediately pitched into preparations for the round of winter tournaments that await them.

Heading the band was stocky Gene Sarazen, one of the greatest money players in history. Sarazen, who teamed with Joe Kirkwood in exhibitions "down under," suddenly decided to return home with a group of countrymen who had followed him to the antipodes.

Thompson Leads in Cash.

With Sarazen were Leo Diegel, Craig Wood, Denny Shute, Jimmy Thomson, Paul Runyan, Ky Laffoon and Harry Cooper. Thomson, one of the long hitters of the game, was the leading money winner, taking top prize in the Victoria Centenary at Melbourne.

The returning stars were welcomed to the states by Lawson Little, British and American amateur champion, who will compete against them in the San Francisco national match play open tournament, Jan. 24 to 28.

Little was host to visiting professionals at the Presidio Golf club, where six of them put in nine holes of practice before leaving for southern California tonight.

Sarazen Leaves Kirkwood.

Sarazen gave up plans for a tour of Japan in order to return to winter competition in this country. His place with Kirkwood was taken by Joe Ezar, Waco, Tex., who, according to the returning stars, scored a big hit in Australian tournaments with his fairway comedy.

Sarazen, Diegel, Wood, Laffoon, Runyan, Shute, Thomson and Cooper plan to compete in all California tournaments, starting at Riverside Saturday. They will play in the Sacramento open, Jan. 19, 20 and 21, in advance of the $4,000 tournament here.

Bears to Face Giants Jan. 27 in Coast Game

The Chicago Bears, western champions of the National Professional Football league and runners-up to the New York Giants for the national title, still are of a mind that they are a better team than the Giants, and will try to prove it when they leave tomorrow night for a three game invasion of the Pacific coast, which will be climaxed by another game with the New Yorkers.

The Bears will hold a pair of practice sessions today and tomorrow under the direction of Owner-Coach George Halas, and will entrain at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night from the Union station.

Games Carded for Los Angeles.

All three games will be played in Los Angeles. The contest with the Giants will not be the only resumption of a regular season rivalry, for the Bears are scheduled for a game Jan. 13 with their fellow townsmen, the Chicago Cardinals, who have been touring almost since the end of the regular season.

The Cards have improved considerably since the regular season, and are reported prepared to give the Bears an even more strenuous argument than they did in their final game of the 1934 schedule.

Will Play Coast All-Stars.

Following the game with the Cardinals the Bears will meet a team composed of west coast all-stars on Jan. 20. On the 27th they will battle the Giants in an effort to avenge their 30 to 13 defeat by the easterners in the league championship final last month at New York.

In between games the Bears also will make another movie short, as they did in their tour of the coast last winter.

McPherson Five Beats Fast Freights, 56 to 35

Salina, Kas., Jan. 3.—(AP)—The travel weary Chicago Fast Freight basketball team lost to McPherson, 56 to 35, here tonight in a game marred by 34 fouls.

Two Groups Bid for Canadiens; Transfer Near

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 3.—[Special.]—The Montreal Canadiens are on the auction block and rival groups already have bid more than $200,000 in their battle for possession of the flying Frenchmen, one of the most picturesque and potentially profitable teams in the National Hocky league.

With unlimited funds at their command, young Walter O'Hara, Yale graduate and promoter of the Narragansett Park race track in Rhode Island, has joined forces with James S. Strachan, former president of the Montreal Maroons, to compete against a French-Canadian banking syndicate for the acquisition of the club.

* * *

The Dominion financiers, whose names are withheld, offered $125,000 for the Montreal franchise and players a few days ago; but while Leo Dandurand, vice president and coach of the Canadiens, was considering this proposition, O'Hara and Strachan raised the bid $25,000. The financiers went up another $25,000 and O'Hara, who cleaned up a fortune with his racing venture this season, then told Dandurand he'd pay $200,000 for his team.

The Canadian clique has been given an opportunity to meet O'Hara's latest move.

Dandurand admitted over the long distance telephone, just before the Canadiens took the ice against the Boston Bruins tonight, that the "sale is in process of negotiation," but he declined to discuss details. Nor would he confirm reports that if the sale is completed he intends to buy the St. Louis Eagles hockey team.

* * *

From other sources in Montreal it was learned, however, that the Canadiens probably will be under new ownership within the next few days, with O'Hara and Strachan favored.

The Canadiens are in fourth place, four points away from a playoff berth, in the International division. While there are several excellent players in their lineup, they haven't been clicking recently. It is likely, however, that with a few changes the club quickly could regain its former prestige. Their starting array now includes Cude, Carson, Jenkins, Lepine, Larochelle, and Joliat.

JIMMY SNYDER WINS IN MIDGET MOTOR CAR RACE

Jimmy Snyder of Chicago won the feature twenty lap midget auto race last night in the first of a series of races sanctioned by the A. A. A. at the International amphitheater. More than 2,000 watched Snyder spin around the indoor track in 4:21.

Harold Shaw of Indianapolis finished second and Jimmy Sawyer of Milwaukee took third place. Shaw was victor in the ten lap semi-final event and also took first honors in the five lap handicap race.

In the preliminary races Jimmy Sawyer won the three lap trophy race and Emil Andres won the five lap consolation race.

60 HORSES ARE NOMINATED FOR GRAND NATIONAL

Eight American Jumpers Included in Field.

LONDON, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Sixty of the leading steeplechase horses of the world, including the 1933 and 1934 winners and eight American owned jumpers, today were nominated for racing's most gruelling test, the 96th running of the Grand National at Aintree March 29. Of these, at least 30 are expected to start.

Heading the list is Golden Miller, Dorothy Paget's big jumper which won last year; J. B. Snow's Delaneige and J. H. [Jock] Whitney's Thomond II., American owned mounts which finished second and third, respectively, in the 1934 renewal. The United States also can claim an interest in Golden Miller, as Miss Paget is a cousin of the Whitneys.

The other American entries are: M. D. Blair's Fouquet; George H. [Pete] Bostwick's Castle Irwell, which the little American sportsman probably will ride himself; Whitney's Royal Ransom and Double Crossed, and Kiltoi and Theras, owned by the South Carolinian, Jesse Metcalf.

In addition to Golden Miller, the only other former winner entered is Fobra, which won in 1932, and which has been put up for sale by the estate of the late C. M. Parsonage. It is the first time in the history of the classic a horse has been entered by other than a living man.

Rules Revised for Athletes at Notre Dame

Notre Dame, Ind., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Dean James E. McCarthy, secretary of the faculty board in control of athletics at the University of Notre Dame, today announced several revisions in the Notre Dame athletic constitution, among them the addition of an "eight semester" rule.

The new constitution makes eligibility requirements at Notre Dame more stringent than those of the Western conference which Notre Dame, although not a member, has followed for many years.

The revised code provides that no athlete may participate in intercollegiate competition after his eighth semester in school. It will prevent a player from intentionally staying out of competition on the chance of performing more brilliantly in some future season. If a player is kept out of competition because of injuries he will still be using up his eligibility as long as he is in school.

Boost Monogram Requirements.

Another revision in the document provides for the election of a captain within three scholastic weeks after the end of a particular season. The election does not become official until approved by the faculty board.

The requirements for winning basketball, track, and baseball monograms are also more stringent than under the former regulations. Formerly a basketball player could win a monogram by participating in two important games. Now he must play in at least half of the regularly scheduled games and play a total time equal to one-fourth of the total playing time for the season.

Baseball players could win a monogram formerly by playing 27 innings in important games. Under the revised constitution they must play in one-half of the regularly scheduled games and for a time equal to one-fourth of the total playing time of the season.

Tougher for Track Men.

Track men must score 12 points for the season, place in the N. C. A. A. games, or run with a winning relay team in an important meet to win a monogram. Formerly a first place in any intercollegiate meet was sufficient to win a monogram.

The requirements for minor sport monograms are definitly outlined in the revised constitution. Previously the awarding of such insignia was done by the faculty board upon the recommendation of the director of athletics.

The members of the board are: the Rev. John H. O'Donnell, C. S. C., chairman; the Rev. Thomas Steiner, C. S. C.; Prof. William L. Benitz, Dean James E. McCarthy, secretary; and Prof. Clarence Manion. Three advisory members of the board are M. Harry Miller, John Neeson, and Fred Steers.

RESERVE BANKS CONTINUE TO PILE UP IDLE FUNDS

Money in Circulation Falls Sharply.

A piling up of unemployed bank funds with the federal reserve and a marked shrinkage in the volume of money in circulation, accompanying the let down in retail holiday trade, were the principal features of the weekly banking statistics issued last night.

After expanding for several weeks as the volume of holiday retail trade grew, total of money in circulation last week fell $94,000,000. In the Chicago reserve district alone there was a decline of $45,000,000 in volume of federal reserve currency in circulation. For the country as a whole there was an increase of $130,000,000 in the reserve funds of member banks on deposit with the federal reserve. This increase again lifted the total of such funds above the four billion dollar mark.

Business Loans Contracted.

Statements of condition of member banks in New York and Chicago showed a further slight contraction in "business" or commercial loans. Total bank credit outstanding in New York was $11,000,000 above the preceding week. This was accounted for by the increases in holdings of government bonds and in brokers' loans outstanding.

New York banks bought an additional $23,000,000 of government bonds and increased their loans to brokers by $26,000,000. Commercial loans fell $16,000,000 and investments, other than government bonds, were down $11,000,000.

In Chicago there was a total decline of $39,000,000 in bank credit outstanding. Nearly all the shrinkage was due to the reduction in bank investments, other than government issues, amounting to $37,000,000. Holdings of government paper were unchanged. Gross deposits of the Chicago reporting banks were down $27,000,000, compared with an expansion of $98,000,000 in gross of New York member banks.

Industrial Advances Gain.

The combined reserve report showed an increase of $726,000 in direct industrial loans which brought the total of such advances up to $14,315,000. The Chicago reserve bank, however, reported a decline of $10,000 in industrial loans, representing repayment of a loan made earlier.

Monetary gold stocks of the country continued to mount last week. Imports of $15,000,000 brought total holdings to 8 billion 243 million dollars. The treasury continued to hold most of the gold received as it has done for the last several weeks. Holdings of gold certificates by the reserve system were up only $2,000,000.

The executive committee of the board of the Chicago reserve bank will hold its regular weekly meeting today. There has been some expectation that a cut would be made in the present rediscount rate of 2½ per cent following similar action by other banks. As a rule, however, the executive committee does not take such action. The full board will hold its next meeting Jan. 25.

Year's Profit $6,510,000.

Net earnings of the federal reserve system for 1934, transferred to surplus at the end of the year, after expenses, dividends and liberal appropriations for reserves, amounted to $6,510,000 contrasted with a loss of $916,855 in 1933, the report disclosed.

It showed the twelve banks of the system had added $8,544,000 to reserves for contingencies, lifting that item to $30,816,000 and that even after this large appropriation for reserves the banks' surplus had been increased $6,510,000 to $144,893,000. The reserve banks now report two items of surplus, one of which reflects payments made by the treasury to the banks against industrial loans made by them. The other represents the ordinary surplus of the system.

Net earnings transferred to surplus by the federal reserve bank of New York, after expenses, dividends, appropriations for reserves and other charges, at the end of 1934 amounted to $4,747,000, indicating that bank had most of the profits made in the year by the entire system.

SEC EXTENDS TIME TO REPORT SECURITIES HELD

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—The securities and exchange commission today extended until Jan. 30 the time within which officers and directors of companies whose securities are temporarily registered on a national securities exchange, and persons who are directly or indirectly the beneficial owners of more than 10 per cent of such securities must file reports covering their holdings in November and December.

A previous rule required that these reports be filed by Jan. 10. The twenty day extension was granted because of delay on the part of the commission in making public an interpretation of the term "beneficial owner." It is believed that this will be ready tomorrow.

Reports of the holdings of officers, directors, and principal stockholders are required each month, the commission, however, having authority to grant a delay when it believes such action waranted.

In a preliminary statement today the commission informed congress that it had not completed its report on administrative practices on stock exchanges, which it was requested to make by Jan. 3, but said it would transmit it within the next few days.

BANK CLEARINGS DOWN SLIGHTLY; GAIN SHOWN HERE

New York, Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Bank clearings in twenty-two leading cities in the United States for the five days ended Jan. 2 totaled $4,709,221,000, off 2 per cent from the $4,805,479,000 for the five days ended Jan. 3 a year ago, Dun & Bradstreet reported today. The small decline compared with a gain of 136 per cent in the previous week. The total, however, was $718,155,000 above the previous week reported in 1933.

New York City clearings were off 8.8 per cent to $3,096,941,000, while the aggregate for cities outside of New York rose 14.3 per cent to $1,612,280,000. All but two cities outside of New York showed higher clearings. Increases were notable in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, St. Louis and Louisville.

Comparison was considerably out of line, however, because in the current week there was only one day of the unusually heavy settlements. December bank clearings were 16.5 per cent above the same 1933 month. It was the first time since last May that larger clearings than in the previous year were recorded. Total clearings during 1934 were 8.3 per cent above 1933.

FRANCE EMBARKS ON NEW PROGRAM OF EASIER CREDIT

Moves to Reduce Rates and Aid Industry.

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Jan. 3.—With the installation of Jean Tannery as the new governor of the Bank of France this afternoon, the country, in the opinion of high financial authorities, has reached a turning point of the utmost importance not only to itself but also to the rest of the world, which must be affected indirectly by what will happen.

From June, 1928, when the franc was stabilized at the present parity, until today, France's financial policies have been of the utmost conservatism and orthodoxy. They will remain orthodox, but from a passive defense of the franc and the nation's credit against the world depression and the fall of the dollar and the pound, France is now swinging into aggressive action.

Idle Gold Criticized.

The Bank of France has been criticized because 80 billion francs of gold it has been holding has been sterilized. Now this gold will form a basis of real credit expansion in the short term market and at the same time, it is hoped, raise the face value of government bonds, thus lowering long term interest rates, which are now about 5 per cent. Private business then would be able to borrow at lower rates and costs of production would be reduced.

Just how all this will be accomplished has not yet been officially divulged, but the general outlines of the government's proposed policies are common knowledge in financial circles. In the first place, the Bank of France will pursue a much more liberal policy in its rediscounting of short term treasury bonds. Clement Moret, the former governor of the bank, was always understood to have opposed anything more than limited action by the bank in that field.

Holdings Reach Limit.

Private banks which now hold 10 billion francs of such bonds are unable to absorb any more under present circumstances, but with the knowledge that they can rediscount them at the Bank of France, the government feels, they can take at least 5 billion francs more in the near future. It is understood Finance Minister Louis Germain-Martin will ask parliament for authority to raise the issue to 15 billion francs. The money thus placed in the treasury's hands will permit the government to refrain from issuing any more long term bonds.

Rentes have already responded to this news. Moreover, M. Tannery's experience as director of the Caisse des Depots, where he proved of invaluable aid to successive governments in supporting the quotations of rentes, will, it is understood, be put to use in his new post. The Bank of France never before has indulged in direct purchases of rentes in the open market, but it is believed it will soon discreetly begin if this is desirable.

Mr. Ewald said the new company was formed to give a more complete service in the eastern city.

CHICAGO BANK DEPOSITS RISE TO 3 YEAR PEAK

Cash Resources Gain but Loans Shrink.

Deposits and cash resources of Chicago banks continued to pile up while loans returned to their shrinking tendency during the final quarter of 1934. The year-end call for bank figures, issued yesterday by state and national authorities, disclosed total deposits of $2,322,729,000, highest figure since 1931.

The immense total is the more impressive when compared with final 1930 tabulation of $2,895,794,000 if consideration is given to the fact that something more than 100 millions is tied up in failures which have cut the number of banks in the city to about one-third of that prevailing when the depression was just starting. The 1934 figure is almost 30 per cent above $1,790,070,000 reported for Dec. 31, 1933.

All Banks Gain.

Savings deposits increased in every bank in Chicago during the last quarter, but the rate was slower than the average for all deposits. For the year, the rise was almost 27 per cent—from $314,714,000 to $398,095,000. State banks recorded larger increases in savings, but national institutions had the edge on total deposit rises.

Loans were at a new low ebb for recent years, total Chicago bank credit standing at $592,796,000. This was $1,700,000 under the previous low on June 30, and a drop of 31 millions for the year. It was a 30 million shrinkage since the third quarter.

National banks accounted for almost the entire shrinkage of loans during 1934—from $511,934,000 to $482,323,000. The state banks remained almost constant—$111,812,000 to $110,473,000. In fact, during the fourth quarter the state institutions crawled slightly forward in their loans and discounts, holding good gains of the third quarter. National banks, on the other hand, lost 31 millions in the last three months, just double their 15½ millions third quarter gain.

Cash Resources Climb.

Cash resources continued their climb, although more slowly. The year ended with a figure of $816,029,000 for a gain of 18 millions in the last quarter and 135 millions for twelve months. Although the increased liquidity of the banks is indicated from these figures, much of the cash has gone into the purchase of government bonds. At the end of 1930 cash resources were listed at only $689,118,000.

A check on the piling up of cash was experienced by the state banks in the last quarter, when a decline was registered. In the first nine months, however, they showed sharper rises than national banks.

Bank statistics printed elsewhere in this edition include the first report of the Merchants National, formed in a reorganization of the Madison-Kedzie Trust and Savings bank.

The calls of the controler of the currency and the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation also ask statements of earnings and dividends for 1934, making available for the first time the income and expense data on practically every commercial bank in the country.

Reports 93 Per Cent Upturn.

The Live Stock National bank reported an increase of 93 per cent in deposits and made one of the greatest business gains in its 68 year existence. David H. Reimers, president, reported deposits up from $9,276,961 to $17,914,710 during 1934 and said the bank's business expanded over a broader field than in previous years. A net profit of $229,405, or 22.9 per cent, on capital was shown in the 12 months in addition to an increase of the surplus account from $250,000 to $500,000.

The National Security bank showed a rise in deposits from $2,062,305 to $3,618,093, or 80 per cent, during the year. President Norman B. Collins reported net earnings of $50,445, or 25 per cent, on capital after taxes and reserves. The bank paid $6,000 in three quarterly dividends of $1 each and increased its surplus from $25,000 to $75,000 for a slight reduction in its profit and loss account.

Yesterday's was the fourteenth consecutive bank call in which a deposit increase has been shown by the Sears Community State bank, affiliate of Sears, Roebuck & Co., which was organized in 1931. A 40 per cent increase, from $3,687,181 to $5,184,072, was the 1934 record.

Charles S. Dewey, chairman of the board of the Milwaukee Avenue National bank, which opened last Aug. 14, reported deposits of $1,016,274, against $659,293 at the Oct. 17 call and $57,057 on its first day.

J. P. MORGAN DEPOSITS INCREASE $32,000,000 IN LAST TWO MONTHS

New York, Jan. 3.—(AP)—An increase in time and demand deposits of nearly $32,000,000 in two months to a total of $338,026,689 was shown tonight in the statement of J. P. Morgan & Co., private bankers. Total assets increased from $384,656,255 on Nov. 2, when the last statement of condition was made, to $414,685,768 in the current statement.

Cash on hand and deposits in banks decreased about $4,000,000 to $68,811,081, and United States government securities rose sharply from $196,263,465 to $242,117,585.

Loans and advances dropped from $45,532,264 to $34,623,217. Capital remained unchanged at $25,000,000 as did a special reserve fund of $1,000,000.

Surplus and partners' balances were down slightly from $30,545,162 to $29,934,133. Bankers' acceptances and bills declined from $11,318,602 to $7,025,000.

State and municipal bonds and bills were listed at $16,205,481 in November and $14,652,403 in the current statement, while stocks and bonds remained practically unchanged at $16,493,376.

The statement included Drexel & Co. of Philadelphia, a branch, but it was exclusive of the Morgan interest in Morgan & Cie., Paris. The investment in Morgan, Grenfall & Co., Ltd., London, was carried at $5,500,000.

TRADE FAILURES HIT 14 YEAR LOW; LIABILITIES DOWN

New York, Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Business failures during 1934 shrank to a fourteen year record low, according to Dun & Bradstreet, Inc. The number of insolvencies dropped to 12,185 with total indebtedness amounting to $264,248,176, compared with 20,307 failures with liabilities of $502,830,584 in 1933. In 1932 failures totaled 31,822 and liabilities $928,312,517, a high record since 1857, when such figures were first compiled.

Last year saw fewer firms go to the wall than in any twelve months since 1920, when 8,881 firms with liabilities of $295,121,805 became insolvent.

The insolvency record for 1934 was progressively more favorable as the year advanced, both as to the number of firms and the liabilities involved. Reports for each quarter showed a marked improvement over the previous three months, and the change became very noteworthy at the close of the year.

YULE BUSINESS OF YELLOW CAB 30 PCT. ABOVE 1933

Christmas holiday business of the Yellow Cab company was 30 per cent greater than in 1933, according to Thomas B. Hogan, president.

"Probably no better indicator of the public's willingness to spend money exists than in the taxicab business," Hogan said. "The holiday rush surpassed our estimates for a reasonable increase, but nothing as great as we experienced."

Hogan said Yellow Cab paid $118,474 to the city and state for vehicle license fees for 1935. Of this the state got $26,194 for public taxicab licenses and the city got $54,150 covering two quarters of the city vehicle tax for taxicabs; $21,885 for the city vehicle tax; $10,830 for hack stand licenses, and $5,415, first half instalment for meter inspections.

Power Output Dips, but Runs Above 1934

Production of electricity in the United States last week was 7.2 per cent above that of a year ago, but totaled 7.6 per cent below the preceding week, when the percentage gain over a year ago was 7.9 per cent. In the Chicago area output was 2.5 per cent above a year ago, but 6.8 per cent under the preceding week.

The sharp drop from the preceding week in national output was due principally to the Christmas holiday. The smaller percentage of increase in the Chicago area over a year ago was attributed to less demand from electric railways as a result of normal weather this year compared with the coldest of the season in 1933.

Production Totals.

Output for the nation totaled 1,650,467,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 1,787,936,000 in the preceding week and 1,539,002,000 in the corresponding week of 1933. The total for the Chicago district, as reported by the Commonwealth Edison company, was 104,207,000 kilowatt hours, against 111,927,000 in the preceding week and 101,659,000 in the corresponding period of 1933.

Following are the output and percentage comparisons with 1933 for the Chicago area [last 3 ciphers omitted]:

Week Ended.	1934.	1933.	Per Cent Increase.
Dec. 29	104,207	101.659	2.5
Dec. 22	111,927	105,136	6.5
Dec. 15	111,463	105,191	6.0
Dec. 8	109,583	101,962	7.5

In the New England district the percentage gain over the corresponding week of 1933 was greater than that reported for the preceding week, being 6.4 per cent, against 5.7 per cent. The south also showed a more favorable gain than in the preceding week with increases of 13.8 and 12.3 per cent, respectively. Many textile mills in the area closed for a shorter period than they did in the 1933 holiday week.

Other Comparisons.

Other increases over 1933 with comparative gains of the preceding week were: Middle Atlantic, 4.7 per cent, against 6.5; central industrial, 7.5, against 8.7; west central, 5.3, against 6.1; Rocky mountain, 9.6, against 11.1, and the Pacific coast, 2.9, against 4.7.

Electric output of Standard Gas and Electric company for the week totaled 81,706,489 kilowatt hours, an increase of 7.4 per cent compared with the corresponding week of 1933, and a decrease of 7,792,338 kilowatt hours, or 8.7 per cent, under the week ended Dec. 22, 1934.

DOLLAR FALLS BELOW PARITY WITH FRANC, CLOSING AT 99.88C

New York, Jan. 3.—[Special.]—The dollar dropped today below its parity against the French franc for the first time in more than two months as the franc soared to 6.64⅜ cents and closed at 6.64⅛ cents on a recovery movement that began with the announcement yesterday of Clement Moret's replacement as governor of the Bank of France by Jean Tannery.

At the closing price of the franc the value of the dollar, based on the old par of the franc, was 58.99 cents, compared with 59.07 yesterday. Par is 59.06 cents. Calculated on the new par of the franc the dollar was worth 99.88 cents, against $1.0001 yesterday.

Contrary to the upward trend in most leading currencies the British pound lost sharply against the dollar with the close at $4.92¼, or 1¾ cents lower.

Persons usually well informed in foreign exchange were puzzled by the showing of the dollar against sterling in view of the losses against other currencies. In some quarters the belief was held that uncertainties linked with the coming budget speech were responsible for the downward trend in the dollar while the pound was being manipulated by the British Exchange control in London.

Bullion brokers in London raised the price of gold 8 pence to 141 shillings 6½ pence a fine ounce, equivalent to $34.93, based on the opening of sterling at $4.93⅝.

The engagement of about $2,000,000 more gold abroad for importation here was reported today, bringing to about $216,000,000 the total imported or engaged since Nov. 5. The federal reserve bank reported the arrival as of Wednesday of $166,200 gold from England and $6,600 from Panama.

RAILWAYS MOVE TODAY TO WIN RATE INCREASE

Ask I. C. C. to Save Lines' Credit.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—A brief declaring that increased freight rates are necessary to maintain the credit of the nation's railroads now "jeopardized" by increased costs will be filed with the interstate commerce commission tomorrow by the Association of American Railroads in support of their petition for a general freight rate increase.

Briefs were filed today by a large number of shippers and shippers's associations and other organizations opposing any increase in rates.

Oral argument on the railroads' petition for increases will open Jan. 9. Final reply briefs must be filed Jan. 24, and a decision is not expected until March.

Expenses Rise 290 Millions.

The restoration of a 10 per cent cut in rail wages and higher costs of material and supplies are increasing operating expenses by $290,000,000 annually, the railroads' brief estimates. The increases sought in freight rates average only 6.7 per cent, it says, and even if they were granted rates would be far below those in the past.

"If the interstate commerce commission denies this increase and says in effect, that the railroads shall not be permitted thus to share their burden with their patrons, the effect upon railroad credit will be disastrous," the brief says. "Those who have invested in railroads will thereby learn that the railroad industry, economically, is a thing apart from other industry; that whereas strictly private business, even though operating under NRA codes, has been told by the government that it may increase its prices as cost of production increases, the railroads, although privately owned and privately operated, are prohibited by law from applying the same economic law to their business problems.

"Nothing More Injurious."

"It seems to be obvious, if the question of railroad credit is considered important, that nothing can be more injurious than for the interstate commerce commission to say that the railroads shall not be permitted to advance their prices to meet increasing costs."

Despite an increase in operating efficiency, according to the brief, operating expenses of the railroads for the first ten months of 1934 were 9,5 per cent higher than in 1933, while operating revenues showed an increase of only 6.3 per cent, making the net railway operating income for the first ten months of 1934 1.9 per cent lower than that for the same period of 1933, and leading to an estimate that the railroads as a whole will show a net deficit for the year after fixed charges have been deducted of $65,000,000.

Inflation List Leads Rise in Stocks; Others Cautious

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 3.—Gold and silver mining shares turned more active on the stock exchange today as the so-called inflationist element of the new congress began to unlimber its artillery barrage. U. S. Smelting, the big time leader of the silver group, gave the lie to recent reports of its "oversold" condition by running up more than $2 a share on fairly brisk dealings. Cerro de Pasco advanced almost as much, while American Smelting and Howe Sound each moved up about a point. Among the gold miners McIntyre, Dome, and Alaska Juneau were conspicuously active, especially in the afternoon, at higher prices.

Professionals were able to read inflation into a whole armful of the bills sent up in the getaway session of the new national lawmaking body. Besides the measure to further reduce the gold content of the dollar and the silver redemption bill, the bills calling for a two billion dollar soldier bonus payment, the one proposing federal payment of deposits in defunct banks and a miscellaneous lot of measures contemplating fresh expenditures and restriction on trade were seen as spelling inflation in the long run.

Other Sections Listless.

Activity elsewhere was held in check against the delivery of the President's message to congress tomorrow. Talk around the boardrooms indicated a feeling that probably nothing much can be learned of the administration's immediate intentions until the budget and other messages make their appearance, but the street has guessed wrong too many times in the recent past on the turn of uncertainties and had to pay for its gamble through the nose to take any undue chances. The rank and file, therefore, elected to sit tight and try to see further ahead.

Key shares, taking the list as a whole, were mixed, with prices for some of the leaders easing away from best levels of the day, while others improved their ratings fractionally after a mediocre start. American Can gave up a large fraction of its gain of yesterday as did Case. Westinghouse drifted a little lower with General Electric.

Du Pont, Steel Advance.

Du Pont, on the other hand, continued its fresh advance with a further runup of nearly 2 points. U. S. Steel was fractionally higher and so was American Telephone. Johns-Manville signaled its appreciation of Washington talk of further spending of "easy" government money with a rise of more than $2 a share.

A report that Schenley Distillers is to be placed on a dividend basis about the middle of this month stirred up some activity in the liquor group, while the payment of a 50 cent dividend by Simms Petroleum attracted profitable attention to the oils.

One of those occasional spurts of activity which the trade likes to refer to as an individual performance was provided by Studebaker shares, the common rising nearly a point and the preferred more than 5½ points, a part of which was later lost. Railroad shares looked dispirited.

Chrysler Signs Reciprocal Trade Pact with Germany

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 3.—The Chrysler concern has signed a compensation agreement with German authorities agreeing to ship most of the 19,000 cars it exports to Europe on the North German Lloyd or Hamburg-American line steamers. Thirty-five per cent of the money paid by Chrysler as freight to the German shipping companies will be used by the Germans to buy Chrysler cars and automobile parts in America. A trial shipment will start in the near future.

MERGE PULLMAN SUBSIDIARIES AS ECONOMY MOVE

Virtually all domestic manufacturing subsidiaries of Pullman, Inc., have been consolidated in the interest of economy, according to an announcement made yesterday. The consolidated organization will be known as the Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company. It will be headed by C. A. Liddle, who has been president of the Pullman Car and Manufacturing corporation.

The units embraced in the consolidation include Pullman Car Manufacturing, Dickson Car Wheel company, New Orleans Car Wheel company, Standard Steel Car corporation [Del.], Standard Steel Car corporation [Pa.], Pullman-Bradley Car corporation and the Richmond Car corporation. All plants of the companies are to be operated as at present.

Directors of the new company are: C. A. Liddle, W. N. Barker, William Bierman, H. M. Dudley, H. H. Gilbert, R. L. Gordon, and P. G. Jenks.

SHIPPERS SEE BUSINESS GAINS IN 1ST QUARTER

Car Requirements Set at 656,133 Units.

Based on the estimates of shippers as to the number of freight cars they will need in the next three months, business in a large part of the Chicago district during the first quarter of 1935 will show substantial gains over the first quarter of 1934 in many lines and in others will hold about even. A few will show losses.

Five hundred members of the Midwest Shippers' advisory board at a meeting in the Palmer house yesterday estimated shippers will require 659,678 freight cars during the quarter, compared with 658,786 cars actually moved in the first quarter of 1934 and 610,391 moved in the first quarter of 1933. Had it not been for the disastrous drouth of last season, which seriously affected agricultural manufactures, there would have been a gain of 5 per cent over the 1934 quarter.

Discuss Car Pooling.

Also brought up for discussion was the car pool plan under which all railroads of the country would contribute rolling stock for their joint use. M. J. Gormley, executive assistant to the president of the Association of American Railroads, said the big railroad association is giving careful consideration to the plan, which was suggested by Coördinator Eastman, but doubted whether it would make an announcement for several months.

The advisory board estimates of increases included the following lines:

Agricultural implements, 30 per cent ahead of last year which was not a very good year in the industry. If the gain is realized it will be the best first quarter in many years. Brick and clay products—up 10 per cent, or at about the 1932 level. Dairy products—very slightly above last year.

Fertilizer Estimates Up.

Fertilizer products—up 34 per cent. This increase is expected because it is felt there will be less federal control of acreage and farmers are expected to increase their production. This is hoped to be the best record in years. Grain products—up 10 per cent. Iron and steel products—up 10 per cent. This is a conservative estimate, for the quarter is expected to

MILLION SHARE BID REPORTED FOR GEN'L ELECTRIC

Tender One of Largest in Market History.

New York, Jan. 3.—[Special.]—A bid for 1,000,000 shares of General Electric special stock, recently called for redemption April 15 next, was reported to have been placed in the market today. The identity of the bidder was not disclosed, but it was apparent the potential buyer was a large institution, either a bank or an insurance company interested in the issue as a short term investment.

The bid is one of the few of such dimensions ever placed for a single issue, and represents the first such bid since the famous Rockefeller tender for 1,000,000 shares of Standard Oil of New Jersey during the hectic days of October, 1929, when the bottom was falling out of the general market.

The Standard Oil bid was an emergency move and designed to bolster confidence at a time when stocks were being jettisoned for whatever they would bring in the early stages of the long "bear" market which finally burned itself out in the summer of 1932.

Hunt Short Term Outlets.

The bid for General Electric special at the call price of $11 a share is quite apparently based on an entirely different premise and reflects the never ending search of institutional investors for short term outlets for their funds.

Under prevailing conditions in the money market and in the short term investment field, purchase of the stock, if it can be negotiated at the call price, will provide at least temporary employment on a relatively profitable basis for the ninety-day period between now and the call date.

Holders of the stock will receive another dividend of 15 cents a share prior to the redemption date set for April 15. The commission for the purchase of 100 shares of stock is $12.50 and since the stock has been called there will be no brokerage commission involved in the sale of the stock now purchased.

Net Return $2.50.

The dividend to be paid to holders of record some time in March will amount to $15 on the hundred, leaving an indicated net return of $2.50 on each $1,100 invested for the ninety days, or the equivalent of $10 annually. This is equivalent to a return at the annual rate of just under 1 per cent on the investment, about 99-100ths of 1 per cent to be approximately correct.

This in itself is not a large return, but when contrasted with the yield offered in other sections of the short term field, and weighed in relation to going rates in the money market, it is fairly substantial. On the nearest comparable treasury bill maturity, due April 3 next, the purchaser at current levels would receive a minus yield, the issue selling to show an interest loss of .15 per cent to the buyer.

International Salt.

Investors' Guide: Will you please give me a report on International Salt?—G. O. A.

Answer—This is the world's largest salt producer. Its properties, which have an estimated life of 100 years, are in New York, Michigan, and Louisiana. Distribution is mainly east of the Mississippi river and in the southern section of the United States.

Salt finds its way into many basic industries. About three-fourths of output is for industrial use, of which about 60 per cent is absorbed by the chemical and paper industries. Other industries that are large salt users are the ice cream, railroad [for refrigeration], textile, packing, and water softening organizations. Heavy costs of distributing a cheap, bulky article like salt limits the marketability.

Net income for the first half of 1934 was $191,000, or 80 cents a share, against net of $142,000, or 59 cents a share, for the corresponding 1933 period.

In 1933 net income was $491,000, or $2.10 a share, against $515,000, or $2.20 a share, for 1932. Net income for 1931 was $749,000, against $679,000 for 1930.

On Dec. 31, 1933, current position was strong. Current assets were eight times current liabilities. Funded debt, due 1951, totals $4,741,500, while stock equity consists solely of 240,000 shares of no par stock. The issue currently pays annual dividends of $1.50 a share. The stock is medium grade.

◆

Public Service Co. of Oklahoma.

Investors' Guide: I own a $500 Public Service Oklahoma C bond. Will you please tell me something about it?—E. E. E.

Answer—This subsidiary of Central and Southwest Utilities company, part of the Middle West Utilities system, operates primarily in the farm and oil lands of Oklahoma. It supplies Tulsa and 112 other Oklahoma communities with electricity.

In 1933 some cuts were made in residential and commercial rates. These, however, in line with the anticipation of the management, resulted in greater business.

A 6 per cent increase in gross for the first nine months of 1934 over the corresponding 1933 period was reflected in a coverage of fixed charges of 1.83 times, against 1¾ times for the first nine months of 1933.

Gross in 1933 was $6,947,000, against $7,176,000 in 1932 and $8,809,000 in 1931. Charges were earned 1.45 times in 1933, 1.66 times in 1932, 2.08 times in 1931, and 3.23 times in 1930.

Current position at the close of 1933 was satisfactory.

The 5s due 1961 and the 5s due 1957 are secured by a first mortgage on all assets of the company. The bonds are a business man's investment.

New York, Jan. 3.—[Special.]—In the heaviest trading since Aug. 22, the listed bond market manifested considerable strength, reflecting January reinvestment demand. Turnover in bonds on the stock exchange reached $21,505,000 with dealings in United States government issues accounting for $10,670,000.

Most of the highs for the day in the government list were touched during the forenoon, the market ruling irregular in late trading with ten long term issues moving up 1-32d to 4-32ds point and ten selling off in exactly the same proportions.

HOLC Issues Steady.

Home Owners' Loan corporation bonds were steady despite news today that a bill has been introduced in congress to increase the authorized amount of these bonds by $3,000,000,000.

A sizable list of domestic corporation bonds were bid up 1 to 5 points, some to prices above their best levels of 1934. It was notable that the high-grade issues participated in the major gains along with speculative issues. Albany Perforated Paper company 6s due 1948 unexpectedly broke 14 points today, closing at 45. The total decline for the last two days was 19½ points.

Brazilians Sold Heavy.

Heavy selling of Brazilian bonds featured the foreign bond list. Various Brazilian government, provincial, and municipal loans were down 1¾ to 3¼ points for the day on reports that Brazil is unable to obtain sufficient foreign exchange to maintain the reduced payments called for under the agreement of last February. Other Latin American issues showed minor irregularities.

FEDERAL AGENCY TO CONTROL OIL INDUSTRY URGED

House Group Opposed to Present Regulations.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—[Special.] — A new federal agency with jurisdiction over the petroleum industry, and possibly over coal, timber, and other natural resources, was recommended today by a subcommittee on the house interstate commerce committee.

The group, headed by Representative Cole of Maryland, praised the work of Secretary Ickes as oil administrator, and the petroleum administrative board, but opposed continuation of oil regulations in their present form. It was suggested the proposed new agency absorb many activities now being carried on in various government departments.

Implied criticism of efforts to keep petroleum prices at high levels was contained in the report, which held that oil from present fields would supply us but fifteen years more.

States Urge Compact.

Meanwhile in Ponca City, Okla., by a 5 to 3 vote, a conference of oil state representatives approved a resolution of Governor Elect E. W. Marland of Oklahoma recommending federal legislation which would authorize an oil states compact and creation of a fact finding body on which the federal government would have representation.

The proposed measure would authorize the President to restrict importation and to prevent interstate transportation of "hot oil." Representatives of California, New Mexico, Kansas, Illinois, and Oklahoma voted in favor of the Marland resolution. Texas, Arkansas, and Louisiana opposed it.

On another front a published assertion that Texas was pledged to a program of waste and evasion of oil conservation laws started considerable discussion. The statement was published by Collier's Weekly in an article by Owen P. White, a native Texan.

Assail Texas Stand.

The Collier's article, with which the magazine said Secretary Ickes was familiar, said "the atmosphere of the east Texas field is tainted with bribery, thuggery, official dishonesty, and cheating by everybody."

"All states except one are trying to conserve their oil, obey the federal government, and coöperate," it said. "Texas isn't trying and according to what the newly elected governor told this writer it has no intention of doing so."

The house subcommittee's report recommended that the states approve interstate compacts for control of oil production and that after they have done so in their early spring sessions that a federal law be drafted, with the new agency coöperating with the states.

It was made clear in the report that much of the existing oil legislation had proved efficacious. The report suggested that the bureau of mines might be "revamped" and become the new administrative board. Secretary Ickes expressed an opinion, however, that such reorganization of the bureau of mines did not seem practical.

EXPAND DUTIES OF W. S. CLITHERO, ARMOUR OFFICIAL

W. S. Clithero, vice president of Armour & Co., has been appointed general provision manager in charge of hog buying, pork cutting, and production, it was announced yesterday by R. H. Cabell, chief executive of the packing company.

Mr. Clithero first became associated with the packing industry as an accountant with Morris & Co. in 1913, becoming controler of the firm in 1918 and remaining in that position until the concern was purchased by Armour in 1923. He has been a vice president of Armour since 1932.

He will be assisted in his new position by F. P. Capera, until recently packing plant manager at Oklahoma City, Okla., having been relieved at that post by T. J. Dee, who was general manager of the Chicago plant. Warren H. Sapp becomes Chicago general plant manager.

GRAINS DECLINE FROM DAY'S PEAK CLOSE IS HIGHER

Washington Is Dominant Market Influence.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The grain market began to awaken from its holiday drowsiness yesterday as speculators sniffed at the possibilities of the new congress. The inflation ghost had not been seen in the grain market in recent weeks, but he was resurrected and appeared in bold view yesterday as traders eyed the procession of congressmen in Washington frantically waving their latest bills proposing ways in which the government can speed up its spending program.

There was an expansion in outside speculative trading and the prices of all grains made moderate advances. May wheat rose 1½ cents a bushel to sell above the dollar mark, but lost part of its upturn before the day ended. The net gain was ⅞ cent a bushel, with the final sale at 99½ cents. Corn and other grains followed the upturn in wheat but also closed under their best prices of the day but holding fractional gains.

Final Prices Higher.

Final prices on the May grain futures were:

	Yesterday.	Wednesday.	Week ago.
Wheat	.99½	.98⅝	.99⅜
Corn	.89⅛	.88¾	.89⅝
Oats	.53⅝	.53	.53
Rye	.75¼	.74½	.75⅞

Strength in stock prices, weakness in dollar exchange against foreign currencies, and the general firming in commodity prices all tended to focus the attention of grain traders on Washington developments. Nothing very definite came out of the capital during the day. The spotlight is trained on the President and congress, however, to the near exclusion of other market factors. The trade is awaiting for the administration's show of hand in the presidential message today.

Aside from political news the market had the advantage of steady foreign prices. The Liverpool market was firm despite the preceding day's decline here. In Winnipeg wheat advanced moderately.

Cash Grain Advances.

Cash grain prices were higher with wheat advancing ½ to 1 cent a bushel and corn moving up 1 to 1½ cents. The extremely light movement of corn from the country into terminal markets was again emphasized by the day's small receipts. Total primary receipts were 158,000 bushels against 330,000 on the comparable day a year ago. A further decline in market supplies is looked for as commercial users draw upon them for current requirements.

Some houses reported indications of a seasonal increase in the milling demand for wheat. The demand from millers is now more evenly distributed throughout the year because of a provision of the millers' code barring flour sales for more than three months ahead unless the purchaser pays carrying charges.

Buying More Frequent.

Normally millers would be booking flour sales for future delivery on the basis of the September wheat future, but this is done away with by the code. As a result millers are coming into the market with greater frequency although their actual purchases are not increased.

Introduction in congress, among the numerous new bills proposed, of a measure calling for an embargo on rye imports had a buoying effect on the market in that grain which was ¾ cent a bushel higher at the close of the day.

STOCKS OF WHEAT OF FARMS SHOW VAST SHRINKAGE

Drop 133 Million Bushels in 2 Years, Says Murray.

Stocks of wheat remaining on the farms on Jan. 1 were estimated at 138,000,000 bushels yesterday by Nat C. Murray. The estimated farm supply is 52,000,000 below the total reported at the beginning of 1934, and 133,000,000 bushels under stocks on hand two years ago.

The official government report on farm supplies of wheat, corn, and oats will be issued Jan. 10.

Estimate of Supplies.

Total wheat stocks on Jan. 1 are estimated by Murray as follows [in millions of bushels]:

	1935.	1934.	1933.
On Farms	138	100	271
In Country Mills & Eleva	82	100	124
Commer Stocks [visible]	90	135	168
Three positions	310	423	563
In Merchant Mills etc.	..	130	135
Total	...	553	698

Data on merchant mill stocks are not yet available, but a tentative estimate of 100 to 110 million bushels is advanced by Murray. Averaging these two figures the indicated total supply on Jan. 1 was 415,000,000 bushels as compared with 553,000,000 bushels a year ago and 698,000,000 bushels two years ago.

Expect Greater Feed Use.

The disappearance of wheat during the next six months will be larger than a year ago because of the increased feeding of wheat to animals, according to Murray. The depletion will probably amount to 280,000,000 bushels as compared with 263,000,000 bushels in the first six months of 1934 and 307,000,000 bushels in the first half of 1933, according to the calculations. On this basis the total carryover of wheat on July 1, 1935, will amount to approximately 135,000,000 bushels.

ECONOMISTS SEE MUCH HARM IN 30 HOUR WORK WEEK

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Bills for compulsory observance of a thirty-hour week throughout industry, reintroduced in congress today were attacked by economists of the Brookings institution on the ground that they would reduce production, raise prices, impede foreign trade, lower the farmer's buying power and put industry in a straightjacket which would be disastrous to many businesses.

The analysis, made by Dr. Harold G. Moulton, president of the institution, and Dr. Maurice Leven, declared that passage of the proposed measures would intensify the depression and in the long run would offer to the workers merely a choice between more leisure and a more abundant consumption of goods and services.

"At best immediate effects would be a spread of employment at the expense of efficiency and productive output," the authorities stated. Maintaining that no legislative proposal had ever been advanced "which is more revolutionary in its economic and social implications," the economists admitted that the thirty-hour week had become "a primary national issue."

Their conclusion was that the proposed reduction in work hours "would inevitably mean a volume of wealth production substantially below the levels obtaining in 1929" and they declared that "what this country needs is not less production but more."

NO BIDS ARE EXPECTED AT FORECLOSURE SALE OF M. & ST. L. RAILROAD

New York, Jan. 3.—[Special.]—No bids are expected for the properties of the Minneapolis and St. Louis railroad when it is put up for sale on Feb. 11, it was said today in the financial district. Engineers of competing railroads have been looking over the 1,600 mile system at the suggestion of the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

In October Jesse Jones, chairman of the RFC, proposed to the presidents of eight railroads that they consider acquisition of the Minneapolis and St. Louis. He suggested that the road be acquired through a foreclosure sale with the aid of RFC financing.

Ralph Budd, president of the Burlington, sent engineers to investigate the advisibility of the Burlington buying 700 miles of the road, but it is understood that he reported it inadvisable for the Burlington to make the purchase.

Port of New Orleans Will Open Office in New York

H. Harley Gibson, who has been general agent at Chicago for the board of commissioners of the port of New Orleans, will leave for New York on Jan. 15 to open an office there. The Chicago office will be continued with its present personnel. Mr. Gibson will be in charge of both offices.

Fry Joins Booz Surveys; Firm Name Is Changed

George A. Fry has been admitted to partnership in the firm of Edwin G. Booz Surveys and the firm name changed to Edwin G. Booz and Fry Surveys, it was announced yesterday. An office has been opened at 285 Madison avenue, New York, under the supervision of Mr. Fry.

U. S. GOVERNMENT SPENDS $1 FOR EACH 52C TAKEN IN Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—(AP)—The government took in only 52 cents for every dollar it paid out in the first half of the present fiscal year. The treasury today reported expenditures of $3,545,017,914 as against collections of only $1,845,082,517.

A six months' deficit of $1,699,935,397 was incurred which swelled the public debt to $28,478,663,925, an amount equivalent to about $225 apiece for each man, woman, and child in the country.

The statement held that had it not been for the administration's efforts in behalf of relief the budget for the six months' period would have balanced. Expenditures for emergency relief amounted to $1,822,623,171 during the period. Ordinary expenditures of the government amounted to $1,722,394,743, indicating receipts of $1.07 by the treasury for every dollar spent in ordinary pursuits.

Included in the treasury's receipts, however, was $262,509,789 from processing taxes, which critics declared is emergency income, and therefore chargeable against emergency expenditures.

BRAZIL 'UNABLE' TO REMIT BOND INTEREST FUNDS

New York, Jan. 3.—[Special.]—New York paying agents for the coupons due on various Brazilian state and municipal dollar bond issues, due Jan. 1, 1935, were formally notified today by the Bank of Brazil that funds could not be transmitted at this time on the reduced scale under the governmental decree of Feb. 5, 1934.

This confirms reports that a debt holiday on Brazil's foreign debts was in prospect. Since the decree of last February there have frequently been delays in the payment of coupons on the dollar bonds, ranging from a few days to a month or more.

SUGAR SHORTS TO PAY PREMIUM OF 25 POINTS

Longs Protest Lightness of Squeeze Penalty.

New York, Jan. 3.—[Special.]—The board of managers of the New York Coffee and Sugar exchange today issued an official order requiring settlement of December, 1934, sugar contracts on the basis of a premium of 25 points over the spot quotation of 2.08 cents a pound, set by the exchange committee, ruling in the case of 7,950 tons for which sellers had issued transfer notices that default in the delivery was unintentional and unpremeditated.

With respect to approximately 24,000 tons of other sugar contracts for which no transfer notices were issued, the board of managers added a provision that the settlement ordered "shall not prejudice the right of any buyer to claim such additional damage as he may have incurred in the event that the seller's default was intentional and premeditated."

Longs Make Protest.

The protective committee for holders of December sugar contracts issued a statement declaring "that the short sellers in the market should be assessed penalties much heavier than the 25 points levied against them by the exchange. . . The 25 point penalty is provided for in the exchange rule 15 where failure to deliver is due to no fault of the short sellers. In this case the short sellers were at fault and the exchange has ample reason for decreeing a heavy penalty for wilful failure to deliver."

The group contended that the action of the exchange in suspending trading in December futures on Dec. 15 caused a loss to the longs because "had trading been kept open and the position liquidated under the ordinary trading rules, the holder of a long position in December would have been permitted to sell his contract at a price far better than that announced today by the board of managers.

Other Arguments.

It also argued that the delay in making the final ruling by the exchange has caused a loss to the longs, and that the spot price of 2.08 cents set by the exchange was a nominal price "because the only actual spot sugar, that could have been bought and used to deliver on the exchange, was Cuban sugar which could not have been sold below 2.185 cents."

FEBRUARY BUTTER REACHES HIGHEST PRICE SINCE 1931

Butter futures advanced to new high levels on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, February selling up to 29 cents, the hightest level since Nov. 19, 1931. Closing prices were ¼ to ⅜ cent per pound higher. January eggs gained ⅝ cent, Octobers lost ⅛ cent, and February dropped ¼ cent.

Prices of fresh standard butter went up to 30 cents, also a high in over three years. Receipts held light.

January eggs moved higher on short covering and scattered new buying. Storage withdrawals totaled 13,000 cases less than last year, but prospects of cold weather encouraged buyers. Octobers continued in moderate demand ⅛ cent under the previous close.

March potatoes sold at $1.65, compared with $2 a year ago.

Sales: Butter, 132 cars; eggs, 96 cars; potatoes, 3 cars. Deliveries: Butter, 1 car; potatoes, 1 car. Prices follow:

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was firm today and, although no sales were reported with spot prices quoted at 2.72c per lb, the last price at which sales were made, there was nothing offered, but it was believed that further buying interest could be found at this level. Reports from Havana to trade interests here said sales were made there of old crop Cuban sugars at 1.70c f. o. b. for delivery March 1, which would be equal to 2.72 to 2.75c delivered here.

Futures were firm and active, with some positions making new highs for the life of the contracts, although full advances were not maintained, with the market closing 5 to 6 points higher in the old contract and 3 to 4 points higher in the new. Sales were 48,850 tons in the old contract and 42,150 tons in the new.

Refined sugar was unchanged at 4.30c per lb for fine granulated, with only a moderate inquiry reported.

SHIPPERS EXPECT BUSINESS GAINS IN FIRST QUARTER

Place Car Requirements at 656,133 for Period.

be one of the best first quarters in years.

Plaster—up 10 per cent. Lumber and forest products—up 25 per cent. This is expected to be one of the best gains in years. Machinery—up 10 per cent. Paper—up 3 per cent. Paper pulp—up 18 per cent. Manufactured lumber products—a gain of about 15 per cent over last year which was subnormal. Waste material—up 30 per cent.

Those expected to hold about even include coal, chemicals, automobiles, sand, gravel and stone, glass containers, hay, silica sand and cornstarch, and allied products.

Canned Goods Down 20 Per Cent.

Decreases include canned goods, down about 20 per cent. This is a reflection of the poor pack of last year. Only canned milk will hold about even. Fresh fruit and vegetables, down about 11 per cent. This is largely due to the competition of trucks. Grain, down 12 per cent. Live stock, down 25 per cent. Poultry products, down 8 per cent. It was estimated that there are 6 per cent less producing hens on the farms than there were a year ago.

The territory embraced includes all of Iowa, Illinois, and Wisconsin, the west half of Indiana and the upper peninsula of Michigan.

Olin C. Castle of Washington, director of the car pooling section of the federal coördinator's office, emphasized the great waste to railroads and shippers under the present system of handling freight cars. He said the coordinator's plan permits the roads to retain ownership and initiated designation of their cars, and provides for their operation under a central control for the joint and proportionate benefit of car owners and car users."

COTTON CLOSES UNSETTLED ON SCATTERED LIQUIDATION

Cotton markets were dull yesterday, buying by the far east resulting in a small upturn, but later scattered liquidation by holders of May and October developed and the finish was unsettled. Final trades in Chicago were 5 points higher to 3 points lower and other markets 5 points lower to 2 points higher. Trade in the aggregate was not large. Spot cotton was unchanged. Prices:

CATTLE, SHEEP RISE SHARPLY; DEMAND ACTIVE

Cattle and sheep prices advanced in buoyant markets yesterday and hogs recovered an early break to close strong. Demand in all departments was the broadest since the general rise in prices began and yesterday's gains were made on larger receipts. Arrivals of cattle, hogs, and sheep at Chicago the first four days of this week showed an increase of almost 50,000 head compared with last week.

Cattle receipts at 9,000, including 1,000 government owned, were second largest for a Thursday in nine weeks. However, buying orders were larger and a big part of the run cleared at advances of 15 to 25 cents compared with the previous session. Prices in many instances were 50 to 75 cents above the low spot of last week.

Large local packers were strong competitors in the better grades of cattle. The top rose to $11.15 for steers averaging 1,326 to 1,374 pounds, the highest mark since January, 1932, when the top reached $11.40.

Hogs fluctuated erratically at the opening, but worked strong to higher toward the close, with the average for the day fully steady at $9.60, including the $2.25 processing tax. Top sales held at $10.

Packers were on the market for lambs early in the day and ran into a lot of competition from outside interests at the 25 to 35 cent higher price levels. Some sales at the close were up 50 cents.

WESTINGHOUSE MAY DISTRIBUTE ITS RADIO STOCK

New York, Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Directors of Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company are expected to vote distribution of remaining holdings of Radio corporation common stock at their meeting Tuesday.

In 1932 a court ordered the company to dispose of its Radio stock within three years. Last year at this time the company distributed approximately one-half of the 2,842,950 shares it held as dividends to its own common stockholders. The company has until next November to dispose of the stock. Should it decide to apply to Radio stock preferred dividends, it is expected a cash option probably will be offered, as was done two years ago.

The court ruling was issued after litigation brought by the government against Westinghouse, Radio corporation, and General Electric on an antitrust charge. General Electric already has disposed of its Radio corporation stock holdings.

LARD PRICES CLOSE STEADY TO TWENTY POINTS HIGHER

An early decline in the hog market started a selling movement in lard futures yesterday, and some stop loss orders were uncovered on the way down, but the late strength in hogs and also grain brought in aggressive commission house buying and sent prices up around 25 points from the inside level. Final trades were unchanged to 20 points higher, with January showing the most strength. Packers were buyers on the early decline.

Hedging pressure developed in bellies with the close 5 points higher to 17½ points lower. A fair cash trade was reported with cash lard quoted at the last at 12.85 cents; loose, 12¼ cents; leaf, 12½ cents, and bellies, 16.17 cents per pound. Prices follow:

MEN

I could never begin to put in writing the real meaning of this opportunity. It is difficult to write an ad that will attract the attention of good men, due to the fact that so many advertisements appear in the paper.

Our business is wonderful and is getting better every day. We are very optimistic and enthusiastic about the outcome of 1935. Our men are happy in their work—MAKING FROM $35 TO $200 PER WEEK. I could list 50 names, but it would only take up a lot of space.

It doesn't matter what line of work you have been following. If you are out of a job here is a lifetime opportunity that I will prove to you pays more money than any other proposition in the country.

We are merchandising an electrical product and pay a dealer comm. and bonus.

FRIDAY ONLY
HOURS 9 A. M. TO 12 NOON.
HOTEL MORRISON
Parlor "A"
MADISON AND CLARK-STS.

I WANT A MAN WHO IS CAPABLE OF making not under $3,250 in 1935 and who does not have to be a topnotcher in this successful business to do that. You may make more, but let's shoot at that reasonable mark.

I is a high class proposition and a man must have the qualities that a good business man or other good worker would naturally possess. It costs us a good deal of money in this pre-eminent electrical service unit, and distribution field, but we will invest in training the man who shows promise and is a real worker.

You can count on your big commissions regularly and never worry about permanency. I shall make a selection for this opening at 1 p. m. Fri., Jan. 4, in Room 6 State Bank Bldg., Park Ridge. Try to be a few minutes ahead of time!

MEN LIVING IN DES PLAINES, PARK Ridge, Bensenville, Schiller Park, Franklin Park, Mt. Prospect, Arlington Hghts., Niles, Niles Center, Glen View, and near-by towns—we are ready to consider backing you in business in your own communities. We have abundant capital; our mechanical units and service have proved leaders in their field, and men who join us have the certainty of big com. checks and an opportunity to build permanently.

Territory allotted to high class men equals population served by about 75 grocers. No competition. A high class calling for men of right caliber. Car is of value to you.

If you are interested I will talk it over with you in Room 8 Winkelman Bldg., 706 Center-st., Des Plaines, at 10 a. m. only, Friday, Jan. 4.

AT ONCE.

Three intelligent, neat appearing men who desire a permanent connection handling our mechanical device; must be willing to work 8 hours a day; start on our terms. Yes—the Famous Marinello Training Costs You More!

The complete Marinello course of Beauty Culture is the highest priced in Chicago. The excellence of our graduates has gained for Marinello a position of leadership—never approached in the field of Beauty Culture.

Your success and happiness are at stake in the selection of a special training. Ambiguous statements and flowery promises have often misled the most cautious. Judge the possibilities of your future success by the past accomplishments of an institution whose enviable record speaks for itself.

MARINELLO graduates are welcomed everywhere by Beauty Shops both large and small. Such popularity and esteem must be merited. MARINELLO has merited it—MARINELLO graduates uphold and profit by it!
